Shot Takes Life

Lee Forrest, 95, 229 Alabama St., was shot to death Sunday afternoon with a shotgun in Sunset Addition, Sikeston police reported today.

George Washington, 44, 307B Alabama St., has been taken into custody by police and is being held for investigation of the shooting.

Forrest's body was found in the driveway at Washington's house. He had been shot in the neck with a 20 gauge shotgun with a number six shell, police reported.

Washington admitted to police that he shot Forrest after Forrest threatened to shoot him with a pistol.

No charges have been filed in the shooting yet. Coroner Gene Nunnelee said an inquest may be held later, if it is ordered by the prosecuting attorney's office.

CATHY KEM was crowned Miss Matthews at the fifth annual fall festival Saturday.

HHH Hopes For Scaledown Of Troops

TOLEDO, Ohio AP — Hubert H. Humphrey told Toledo housewifes today "it is my hope and my intention" to scale down American troop commitments in Vietnam - even should Hanoi balks at peace terms.

The Democratic presidential candidate addressed an overflow crowd of women and a few squaling infants - in a grade school gymnasium.

"If we cannot be successful in negotiations," he said, "it is my hope and my intention to re-assess the Vietnam situation.

The reassessment, he said, would look toward the reduction of this country's contribution to the war, particularly in numbers of combat troops.

In Sunday's campaigning in Ohio before his biggest - yet crowds, Humphrey kept open his option to disagree with President Johnson on the war, but pledged that Hanoi wouldn't get any easier terms from him.

He told the Toledo housewives he would look toward a systematic cutback in the number of American fighting men in Southeast Asia, "keeping in mind the safety of the troops that remain and the safety of South Vietnam."

Cathy Kem Wears Matthews Crown

MATTHEWS - Miss Cathy Kem, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Kem, was crowned Miss Matthews Saturday at the fifth annual Fall Festival, by Mayor Harold Burch,

Miss Shelia Burch, 17, was selected first alternate. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Burch.

The new Miss Matthews, a junior in high school, was awarded a pendant watch and an arm bouquet of red roses. Miss Burch received a gold engraved necklace, and a silver engraved necklace was presented Miss Sexton.

Judges were Mrs. Gertrude Schuerenberg, Kewanee, and Mrs. Joanne Fox and Miss Judy Matthews, both of Sikeston. Mrs. Earlyne Barnes was chairman of the contest.

Preceding the beauty pageant, a parade was held featuring floats, New Madrid junior and senior high school bands, Lilbourn high school band and the queen contestants.

Taking first prize of $35 for the best float was the carousel entered by the employes of the University of Missouri Delta Center in Portageville. The Business and Professional Women's float from Parma placed second and received $25. The New Madrid County Library float depicting Home on the Range was awarded third prize of $15.

Mrs. Larry Richards was parade chairman.

Wallace Admits Surprise At Own Campaign Success

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — "My campaign," said a grinning George C. Wallace to an audience in Dallas the other day, "reminds me of the old joke that begins, 'They laughed when I sat down to play...'

"Well," he said to the boom of applause and the scream of rebel yells, "not many Democrats or Republicans are laughing now."

Wallace has said that even he, whose political antennae are probably as sensitive as anybody's, did not anticipate when he announced his third-party candidacy in January the degree of success it would achieve by late September.

Wallace, for example, expected his "mission impossible" task force of Alabama lawyers to win for him a place on the ballots of 40 states at most.

Last week, when he met the qualifications of the 50th state —although Ohio remains in doubt—he began referring to the Democrats and Republicans as "the other two national parties."

He says his campaign treasury is in good condition, "but don't get the idea we're swimming in money," and he plans to eliminate many of the fundraising dinners that have been a staple of his campaign appearances. There also is a rumor that he soon will replace his prop-driven DC7 airplane with a speedier prop-jet model.

He also plans to slow the pace of his campaign. Last Friday he completed a fatiguing swing through the Southwest, Midwest and South, and will not resume again until next Friday, when he will embark on a trip through the Northeast, Midwest and Far West.

The secret of Wallace's success has become clear as his traveling road show—complete with a country band and two blonde vocalists—the Taylor Sisters, Mona and Lisa—has wound its way through 31 states. Wallace has demonstrated an acute sense of the fundamental fears and irritations that gnaw at a great many bewildered Americans, and an ability to speak of them in simple, colorful terms.

Concerning law and order, for example, the visceral issue of his campaign, Wallace says the Democratic and Republican candidates promised to enforce the law but that both of them, by past policies, had helped to bring about "today's anarchy."

"I reply to them," Wallace said the other night in Florida, "in the words of an old hillbilly song: 'It's too late to ask for forgiveness.'"

"Tell it like it is, George!" has become a slogan shrieked at rallies from Milwaukee to Montgomery, Lowell to Long Beach.

His appeal is pitched to men who attend his rallies in shirts with open collars, women in toreador pants, though suits and ties are well-represented, and lately, a growing number of young people have been on hand.

"Folks have been looking down their noses at us rednecks long enough," Wallace tells them, "and we're going to show them on Nov. 5 that there are more of us than them."

He says his views "represent the mainstream of American thought" and that he has a better than an outside chance of winning the election.

He sneers at the "scientific polls" which currently reflect the support of about 20 per cent of the electorate, recalls his unpredicted success when he ran in primary elections in 1964, and predicts, "We're going to put a lot of pollsters out of business on election day."

Last week aboard his lumbering campaign airplane he cracked to his traveling corps of newsmen: "Do you fellows think either Mr. Nixon or Mr. Humphrey will get enough votes to throw this election into the House of Representatives?"

GM Car Prices Up $49

DETROIT (AP) - General Motors, giant of the auto industry, today announced price increases which averaged $49 or nearly 50 per cent under figures announced by Chrysler last week.

GM Board Chairman James M. Roche denied there had been any pressure from Washington sources to get General Motors to come in with a smaller figure than Chrysler had one as the 1969 cars headed toward the market.

"There were frank discussions in Washington, but I assure you General Motors' decision as usual was made by General Motors people before we even went to Washington," Roche told a news conference.

General Motors, in figuring out its $49, or 1.6 per cent per car price boost, used list price figures, those which the companies charge its dealers. Chrysler, hich was the first of the auto companies to post its new list prices had figured the increases at $84, or 2.9 per cent ever its 1968 list prices.

The prices as announced by General Motors did not include federal excise tax and dealer handling and preparation charges. Those items are included on the so-called sticker price which a buyer would find on a car in his dealer's showroom.

Working from that sticker price, GM's average increase would be $52 or 1.6 per cent, contrasted with an $89 or 2.5 per cent increase which Chrysler used on its sticker prices this year.

Roche, in explaining GM'S decision to use list prices in its formal announcement to the press, said "confusion sometimes results from the various elements that are combined when one is figuring out different types of auto prices."

Nixon Runs Leisurely But Cautious Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, confident but cautious, is campaigning for the White House from a script which emphasizes television and devotes little public attention to his two presidential opponents.

Nixon tells the crowds—generally big ones—that a nation in trouble should not turn for leadership to a member of the administration that got it there.

George C. Wallace, the third party candidate, gets not a word from Nixon on the campaign platform. The Republican nominee contends that would only build up Wallace, so he never mentions the man.

Nevertheless, Wallace is a matter of real concern to Nixon's strategists. They believe Nixon can maintain his current lead in the opinion polls, and translate it into victory over Humphrey. But they share a fear that Wallace might win enough electoral votes to deny a majority to either of the major party candidates, thus sending the election to the House of Representatives.

Robert Ellsworth, Nixon's national political director, charged in an interview that the Democrats have a conscious strategy designed to do just that.

"The Democrats are doing everything they can to build up Wallace," Ellsworth said. He said they see in a House decision their best chance of denying Nixon the presidency.

Nixon's campaign pace is generally a leisurely one, with two or three speeches a day, each virtually identical. The schedule is shaped around television, and the question-and-answer programs Nixon is staging in the major states.

There have been four so far: Ohio, Illinois, California and Pennsylvania.

There will be at least a halfdozen more. Nixon's travels are frequently structured around the campaign television shows. So is his schedule. Each of them is preceded by a day of relaxation and preparation.

Nixon's campaign speech features an appeal to the people the candidate calls forgotten Americans. "You are Republicans, you are Democrats, you are independents," Nixon says. "You have been quiet. You have been going to work and you have been paying your taxes and supporting your schools."

But now, says Nixon, these quiet, forgotten Americans are aroused and ready to speak out with votes on Nov. 5.

The set speech's main assault on Humphrey links the vice president to that administration.

His schedule is being kept flexible, made up 10 days to two weeks in advance, so that the nominee can devote his time to states in which his advisors believe a campaign nudge is needed.

That could include extra television appearances in some key states.

While the word is out against overconfidence, the word also is out that if the polls continue to run as they have, Nixon will feel free in the weeks ahead to campaign in some states with few electoral votes but with Republicans running for Senate or House seats or governorships.

"You may see more of that," one Nixon advisor said.

Morley Man Arrested

MORLEY--W. R. Rodgers, about, 55, was arrested by the sheriff's department Saturday afternoon and will be charged with peace disturbance, Sheriff John Dennis said today. Rodgers was drunk and was threatening residents with a knife, the sheriff charged.

Trooper Injured In Hunt Mishap

HAYTI — Highway Trooper Kenneth Howell, accompanied by John Turnage, both of Hayti, were squirrel hunting Sunday when Howell was struck accidentally by shotgun pellets from Turnage's gun.

The two men had separated. As the trooper was walking over a hill he was struck by five pellets from the gun of his companion.

Howell was treated at the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital, was released, and has returned to his duties.

News Briefs

Festus Expansion Contested

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Two proud residents of Herculaneum, Mo., where shot and lead was produced for the War of 1812, are searching the dusty archives of the state for records that might help forestall encroachment from Festus, Mo.

Festus wants to annex land close to the old town lines of Herculaneum. Some records reportedly indicate Herculaneum may have been incorporated back in 1819 when Missouri was still a territory. If it was, that may be ammunition to shoot down Festus plans to expand in the direction of Herculaneum.

Donald Stotler and his wife came to Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick's office today to check old records. They also want to look over other state archives.

A history of Missouri, produced by the State Historical Society in 1942, shows that Moses Austin and Samuel Hammond laid out the town of Herculaneum on 400 arpens of land they purchased from Judathan Kendall early in 1809. An arpen is an old french land measure closely equivalent to an acre.

Herculaneum had the first post office in the county and when Jefferson county was created in 1818 it became the first county seat. In the 1830s, however, the county seat was moved to Monticello, now Hillsboro.

The historical society's records showed that Herculaneum never had been incorporated. But the Stotlers are still searching records for more than that wispy report of an incorporation in 1819.

Major Rail Strike Possible

CHICAGO (AP) — Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen have voted to authorize a strike which a union spokesman said could tie up all major railroads in the nation.

C. J. Chamberlain, international union president, said today that more than 90 per cent of the ballots were in favor of authorizing a strike.

He said a federal mediator will enter the negotiations Wednesday and that if after a reasonable time no progress is made a strike date then would be set.

The 13,000 - member union is seeking a 25 per cent wage increase over three years, retroactive to July 1. Chamberlain said the carriers have offered wage hikes amounting to about 9 per cent over 18 months.

Thant Says Bomb Halt Favored

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary - General U Thant expressed belief today that a majority of the 124 members of the United Nations would vote for an immediate cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam if the issue were put to a test.

He told a news conference he was convinced he was voicing the conscience of the world in continuing to urge a total bombing halt as an essential first step toward meaningful Vietnam peace talks.

Thant added, however, that he didn't "see any light at the end of the tunnel for another year or more."

The secretary - general dealt with a wide range of world problems, including the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia, the Nigerian civil war, Red China and Soviet claims that the U.N. Charter permits Soviet military intervention in West Germany to curb an alleged threat of Nazi resurgence.

Carnival Fever Rising

The usual park bench procrastinators who daily solve the problems of the world in American Legion Park were surrounded today by hustling soda distributors, mechanics and rows of tents.

Final preparations for the opening of the 24th annual Cotton Carnival at 3 p.m. today were underway this morning.

Glenn McClellan, general chairman of the American Legion's event, said everything is running smoothly and the main attractions will be three contests.

The cotton top king and queen will be crowned Wednesday night by Vernon Landgraf, Republican candidate for 10th district Congressman. The event will start at 7:30 p.m. on a stage to be placed on North New Madrid street in the center of the carnival grounds. William Pinnell is chairman. About 60 contestants have entered.

Miss Sikeston will be chosen Friday night in an event slated to follow the Sikeston-Charleston football game. It is expected to start at 10 p.m. Eighteen girls will vie for the title. Miss Sikeston will be crowned by Lt. Gov. Thomas Eagleton, candidate for U.S. Senator.

Miss Cotton Carnival will be crowned Saturday by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes following the parade at 10:30 a.m.

Bill Scarbrough is chairman of both queen contests. In the event of rain during any of the contests, they will be held at the American Legion Hall on South Kingshighway.

Merchants days will be held today and tomorrow. Tickets for rides will be sold at reduced rates for children each day. Wednesday is school day. Rides will be given at a cut rate from 3 p.m. till 6 p.m.

Activities will begin at 3 p.m. today through Friday. Saturday rides and concessions are expected to be open all day.

Proceeds will be used for the purchase of equipment for a rescue squad.

Six Injured in Falls Treated

Gun Blast Subdues Wanted Man

POPLAR BLUFF--Deputy sheriff Austin Urich of Butler county, early today, arrested Richard Piganowski, 30, Ellsinore, who was traveling on highway 67 north of here.

Urich had a warrant, charging the Ellsinore man with comman assault in beating up Donna Walloy in Poplar Bluff on Sept. 15, according to the Butler county prosecuting attorneys office.

Piganowski, who was accompanied by three children, ages three to ten, was forced to stop his car. He got out and started to attack the deputy when Urich shot him with shotgun, about 1 a.m.

Trooper Don Frazier had given chase earlier, but was unable to stop the 1965 Ford driven by Piganowski, and called for assistance.

Frazier caught up with the fleeing car, after Urich had forced him to stop, and drove in front of the Ford to assist the deputy, when the struggle occurred.

The Ellsinore man was taken to the Lucy Lee hospital in Poplar Bluff, and treated for shotgun pellet wounds. He is not believed to be in a serious condition.

DAEOC Leases Six Vehicles

PORTAGEVILLE — Six modern air-conditioned service vehicles have been leased to serve the six counties of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation. One vehicle is being assigned to each county.

They will be used to transport and distribute surplus food to families who are unable to reach the commodity distribution centers because of age, illness, or lack of transportation and to distribute supplies other than food for the centers being operated under DAEOC.

The six counties served by DAEOC are Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

Humphrey Depending On Lively Campaign

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign is showing smoke if not fire. With his quest for the presidency in its second week, the vice president drew in Toledo what appeared to be the biggest crowds of his campaign—and he was as obviously delighted as a boy with a double dip ice cream cone.

"Thank you, thank you very much," he said beamingly, pumping hands as a hundred or more persons crowded around his car Sunday outside an ice cream parlor.

Humphrey is behind and knows it. He started late and slow. Even the money, he says, is in short supply, thus his television advertising was late. He also feels the turbulence surrounding the Chicago convention hurt him in the polls.

But Humphrey, the cheerful exponent of the politics of hope, still manages to sound confident.

Wait until the middle of October, he says, then go out and cover all the Nixon money available. "We're going to win," he says.

Although Humphrey was the frontrunner, he came out of the convention without much treasury or organization. And Humphrey was disappointed in the first week of his campaign.

He sprinted from coast to coast and back—with a tailwind of disappointing crowds, hecklers and snubs from Texas Gov. John Connally and California's Jesse Unruh, as well as some well-publicized oratorical miscues over the party's Vietnam plank and the withdrawal of troops from Vietnam.

Humphrey was tired—trying to cover too much ground, talking too long without guarding his tongue closely enough and campaigning past midnight.

The first postconvention poll results came in and Richard M. Nixon, his Republican opponent, was still far ahead.

Even then, Humphrey saw a bright side—that now antiwar dissidents could see that their next president would be Nixon if they didn't do something for Humphrey.

More advance men then were added to his campaign to bring out the crowds. The scheduling crew was shaken up. Enough money was collected so that Humphrey could go ahead with his advertising.

In addition, Humphrey was endorsed by President Johnson. And from the other side of the Vietnam issue, he won public embraces from Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, George S. McGovern and Wayne Morse. He also made a pilgrimage to see the Democrat who pulled off one of history's best-known political upsets, Harry S. Truman.

Would all this activity be enough? Humphrey thinks he can win by taking the offense against Nixon on issues of personality, prosperity, by calling for civil justice as well as law and order and by trying to paint Nixon as more of a hawk or foreign policy hardliner than Humphrey.

Nor is Humphrey reluctant to portray himself as, if not the best presidential candidate possible, at least a better alternative than Nixon or George C. Wallace.

His biggest problem, and he knows it, is Vietnam. He is said to be under strong pressure to make some dramatic gesture or statement that would divorce him from the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy. It seemed unlikely that he would.

But he is again hitting with greater emphasis that while he is only a vice president and a candidate now and thus with no control over events, he would put an end to the war on top of his priorities as president.

UNICEF Appeals Approach

UNICEF time is almost here again.

This year "Tricks or Treat for UNICEF" will be heard on Hallowe'en, Oct. 31. Plans are getting underway to canvas the city by children from 30 churches. The collection time will be from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The program will be sponsored by the Church Women United, Mrs. Burt Rowe, Sr. president. Named as UNICEF chairman is Mrs. Bernard Rice with Mrs. Marjorie Hopkins as co-chairman. Mrs. Oren Dahl will serve as collection chairman and the First National Bank will be collection headquarters. UNICEF Christmas cards will be sold by the church women with Mrs. William S. Corrigan in charge. The sale of the cards will be held during the weeks of Nov. 11 and Nov. 18 at the post office from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. each weekday.

Proceeds from one box of cards will protect 50 children against tuberculosis or provide many with nourishing food. Artists have donated their talents to design the cards. Also available will be the new 1969 UNICEF calendars.

An art project is being planned by Miss Harriet Jones, art supervisor of the public schools, assisted by Mrs. Phil Campagna and children from all elementary schools.

Book marks will be placed in the school libraries and the public library telling how five cents will provide vaccine to protect four children from tuberculosis, but 30 vitamin tablets or 30 glasses of milk.

Orange and black collection cartons will be placed in stores throughout the downtown area as well as the Mid-Towner Shopping Center.

Volunteers are needed for both the drive and the selling of cards. Any individuals or groups interested in lending a helping hand may call Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Rowe, or Mrs. Corrigan.

Juvenile Captured

BENTON-- A juvenile was picked up in Sikeston Sunday by police after escaping from the juvenile cell in the court house Saturday night, Sheriff John Dennis said today.

The juvenile, who was being held on a bad check charge, kicked a hole in the cell wall to make his escape.

Curtis Will Speak Thursday

Congressman Thomas B. Curtis, St. Louis, will be in Sikeston Thursday, for a press conference and address.

He will hold a press conference at the Holiday Inn at 6:30 p.m., and will speak at a dinner at Two Tony's at 7:15 p.m., according to C. Robert Scott, chairman, Scott county Republican social committee.

Tickets are available from Scott or at the headquarters by calling 471-3721.

Dr. Johnson Installed As Dental President

Dr. G. H. Bredall, Perryville, a district and state association past president, was honored for 50 years of practice.

The 1969 fall meeting will be in Poplar Bluff.

Dr. Johnson has been selected as a people to people delegate to Europe in the spring. The tour is sponsored by People to People Inc., Kansas City, and the Missouri Dental Society.

Countries on the tour will be Belgium, Sweden, the Soviet Union, Poland, German and Czechoslovakia. Dr. Johnson will fly from New York April 30 and return May 21.

Dr. Johnson has practiced dentistry 30 years, 13 in Sikeston. He is a graduate of the Kansas City Western Dental College, which now is associated with the University of Missouri.

Three Injured in Traffic Accidents

The highway patrol reported three injuries in traffic accidents over the weekend.

A one-car accident Sunday at 7:20 a.m. at the intersection of Interstate 55 and 57, four miles east of Sikeston, sent James Beal, 21, Chicago driver of a 1965 Pontiac to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where he was treated for head cuts.

The patrol said he apparently went to sleep, ran off the road, and struck a highway marker.

A two-car collision Sunday at 4 p.m. in Dexter, resulted on cuts on the knee for Deborah Nochta, 16, Dexter.

She was driving a 1968 Pontiac, when it collided with a 1967 Chevrolet, driven by Creal Black, 71, at an unmarked intersection. The Pontiac ran into the side of the Black car.

Dennis Lancaster, 20, Randles, driver of a 1965 Pontiac, was treated for scratches and bruises in a one-car accident Saturday at 6:45 p.m. in Perkins.

He was taken to St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Think this over: "Society can have law and order without freedom, tho society can remain free without law and order."

BATTLER FROM 'BAMA

Southeast Missourians who attended yesterday's Wallace - for - President rally at Cape Girardeau couldn't have been disappointed in the weather, the crowd, the enthusiasm or the candidate himself. The weather was perfect, the crowd was estimated at 6,000 persons, the enthusiasm would rival any Bootheel political rally, and as for the candidate, George C. Wallace lived up to all of his advance billings. And perhaps a little more.

Striking out at some of the innumerable frustrations felt by Americans in 1968, the former Alabama Governor addressed himself to such subjects as law and order, busing of school children, the federal open housing act, farm income, student protest movements, the Vietnam war and back again to law and order. All of these subjects, in varying degrees, have provided the frustrations of 1968, a year in which political history in this section of the state and even perhaps across the nation may well be rewritten.

Although he disclaims any "Wallace phenomenon," the 6,000 persons who attended yesterday's rally in this Democratic stronghold of Missouri disproved it. For here were 6,000 Southeast Missourians who were neither racists nor radicals, neither red-necks nor revolutionaries. For the most part they were solid, respectable, middle - class American citizens who had come to hear a candidate for the President of the United States discuss the same problems they, themselves, have been discussing. And these Southeast Missourians were not disappointed in what they heard.

Indeed, Wallace had an answer for nearly every problem, even if some of the answers were a little too simple for the complex dilemmas facing the nation. Recognizing this, the candidate promised a full discussion of his position on every major problem with the release of a platform by the American Independent Party.

Wallace seemed anxious to impress upon the crowd two facts: First, he could be trusted to love "the folks" as much after election as he does now, and, secondly, if "the folks" will go out and work for him, he has a chance to be elected President. We have no reason to doubt his sincerity in the first instance, and in the second instance, we suspect that he will be closer to the truth on November 5 than a good many Americans now realize.

While Richard Nixon is out enthusing the Republicans, who number some 26 per cent of the registered voters, and while Hubert Humphrey is still trying to rouse anyone, Wallace's campaign has no trouble reaching into what may well be called the mainstream of today's America. If George Wallace is attracting the kind of crowds and the kind of enthusiasm in the northern industrial states that he attracted in Southeast Missouri yesterday, then all general election bets are off. Wallace took particular pains to tell newsmen yesterday that he was, indeed, doing as well elsewhere as he's doing in the South and the border states. While often critical of the press in his speech yesterday, Wallace did not hesitate to try to use the news media to get across the message that he is gaining on both candidates, that he will get more steam in the weeks ahead, and that, come November 5, the liberals and the non-believers will be as shocked as the Republicans were in 1948.

Wallace has promised that if elected President he will solve many of the frustrations now facing the nation. But things don't always work out that way, as evidence President Kennedy's inability to get his programs through Congress. It is a mistake to label the American Independent Party as a political organization; it is not. It carries few candidates other than George Wallace and promises no majority in either the House or the Senate. John Kennedy couldn't get legislation through the Congress and he had a majority in both houses; George Wallace as President would find the going even tougher. These are the political facts of life, as practiced in the nation's capital.

The greatest contribution Wallace has made thus far is to point up some of the deep and abiding frustrations of mainstream America. His greatest failure to date has been to provide adequate solutions to most of these problems, unless one wishes to take him at his word and accept as gospel his promise to change everything that's bad in the nation today.

The greatest fault of both the Democratic and Republican parties is to provide a reason for a George Wallace in the first place. There is more than slight truth to Wallace's contention that both parties stand pretty much for the same thing. The Democrats and Republicans excuse this on the ground that national problems are complex and solutions rest more in the techniques of solution than simple, pat answers. In this, they have a point.

But the political point of 1968 is that George Wallace is gaining on both Mr. Nixon and Mrs. Humphrey. We believe both of them have already looked over their shoulders to catch a glimpse of the candidate from Alabama.

Who was it who said not all winners are ahead at the half-way mark?

As we recall, his name was Truman.

ASKING FOR IT

Only a few years ago it would have been inconceivable that a candidate for President of the United States would appear on a television variety show and say, "Sock it to me." Yet Newsweek magazine reports (Aug. 5, 1968) that that's just what former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will do on the Rowan and Martin program on Monday evening, Sept. 16. The three-second spot was taped before the Miami REpublican convention. Nixon-Agnew headquarters in New York City confirm the appearance.

The pragmatic reasoning is simple. Rowan and Martin command perhaps 30 million viewers. Politics and television have contracted an informal, mutually uneasy marriage of convenience in recent years. Candidates of both major parties show up on the Johnny Carson show late in the evening and the Today show at breakfast time.

No candidate for high national or state office can afford to ignore a medium that reaches at least 98 per cent of all American households wired for electricity. Television politics is costly, both to the candidates and the broadcasters. Few politicos are going to turn down even three seconds of national prime time.

More than one-fifth of all taxes collected by the 50 states in fiscal 1967 resulted from special levies on highway users, according to figures reported by the U.S. Department of Commerce. Of the nearly $32 billion in total state tax collections during the year, more than $7 billion, or about 22 per cent, was accounted for by motor vehicle owners and operators. State motor fuel taxes, averaging 6.6 cents a gallon, totaled $4.8 billion. Motor vehicle fees provided $2.2 billion and drivers' licenses about $165 million. -- "Oil Facts" published by the American Petroleum Institute.

THOROUGHLY ENJOYABLE TO US Thursday night was Walter Cronkhite's interview with Mayor Daley of Chicago. It started out with the CBS top news man asking the questions, but Mayor Daley took the interview away from him and wanted to know why CBS and the press in general,had said nothing about the number of policemen injured by the demonstrators, about the one clubbed with a board which had a nail in it. As we have already said, we think Mayor Daley maintained law and order and if his police beat up some demonstrators, they deserved what they got.

WHAT TO WEAR ON AN AUTUMN TRIP

"Dress comfortably and travel light, but don't forget that autumn weather can change on short notice. And don't forget to take along an extra pair of well broken-in shoes. Be sure to wear your seat belts at all times in the car.

Among the most important items of wear are the windshield wipers. No matter whether the wiper mechanism still works like a metronome, if the blades streak you can't trust them. Have them refilled or replaced. Don't wear signs or doodads or swinging knickknacks in the windows of your car. Keep your visibility as clear as the clear blue sky.

Take along a raincoat or a top coat that you can wear when needed away from home.

THE LAW'S HALTER ON DR. SPOCK

"A child, like an adult, knows when he is getting away with too much naughtiness or rudeness even when his mother is trying to close her eyes to it. He feels guilty inside. He would like to be stopped. But if he isn't corrected, he's likely to behave worse and worse. It's as if he were saying, 'How bad do I have to be before somebody stops me?'"

From "Baby and Child Care," by Benjamin Spock, M.D.

Dr. Spock, of course, is not a child, nor does he fell at all guilty inside for behaving "naughtily"—for having encouraged resistance to the draft. Entirely the contrary; the highest personal moral motives impelled him to do what he did.

Nor is society in the position of parent to Dr. Spock. Yet there is a parallel between the situation described above by the famed baby doctor and the situation society found itself in because of his opposition to the war in Vietanm.

America, the wails of the way-out liberals notwithstanding, still tolerates a great deal of dissent—perhaps more than it ever has in history. Because it does, Spock and his associates had to deliberately court a confrontation with authority and had to go to extreme lengths before the government could be proded into indicting them on a charge of "conspiring to counsel young men to evade the draft."

A point was finally reached when authority could no longer close its eyes and realize that if respect for the law were not enforced, the actions of the dissenters would get worse and worse. It was as if it said, "How bad can we allow them to get before we stop them?"

As Federal Judge Francis Ford stated at the time of sentencing Spock and his three co-defendants, they had been found guilty of "what amounts to rebellion against the law. It is important that the laws be enforce for the protection of each one of us. I believe that lawlessness cannot be tolerated. Where the law and order stops, anarchy begins."

That is what the trial and conviction of Dr. Spock was all about. It had nothing to do with the suppression of free speech or the crushing of opposition to government policy.

There is no doubt that Dr. Spock is convinced of the immorality of the Vietnam war and the evil of a law that requires young men to fight in it. He could go on decrying the war and the law for as long as the war lasted and no one would question his right to do so.

He chose, however, the tactic of outright violation of the law in order to dramatize his beliefs and to arouse the consciences of those Americans who aren't sure or who perhaps don't care.

In that, he has so far failed. Another generation may vindicate him and hail him as a hero. Or it may very well decide that the course he advocated would have led to even greater evils than those he denounced.

Whatever the event, the good doctor today stands convicted of breaking the law and has no choice but to take his medicine.

Long addicted to using the pound sterling in international trade - and ideology be damned, Communist China switched to the French franc last November when the pound was devalued.

TAKE OVER THE ENEMY

For the last third of a century or more, the 99 per cent non-communist part of the U.S. population has been losing a battle to the one per cent who are better organized. The anti-freedomists constituting this small percentage make no secret of their intention to take over the nation. But that does not have to happen. A better plan is for lovers of freedom to take over the enemy!

If patroits will refrain from hating this one per cent and instead work constantly at appraising and cultivating the enemy, they will acquire -- tuition-free -- valuable information and know-how which cannot be bought or learned from their closest friends. Patriots will find the avowed enemy eager to make contact and meet them halfway. This may seem surprising, but it is not really surprising. Just this kind of attitude and aptitude may be the secret of the success of the dedicated, well-organized minority, which is winning.

Highly intelligent patroiots, with truth on their side, may transmit the knowledge they gain to fellow non-communists, who will help them convert the dupes and stooges. These latter groups are never apathetic. They are always anxious to "take a side" and eager to "get in on the act," whether right or wrong. There is no logical reason why they should be left in the hands of freedom's enemies whey they could just as well be working for the right side. We may, through simply increasing our understanding of human nature, begin winning before it is too late. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

HOOVER US. CLARK

For some time the Washington Merry-Go-Round has spotlighted the backstage bickering between J. Edgar Hoover and his boss, Attorney General Ramsey Clark. In columns dated Jan. 23 and Feb. 5, 1968, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that the two men were at wide variance on law renforcement, and hardly spoke.

This was revealed publicly for the first time on Sept. 18, when Hoover and Clark testified before the National Commission on causes and prevention of violence.

DREW PEARSON SAYS: President holds tight rein on Paris peace team; Word to Harriman and Vance is "clear it with LBJ"; Peace overtures have aborted twice

PARIS--You can write it down as certain that LBJ will never get a truce in Vietnam as long as he keeps his two negotiators in Paris so tightly on the leash.

Friendly western diplomats, who have been following in great detail the attempts to get a truce in Vietnam, are amazed at the manner in which the President of the United States tries to dictate the Paris talks from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

They note that he has two of the most experienced diplomats from the American stable of Diplomacy representing him in Paris. Ambassador Averell Harriman has served in the cabinet, as Ambassador to Moscow. Ambassador to London, as deputy under Secretary of State and as Ambassador for the Marshall plan in Europe. He has conducted some of the most skilled and delicate negotiations in recent years, including the settlement of thetrouble in Laos and the test ban treaty with Russia.

Cyrus Vance, former under Secretary of defense, is also one of Johnson's most trusted negotiatiors. He was sent as a troubleshooter to Cyprus when that controversial Island appeared on the verge of exploding into a Mediterranean war. He was sent to Detroit during the Negro riots of 1967. He was dispatched to the far east when North Korea seized the USS Pueblo.

Both these men know their diplomatic onions probably far better than the President. Yet they have been required to clear everything with him.

NIXON & LBJ

Sometimes, furthermore, they have almost received the impression that President Johnson would rather see Nixon elected in November than Vice President Humphrey. "Spider" Vance got something of a jolt regarding this when he received a telephone call in August from the President asking him to come to the LBJ ranch. Vance was about to take off for Paris, but went to Texas instead.

There he found, somewhat to his suprise, former Vice President Nixon lunching with LBJ. Vance was asked to give Nixon a briefing on the truce talks. It surprised him, as it did others around the White House, that Johnson would invite Nixon to lunch only two days after his nomination.

The public doesn't know it, but Twice during the last three months the truce talks have been on the verge of success. Here is the inside story of what happened:

1. Last June Philip Noel-Baker, a British quaker and long-time member of Parliament who had been to Hanoi, worked out a plan with the North Vietnamese and the American negotiators in Paris to get an agreement the minute the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam. The formula was for the United States to move first, with an agreement that North Vietnam would move immediately thereafter.

But suddenly there was publicity in Washington. Someone leaked.

At this point the North Vietnamese blew up. Part of the agreement was that there were to be no leaks. American diplomats in Paris explained that they were under requirement to report these moves to the President and that they were not responsible for the leak. There was some suspicion that the leak from the White House was deliberate on the part of those around LBJ who don't really want peace. But there was no evidence.

At any rate, the damage was done. This particular peace overture was exploded.

SECOND MOVE FOR PEACE

2. Toward the end of last July negotiators also were on the verge of agreement. The North Vietnamese had curtailed their ground operations. There was relative quiet in South Vietnam. It was proposed that this be taken as evidence of "responsible reciprocity" anthat the United States suspend all bombing.

But at this point President Johnson flew to Hawaii, where he met President Thieu of South Vietnam. He issued a vigorous statement against any concessions. Once again the precariously negotiated peace proposals went up in smoke.

American diplomats in Paris are still optimistic--but only if the President will take his hands off the reins and give them a chance. Some of them are reminded of thmanner in which LBJ operates his Texas ranch. The President gets a great kick out of running things himself.

On occasion he has been known to telephone over his short have car radio to the ranch manager somewhat as follows: "The fence is down over here in the South pasture. Get Sam and Joe and tell them to take the white pickup truck and come over here. Don't use the station wagon. It's over in the north pasture. And don't bother Jake. He's on another job with those whiteface over in the feed lot. Pick up that 12-pound sledge and don't forget to bring a roll of barbed wire, a couple of fence posts and a pair of pliers."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

'REVOLUTIONIZING' THE STREETS:

Federal Poverty Officials Use Working Time to Discredit U. S.

Washington, D. C.: -- Long before the hippies, Yippies and Mobilizers hit the streets to "radicalize" the citizenry, there were directors of the Office of Economic Opportunity who, quite skillfully, directed poverty workers to go out and "revolutionize" the nation's ghettos.

This community action formula was developed by two former labor officials appointed by Ambassador Sargent Shriver, the OEO director.

The labor men have gone. But their policy lingers on amid turbulence, violence, tumultuous mass picketing, and disruption of child care, poverty counseling, cleanup of slum streets and training of the hard core jobless. I charge this flatly.

The labor officials nonchalantly referred to their policy of education-in-revolution as "Go fight City Hall." There is at least one communication in the OEO files to this effect - unless it has been destroyed or its dossier moved along with the itinerant labor men.

Thus hundreds of thousands of dollars, perhaps millions, have been and are being poured into this revolutionary street-action tactic. Poverty executives, some earning from $15,000 to $30,000 annually, spend their time confronting, frequently battling the police, picketing city halls and boards of education, closing down schools, struggling with union workers, and actually discrediting the U. S. in the presence of foreign statesmen.

A week ago I explained all this to an OEO official. In detail I reported the following Kafkaesqye "incident":

The city of New York had invited 84 world leaders in the country for a UN social welfare conference, to take a walking tour of the metropolis on Sept. 11. The intent was to show the government leaders from all continents -- including Africa -- the "best and worst" of our society. Fifty prestigious delegates from 50 nations accepted and turned out.

They were driven out to the city's uproarious Ocean Hall-Brownsville district, where the black decentralized local school governing board is battling the United Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO), the largest local union in the land.

The UN delegates from nations reaching from Norway to Uganda went into the Brownsville Community Council headquarters. This is a federally funded, OEO subsidiary.

There they were suddenly told by a local poverty executive that they would soon hear from a grandmother's own lips how she was beaten by the police -- New York's not Chicago's gendarmerie. Before the weeping woman was brought on stage, the world delegates were informed curtly that the tour was off. There just was nothing to see at the child car centers or other poverty offices, clinics, and counseling services. The centers had been shut down.

Why? Because, said the OEO executive director, the 400 poverty counselors and workers were out demonstrating against the police.

Thus, the foreign visitors -- on whose governments we spend hundreds of millions of U. S. Information Agency dollars for good will and imagery -- were sent back to their hotels believing that here fighting poverty means fighting.

This is the impression, it seems to me, willfully given by the OEO executives. In effect, one federally funded agency was not only discrediting the government which provides it with millions, but also negating the work of another federal agency.

Furthermore, the poverty officials - most of the district's 400 -- were accomplishing their august mission on government time. But this disturbs them not. They have been picketing, terrorizing, howling at city officials and the boards of education for months.

These poverty counselors earn from $175 to $225 a week, depending on their training and education, if you'll forgive me the expression. Their leaders earn from $15,000 to $20,000 annually. The latter have assistants at pay ranging from $11,000 to $14,000. And in most big cities, the central executive director is in charge and receives up to $30,000 a year.

All this I explained carefully is most basic English to a spokesman for the OEO national headquarters here. I told him I'd wait a week for an answer.

How could federally paid "poverty workers" be permitted to go off and demonstrate against the police? How could they be permitted to shut down child car centers? What happened to the children?How could they continue to battle the authorities day after day and still draw pay?

And how could the directors of one federal agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity, permit their colleagues to discredit the work of another federal unit, the U. S, Information Agency, as well as smear the reputation of the government itself?

I have had no reply. Does no one care?

Couple Wed In Ceremony

BENTON—St. Denis Catholic Church here was the scene Aug. 31 for the wedding of Miss Thearl Lee Moore to Linus Leo Glastetter. The double ring ceremony was preformed by the pastor, the Rev. Francis P. Donovan.

Mr. Glastetter is the son of Mrs. Coletta Glastetter of Illmo.

Presented in marriage by a friend, Rudy Eifert, the bride chose a formal gown of Chantilace over taffeta with an empire waist and elbow-length kabuki sleeves. A bouffant veil of imported English illusion was attached to a cap of lace petals, pearls and hand-ctu crystals. She carried a bouquet of white roses, ivy, and white ribbon streamers.

Attendants to the couple were Miss Armella Glastetter, sister of the bridegroom, and Leon Enderle of Chaffee. Miss Glastetter wore a formal gown of aqua chiffon, and carried white carnations with a center of five yellow rosebuds and yellow ribbon streamers.

Dodgers Sweep 3-Game Card Series

For the past week the National League champs have shown the Bird-dogs practically nothing.

Los Angeles' late-streaking Dodgers beat St. Louis ace Bob Gibson 3-2 Sunday, completing a three-game sweep of the Cardinals for a 15-4 mark over the last three weeks.

The Cards have won one of six starts since they locked up the flag at Houston one week ago. The victory was Ray Washburn's no-hit gem at San Francisco ... the day after the Giants' Gaylord Perry nipped Gibson 1-0 with a no-hitter.

Sunday's loss killed the Cards' last hope for a 100-victory season. They're 94-63 with five games remaining.

Second place San Francisco belted Atlanta 10-2, Pittsburgh trimmed the Chicago Cubs 5-1, Houston topped Cincinnati 6-1 and the New York Mets downed Philadelphia 5-2 in other NL games.

In the American League Washington toppled the Tigers 6-0, Boston dropped the New York Yankees 5-1, Baltimore blanked the Chicago White Sox 3-0, Cleveland edged California 2-1 and Minnesota shaded Oakland 2-1.

Right-hander Don Sutton blanked the Cardinals on one hit until the eighth inning, when he balked home the second of two St. Louis runs for a 2-2 deadlock.

But the Dodgers broke the tie in the bottom of the eighth on a walk, a sacrifice and rookie right fielder Joe Hague's throwing error. Bill Sudakis scored the winning run when Hague caught Paul Popovich's short fly and then threw wildly past third base.

Willie Crawford homered off Gibson, 21-9, who has beaten the Dodgers only 11 times in 28 lifetime decisions.

Willie McCovey drove in three runs for the Giants with a double and his 35th homer, boosting his league RBI lead to 102. Willie Mays lashed three hits and Jim Hart drove in three runs, helping Bob Bolin, 10-5, breeze past the Braves with a five-hitter.

Bob Moose fired a four-hitter as the Pirates climbed into a three-way tie for fourth place with the Cubs and Braves. Gene Alley delivered two runs with a homer and single and Roberto Clemente hit an inside-the-park homer to pace the Pittsburgh attack.

Jim Wynn's 24th and 25th homers knocked in three runs, leading the Astros past the third place Reds behind southpaw Mike Cuellar, who scattered eight hits.

Cradic, Bess Speakers At A-State Clinic

JONESBORO, Ark. - John Oldham, head basketball coach at Western Kentucky University for four years, will be the featured speaker at Arkansas State University's third annual Basketball Coaching Clinic at ASU Friday and Saturday, Oct. 4-5.

ASU head basketball coach Marvin Speight announced that registration for the coaches will begin at 1 p.m. Friday.

Other speakers scheduled for the clinic will be Bob Cradic of Three Rivers (Mo.) Junior College, Doyce Winningham of Greenbrier High School, Bob Reese of Little Rock McClelland High School and Gene Bess of Oran, Mo.

From 150 to 200 high school coaches from the Arkansas - Missouri area are expected to attend the two - day clinic. The coaches will also be special guests at the ASU - Tennessee Tech football game at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5.

Coach Speight said, "The fundamentals of offense and defense will be the main topic of discussion at the clinic."

"A meeting of this kind," Coach Speight stated in a letter of invitation to the high school coaches, "cannot only give us some new ideas and techniques, but can get us to thinking and talking basketball and help us to get ready for the coming season."

Highlights of Western Kentucky's basketball mentor for his four years at the University include two regular season Ohio Valley Conference titles and one second - place finish, four holiday tournament championships, three trips to national post - season tournaments and an overall record of 84 wins and 22 losses.

He is also the only man to have been named the Ohio Valley Conference Coach of the Year twice in the seven years that the league has been making the selection.

Other coaching positions that Coach Oldham has held include Western's College High School and Tennessee Tech.

12-Inch Limit Set On Community Lake Bass

The Conservation Commission has placed a 12-inch limit on black bass in all community lakes in Missouri. The rule takes effect at midnight, Oct. 1.

Missouri now has few length limits on fish, but there is a good reason for this one.

In a community lake, which is usually smaller than 40 acres, the fish populations are kept in control by predation - that is, the larger fish feed on the smaller fish. Bass keep bluegill populations within bounds, but only if there are enough bass large enough to eat bluegill. In a community lake, fishermen could catch too many of these bass and the bluegill population could grow out of control. When that happens, the reproduction of bass is threatened and bluegill continue their population explosion.

Charles A. Purkett Jr., chief of the Conservation Department's fisheries division, said the new regulation will assure quality rather than qantity for fishermen using these lakes. At the same time, he said, it will leave enough bass up to 12 inches long to maintain control over bluegill populations.

Community lakes are small fishing lakes built by the Conservation Department on land provided by the community. Such lakes are identified with signs.

Exploding population, intensive agriculture and large farm units which tend to do away with fencerow habitat will continue to reduce opportunities for hunting on private lands. The Conservation Department estimates that within the next 10 years they should have under their administration 150,000 acres to relieve this situation. Since 1960 they have acquired 31 public hunting areas, totaling 43,000 acres - 22 by purchase and 9 by donation.

Costs of buying satisfactory lands are staggering. At present costs, the Department would need more than $16,000,000 to acquire the needed acreage. An average 10% rate of increase in land cost would add another $9,000,000. Overhead and development costs would add more millions. It is estimated the total projected costs at the end of 10 years would total more than $28,000,000.

An expanded program of land donation can help to relieve this situation. By assisting the Department in such a program, you can also further your own hunting and fishing opportunity.

When land is donated to a state agency such as the Conservation Department, exclusively for public use, an individual can realize a 30% tax deduction in his adjusted gross income each year for six years or until the appraisal value of donated land is expended.

Any information lands that might be donated should be directed to the Department of Conservation, North Ten Mile Drive, Jefferson City, Missouri 65101. Keep in mind that this is another opportunity for you to insure the future generations in Missouri of a chance to enjoy hunting and fishing as you have enjoyed it.

It's official now that St. Louis and Detroit will clash in the World Series for the first time in 34 years. And, if it turns out to be anything like their last meeting, the umpires, the baseball commissioner and the team physicians have their work cut out for them.

That seven - game 1934 Series, won by St. Louis, saw Mickey Cochrane, the Tigers' catcher - manager, spiked twice. Frankie Frisch, the Cards' skipper, flattened in a play at second base. Dizzy Dean, St. Louis' ace pitcher, knocked unconscious by a thrown ball ... and Joe Medwick, the Cards' colorful outfielder, the target of a fruit and vegetable shower.

The debris aimed at Medwick in the final game necessitated his removal by order of Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis. It was an unprecedented development in a Series game.

The spectators who unleashed the barrage in Detroit felt they weren't making a mountain out of a molehill. They were angered by previous incidents they thought had been triggered by Ducky and other star Cardinal players.

The Medwick situation actually started developing in the second game when the outfielder, in a vain attempt to score in the third inning, crashed into Cochrane. The catcher's right leg was injured, but he remained in the game.

Cochrane was also injured in a sixth game collision with pitcher Paul Dean, Dizzy's brother. Again, Cochrane remained in the game after first aid.

Thus, Medwick and his teammates were not the apples of the Tiger fans' eyes when the clubs met in the deciding game, Oct. 9.

With St. Louis leading 7-0 in the sixth inning, Pepper Martin led off with a single, The next two batters made out. Then Medwick slammed a drive off the right center field wall. As he slid safely into third base, Marvin Owen stepped on him. Ducky retaliated by kicking his spikes at the third baseman from a prone position.

When the brief altercation ended, Collins singled Medwick home. As Ducky walked to the dugout, he was roundly booed and some of the spectators tossed programs and papers at him.

When Medwick went to his left field position in the Tigers' half of the inning, apples, oranges and pop bottles came flying out of the stands. The game was held up for 20 minutes while Ducky took refuge in the St. Louis dugout. Finally, it became necessary for Landis to remove Medwick from the game.

In previous incidents, Frisch was hurt in the second inning of the opener as Goose Goslin barreled into Frisch and knocked him to the ground on a steal attempt. It appeared that the player - manager was seriously hurt. However, he remained at second base.

Dizzy Dean was hurt in the fourth game. He was inserted at first base as a pinch - runner in the third inning. Pepper Martin then grounded to second baseman Charley Gehringer, who threw to Billy Rogell at short for a force play. In trying for a double play, however, Rogell's throw hit Dean on the head. The ball bounced high off Dizzy's noggin and landed in right field while Dean landed on the ground, unconscious.

PART-TIME PROS—Larry Stallings (left) and Charley Johnson, both members of the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL, perform military duties during the week and play for the Cards on weekends. They did it last year and are going through the same procedure again this season.

Kansas Whips Illinois Tigers Tamed by Kentucky

Is Kansas that good? The question is bothering the dopesters who picked the Jayhawks to be also-rans in the Big Eight football race.

They are wondering because Kansas rapped Illinois 47-7 for the weekend's most impressive showing as the Big Eight broke even against nonconference foes.

A better answer can be given after this week's games. Missouri will take its turn at Illinois and that should show more about how Illinois ranks with the Big Eight. Also, Kansas is host to Indiana and its outstanding quarterback, Harry Gonso, who led the Hoosiers into the Rose Bowl last season.

There is a strong feeling that the Jayhawks may have used up most of their season's good breaks in the first game.

Colorado, a solid 28-7 victory over Oregon, will give the Big Eight another measure by taking on California in a televised game at Berkeley.

Kansas State opened with a 21-0 triumph over Colorado State to dedicate its new stadium before a crowd of 25,000 and displayed a stable of young talent in numbers unseen at Manhattan previously. The flush of victory faded a bit as prospects of this week's encounter with Penn State's 10th-ranked Nittany Lions intruded in the celebration.

Oklahoma will entertain North Carolina State and try to forget the 45-21 nightmare created by Notre Dame.

Iowa State, beaten 21-12 by Arizona, will take on Brigham Young at Provo, and Oklahoma State has an open date to recover from the 32-15 pasting by Arkansas.

Coach Dan Devine's new I formation gave Missouri an edge in total offense but Kentucky was the 12-6 winner because the Tigers missed too many chances. Rocky Wallace, who kicked 15-of-15 conversions last year, missed two field goals and an extra point. Four fumbles cost the Tigers heavily.

"But let's not take it away from Kentucky," Devine said. "They hit hard and kept at it."

Three Missourians were hurt and will miss some action. They are end Bill Schmitt, dislocated elbow, to be sidelined three weeks; center Con Rees, strained knee, three weeks, and guard Roger Boyd, bruised knee one week.

"Their offensive line blocks so well that the running game has to work—and I saw some good running backs, too."

Vince Gibson, K-State coach, pointed out that 16 of his 22 starters played their first bigtime college game Saturday, and "the main thing to remember about this team, like all young ones, is that even though it will get better, it will have hot and cold games."

PITCHING — Camilo Pascual, Senators, shut out Detroit 6-0 on four hits, ending the Tigers' winning streak at a season - high 11.

BATTING — Willie McCovey, Giants, drove in four runs with a homer and double as San Francisco trounced Atlanta 10-2.

Delta State SEMO Victim

The MIAA football teams won half their games against non - conference opponents in their openers last Saturday and will take on another slate of non-league foes this week.

Central's Mules walloped Washburn 34-0 last Saturday; Northeast downed Parsons of Iowa 14-3 and Southeast beat Delta State (Miss.) 33-21.

On the other hand, Arkansas A&M battered Northwest 38-13; Washington edged Rolla 20-18, and Central Oklahoma ran over Southwest 34-7.

Missouri Valley defeated Graceland 20-17 in the only MCAU game, while the other league members all defeated nonconference teams.

Culver - Stockton coasted over Iowa Wesleyan 32-14; Jewell beat Millikin 20-7; Tarkio blanked Dana, Neb., 23-0, and Central Methodist defeated Principia 14-0.

Culver will play at Graceland in the only league game this week. Jewell will be at Northwest Missouri, Rolla at Missouri Valley, Doane, Neb., at Tarkio, and Illinois College at Central Methodist.

Jewell, Tarkio and Culver each have won two nonconference games.

To the Editor
Daily Sikeston Star[illegible]dard,

Dear Sir.

My letter writte[illegible]n to you on Sept. 12 and publi[illegible]shed in your paper on Sept. 18, [illegible] did not carry the full thought sh[illegible]ce you did not re-publish th[illegible]e editorial, written by Mrs. S[illegible]tapleton, in reference to Mrs. Eif[illegible]o Floyd and the plea which was made for cards and letters with[illegible] the public opinion on the mat[illegible]ter of the deportation from ou[illegible]r country.

This plea was mad[illegible]e in effort to gain support from the American people, to help Mrs. Floyd gain recogniti[illegible]on in the ruling offices of our S[illegible]tate. What was asked of the peop[illegible]le was, to express your opinion of this matter in a letter or [illegible]on a post card and mail to th[illegible]e "Daily Dunklin Democrat," Kennett, Mo.

Though our State Senator Symington and the H[illegible]onorable Rep. Paul C. Jones hav[illegible] gone to bat for her there is sti[illegible]ll a long battle ahead.

So if each of you c[illegible]ould find just a moment to w[illegible]rite the Dunklin Democrat and [illegible]express your opinion, it wou[illegible]ld help them to continue their wonderful and truly app[illegible]reciated effort.

Thank you very m[illegible]uch for taking time to print and [illegible]read my letter.

Turks Ma[illegible]ke Life Roug[illegible]h On Hippie[illegible]s

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — The international hippie-[illegible]beatnik influx into Istanbul [illegible]brought them the name "bitli tu[illegible]ristler." That translates literally [illegible]as "the louse-infested tourista."

But few of those le[illegible]ft here have very long or mes[illegible]y hair. Their clothes aren't that [illegible]shabby or peculiar either. The od[illegible]or they used to diffuse seems t[illegible]o have disappeared.

The reform started [illegible]with a statement by Interior M[illegible]inister Faruk Sukan.

He described [illegible]"the louse-infested tourista" as[illegible] people without a dime, who[illegible] used narcotics and led a very i[illegible]nmoral life. He said they affected [illegible]public health and public order ar[illegible]d were liable to commit crimes.

Sukan ordered the p[illegible]olice to expel all foreign girls and [illegible]youths of this description and [illegible]over to allow any of their kind [illegible]to set foot on Turkish soil again[illegible].

The youths' last cha[illegible]nce was to shape up if they w[illegible]anted to stay in Turkey.

Some went to see [illegible]what the inside of a Turkish bath [illegible]was like, visited barbers, and bo[illegible]ught new clothes.

Some of the hippi[illegible]e-beatnik group taken into custo[illegible]dy earlier were allegedly be[illegible]aten or molested. Some girls [illegible]were said to have scratched po[illegible]licemen's faces as they tried to re[illegible]sist being rounded up.

More than 30 of t[illegible]he group were forcibly taken to t[illegible]he Greek border for expulsion[illegible]. They included French, British[illegible], Italian, Dutch and Norwegian [illegible]boys and girls who put up a last [illegible]stand of resistance, breaking the [illegible]windows of the police van they [illegible]were in.

Watters Hea[illegible]ds Historical Society

COLUMBIA — T[illegible] Ballard Watters of Marshfie[illegible]ld was elected president of t[illegible]he State Historical Society of [illegible]Missouri Saturday and the orga[illegible]nization awarded its long-time s[illegible]ecretary and librarian, Flo[illegible]yd C. Shoemaker, its [illegible]first distinguished service awa[illegible]rd.

Shoemaker who ser[illegible]ved the society from 1910 [illegible]to his retirement in 1960 recei[illegible]ved the award from retiring president Leo J. Rozier. Shoemaker received a gold medallion with the seal of Missouri and also received a framed certificate.

Watters is publisher of the Marshfield Mail.

The society was told state papers of Rep. Paul Jones of Kennett will be acquired by the Western Hisotircal Manuscripts Collection.

Hippies Turn Tables on Suburbanites

NEW YORK (AP) — Tired of being gawked at by camera-toting tourists from the wilds of suburbia, a group of hippies from the Lower East Side turned the tables Sunday.

About 50 hippies, clad in their best beads and bells, paid $5 each, then boarded a bus at St. Mark's Place, in the heart of the East Village, and set off for a day in Queens, a predominantly middle class borough of New York City.

The tour was the brainchild of Joe Skaggs, 23, an artist, who described the expedition as "a put-on of middle class values .... a sort of cultural exchange."

The turned-on tourists got glimpses of such nonhippie strongholds as housing developments, bowling alleys, neatly manicured lawns and other middle class symbols many of which the hippis left behind when they fled to the Village.

Included in the tour were several stops. During one of them —at a restaurant for ice cream —eight "straight" patrons fled through a side door when the hippies walked in.

"We're being invaded," cried one housewife, as the hippies de-bussed near her house. "It must be some kind of underground movie stunt," added her husband.

"Not much," she said. "We go to sleep early."

The tour ended with a happening in the Nirvana Headshop—a touch of hippiedom in Hillside, Queens—where four men and three women danced, nude, while an artist painted their bodies.

HomeEconomics Association to Meet Oct. 5

IRONTON — The Southeast District of the Missouri Home Economics Association will hold its annual meeting Oct. 5.

A coffee will be served at 9:00 a.m. at the St. Marie Du Lac elementary school. The morning session will have as the principal program participant, Mrs. Henry Koch, home economist for Union Electric Company, St. Louis.

Also appearing during the morning session will be the president of the Missouri Home Economics Association, Mrs. Jewel Hoglen, St. Louis.

Following a buffet luncheon, the women will travel to Taum Sauk, Union Electric's Hydro Plant near Lesterville. Harold Gove, tour director for the company, will direct the tour.

Officers being installed at the meeting are President, Mrs. Art Siemers, Cape Girardeau; Vice President, Mrs. Welton Grobe, Ste. Genevieve; Secretary, Miss Lois Meyer, Farmington; and Treasurer, Mrs. Dona Ingle, Potosi.

Anyone wishing to register for the meeting may contact Mrs. Dona Ingle, extension home economist, Potosi.

Conferees Okay Eleven Point Scenic Designation

WASHINGTON — "Agreement by the Senate - House conferees to include the Eleven Point River in Oregon County in Southeast Missouri as a part of the National Scenic Rivers system is most encouraging," Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said today, "and we hope this agreement will now be accepted by both houses."

"This action will be another important step in calling national and international recognition to the natural beauties to be found in the Missouri Ozarks and will therefore be a further boost to the tourist industry in our State," Symington said.

The Eleven Point River had been designated as a "Scenic River" in Senate Bill, S.119, but the House - passed version had designated that river only for study and not as one of the initial rivers in the system.

Senator Symington has been working four years with state and local organizations, with Governor Hearnes and with members of the senate for recognition of the Eleven Point as one of the most beautiful, free flowing, spring - fed rivers in America. The effort has been supported by several national as well as State groups.

If the conference report is adopted by both houses, the river will be preserved in its natural state for park and recreation purposes for approximately 34 miles and will be available for float or boat trips, fishing, hiking, exploring, camping, picnicking, hunting and sightseeing. Dams would be prohibited on the Missouri portion of the river.

Walkout Intensifies Church Edict Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bitter dispute within the Washington Roman Catholic archdiocese has intensified in the wake of an unprecedented walkout protest against Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, archbishop of the diocese.

About 200 persons walked out of St. Matthew's cathedral during masses Sunday as the cardinal rose to urge obedience to Pope Paul VI's latest edict banning use of artificial birth controls.

The cardinal, who has been challenged on his interpretation of the Pope's encyclical by 44 area priests, had ordered a pastoral letter criticizing the dissenters read in all Roman Catholic churches in his jurisdiction.

Cardinal O'Boyle himself read the letter at three masses at St. Matthew's, and watched without apparent emotion as the people walked from the crowded cathedral. Most returned after he finished reading the message.

It was estimated that at least another 200 persons left other churches when the letter was read.

The protest had been urged by two lay organizations supporting the dissident priests.

The cardinal said after the services that it was the first time he had encountered such a protest in his 20 years as archbishop of Washington. "It is a very emotional matter," he said. Other church officials said it was probably the first time parishioners had taken such action in any Catholic church.

The dispute arose following issuance of the Pope's edict July 29 prohibiting the use of all forms of artificial contraceptive devices, leaving only the rhythm method acceptable for Catholics.

Cardinal O'Boyle immediately interpreted the encyclical as binding on all Catholics. This was challenged by a group of 51 priests, later reduced to 44, who contend the Pope's statement leaves it up to individual Catholics to follow as a matter of personal conscience.

In the 800 word letter, which was to be read "without comment or discussion," Cardinal O'Boyle told dissidents that continued disobedience of the birth control teaching might result in their being struck by a curse mentioned in the Book of Deuteronomy.

The curse mentioned in Deuteronomy 29: 19-20 says "the wrath and the jealousy of the Lord" would fall on a man who follows his conscience over divine law.

Mention of the curse immediately brought criticism from one of the 44 priests, the Rev. James P. Kennelly, who said the cardinal quoted the passage out of context.

The cardinal "is, if the words are applied literally, calling us pagans," because the quote referred to nonbelievers who rejected the God of Israel, he said.

St. Vincent's Open House Set for Oct. 6

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The faculty and students of St. Vincent's college are preparing for the reception of visitors homecoming and open house Oct. 6., from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

An invitation is extended to former students, their families and friends, and to those who wish to become acquainted with the school.

To provide entertainment and refreshment for visitors, the annual parents club fair will be held Oct. 6. Chicken and all the trimmings will be served in the dining room.

An original snowscape has been donated to the Parents Club by Mr. Charles Rhinehart, a Missouri artist. Rhinehart will draw pastels to order for benefit of the fair.

Students will provide tours of the buildings and grounds.

Douglas Again Blocks Reserve Vietnam Orders

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time in two weeks Justice William O. Douglas has ordered the Army not to send groups of reservists to Vietnam until the Supreme Court considers whether to hear their objections to being called up for active duty.

In issuing the order Sunday, Douglas told the Army he was staying until at least Oct. 7 any orders to send the 448th Postal Unit and the 1018th Service Supply Company to Vietnam.

Douglas, who acted one day after Chief Justice Earl Warren refused to intervene, issued a similar order Sept. 12 for the 1002nd Combat Supply Company. Warren and Justice Hugo Black also had declined to act in the earlier case.

The postal unit is from New York City, while the supply company is from Schenectady, N.Y. Both units are stationed at Ft. Lee, Va. The 1002nd is from Ohio and Stationed at Ft. Meade, Md.

Thirteen members of the postal unit and 83 members of the supply company asked for the stay. Their case, as in the one from 113 members of the 1002nd company, is based on the contention that it is unconstitutional for the President to activate the reserves for extended duty without the declaration of war or a national emergency.

The units involved were among several reserve groups called to active duty by President Johnson under a 1966 law which provided he could take such action if it were in the national interest.

Although only individuals asked for the Supreme Court hearing, Douglas' action applies to each unit as a whole. Actually, officials at Ft. Lee said orders had already gone out to keep the units on base indefinitely.

In issuing the Sept. 12 stay, Douglas said only that the case brought up several substantial questions. As reported by court officials Sunday, Douglas made no comment on his latest order.

Several things could result from the court's Oct. 7 session. It could refuse to hear the cases, thus automatically dissolving the stays and making the units eligible for immediate shipment overseas.

Or the court could agree to put the matter on its docket for a hearing, which would mean extending the stays until a decision is reached.

At least four justices would have to vote to hear the reservists' cases before they would be put on the docket, which would be unusual in view of the reluctance by the court to hearing challenges involving the Vietnam war.

Douglas issued Sunday's stay, as he did the others, by phone from a remote vacation spot in the state of Washington.

Kiddie and Pet Parade Opens Festival

MATTHEWS - The fifth annual Fall Festival sponsored by the Matthews Community Club and Volunteer Firemen opened Thursday night with a kiddie and pet parade.

Winning the prize for the best decorated bicycle was Nancy Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Curtis.

Tammy Bledsoe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bledsoe, was awarded the prize for the best dressed pet.

In the TV and storybook characters category David Hart son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hart, won first in his covered wagon drawn by a mule-faced tractor. The arrow-pierced cover was labeled "On the Road to Columbia."

Second place went to Debbie and Judy Eby, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eby, and Paula Hester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hester, who were costumed as a cigarette advertisement.

Third place was awarded "The Hippies" Bryan Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Richards; and Keith Bewley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bewley.

In the children's floats, first prize went to the "South of the Border" trio, Senorita Beth Fowler and Senor Shaun Shanks and Senor Tom Fowler in their gay Mexican costumes and wagon which played a hidden recording of the float's theme. Shaun's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shanks. Beth and Tom are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fowler of New Madrid.

Second place in the children's floats went to "The Three Blind Mice" who were Dana Copeland, daughter of Mrs. Vickie Copeland; Leah Belvin, daughter of M[illegible]r. and Mrs. Melvin Belvin; and T[illegible]roy Zilafro, son of Mr. and Mrs[illegible]. Douglas Zilafro. The farmer's [illegible]wife was Robin Burch, daugh[illegible]ter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bu[illegible]rch. Mrs. Zilafro provided th[illegible]e music on an accordian.

"Peter, Peter Pumpkin Eater" was [illegible]the title of the float for which [illegible]Duane and Jock Kelso, sons [illegible]of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ke[illegible]lso were awarded third place.

Interest[illegible] in the kiddie parade was eviden[illegible]ed in the increase in number an[illegible]d variety of themes over last y[illegible]ear. Judges were Mrs. Harvey Gr[illegible]aham of New Madrid and Lynn[illegible] Ingram and Scott Waters of S[illegible]ikeston.

Adult Classes Are Available

NEW MADRID — The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation is interested in starting general education development classes for adults in the New Madrid Area.

These GED classes will run for six months and will provide adults, who have not completed high school, with training and instruction to enable them to pass the GED test and obtain a Missouri High School Equivalency Diploma. Anyone interested in this course, you may call 748-5506 or come to the New Madrid Area

UNDERWATER WARDENS

HONOLULU (AP) — The Hawaii State Fish and Game Division says it will use three scuba-diving wardens to enforce fishing laws and regulations.

Michio Takata, head of the division, said the purpose of the diving wardens is to "curb such illegal practices as use of chemicals to take fish — particularly bleach."

They will use regular arrest procedure, Takata said. "But details as to how to make an arrest under water will have to be worked out," he added.

Donald Ray Jones Home on Leave

Petty Officer Jimmy McBryar, Sikestons navy recruiter, reports that Seaman Apprentice Donald Ray Jones is home on leave. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jones of 403 Prosperity.

He has completed basic training with the St. Louis National baseball team company, a company formed annually of young men from the area. He was congratulated by Stan Musiel and graduated from recruit training at the U.S. naval recruit training center at Great Lakes, Ill.

After leave he will report to the Navy's yeoman class A School at Bainbridge, Md. After Yoeman school, where he will take clerical instruction, he will receive a further assignment.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What causes the Mexican jumping bean to jump?
A—The larva of a moth enters the seed, on which it feeds, and by its contortions makes the seed jump.

Q—How early was ice delivered into American homes?
A—The first home delivery of ice was in 1802. This led to the building of the ice chest and the icebox, forerunners of modern cold-storage methods.

Q—When was Lyndon B. Johnson first elected to the United States Senate?
A—In November 1948. He was elected by an 87-vote margin over Gov. Stevenson of Texas.

Q—What is the meaning of "henotheism"?
A—This was the ancient belief that there is one Supreme Being, but that there may be other subsidiary gods. It allowed for belief in tribal or family deities, subject to the Supreme Being.

Q—What has become of the Labrador duck, once common near long Island?
A—This handsome bird has become totally extinct, for reasons largely unknown.

Q—Who was the first Negro to play with a major league baseball team?

Below-normal temperatures are expected over eastern New England and most of the area lying between the Appalachians and the Rockies.

Vanessa's in London Rag Trade

EDITOR'S NOTE: Although the Beatles sold their "Apple" boutique after eight months of ownership, fashion is still a popular sideline for pop stars and actresses ranging from Herman and the Hermits in New York to Elizabeth Taylor with a Paris boutique house. Now Vanessa Redgrave.

By NADEANE WALKER

LONDON (AP) — Actress Vanessa Redgrave is the latest star to jump on the rag trade bandwagon. She's backing a new boutique, the Fulham Road Clothes Shop.

As might be expected from the unconventional Miss Redgrave (who still leads peace demonstrations on occasion), the boutique she's backing is something quite out of the ordinary — in fact, the only conventional thing about it is it's name.

Along with pure 'Forties-era clothes, the Fulham Road Clothes Shop is selling eight-foot long foam rubber bananas, antique trimmings, and highly futuristic furniture. The shop is drawing nightly crowds just to look at the window, which features an ever-changing pattern of rainbow-hued neon. Every customer who steps over the threshold trips off a new sequence of lighting effects. They say an American has already tried, unsuccessfully, to buy the window.

Inside the shop on three floor levels, colored slides of the clothes are projected continuously onto the white walls. It comes as no surprise that one of the directors, Adrian Hughes, 26, is an ex-movie producer, who wants to run the shop like a film.

The other three directors are a pretty blonde photographer, Annette Green, 27, and two girl designers from the Royal College of Art, Zandra Rhodes, 29, and Sylvia Ayton, 30.

The quartet got together with the star during the filming of the Redgrave movie, "Isadora." Hughes was assistant director of the film, and Annette was sent to make pictures of the star. She was wearing an outfit designed by Zandra and Sylvia. Vanessa expressed admiration, and the boutique idea blossomed.

Fulham Road used to be anything but a chic address, but the premises found for the shop is only a few blocks off the King's Road, Chelsea, where the swinging scene flourishes.

"We didn't have much money," Adrian Hughes explains, "but Vanessa bought some shares and guaranteed our lease. Best of all, she wears our clothes, and used some of them in the film, 'A Quiet Place in the Country.'"

The boutique team reciprocated by designing lipstick-scrawl prints that proclaim, "We Love You, Vanessa," and by naming their star suit "Jolie," after Miss Redgrave's youngest daughter.

Those giant bananas, incidentally, are not as you might think, children's toys or pure freak decor. "They're original works of art, in a limited edition of 100, by Neville Green," says Hughes. They cost 65 pounds (156 dollars) and the shop has so far sold two, one to a fashion photographer and the other to a television producer.

The clothes come cheaper from about five pounds ($12 for a blouse, up to 30 pounds ($72) for a leather suit with hand-painted puffed sleeves. Nearly all the dresses and trousers are in floppy satin, crepe or chiffon, with the ruffles, pin-tucks, peplums and off-shoulder effects dear to the Forties.

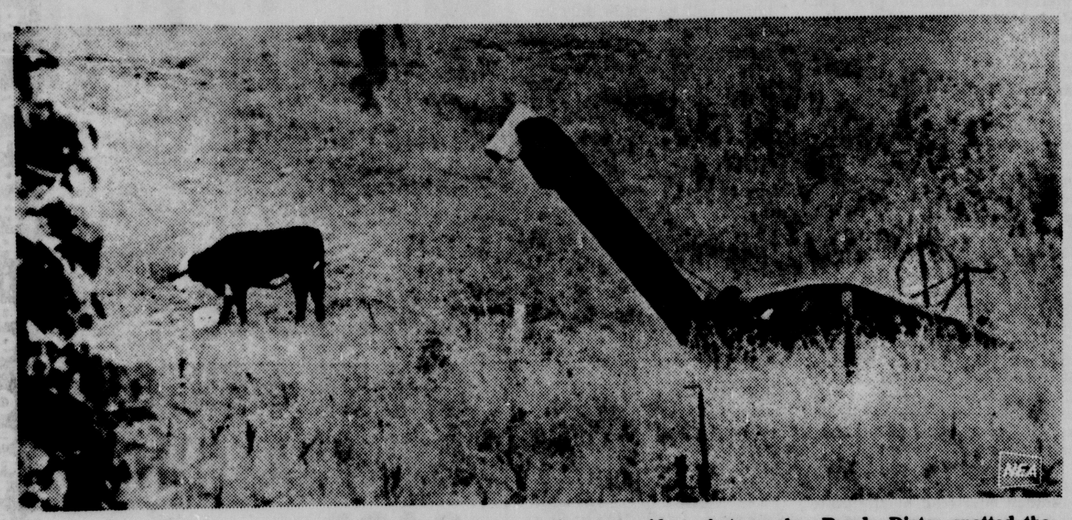

Zandra's and Sylvia's most original garment is something they call dungarees a sort of fancy dress version of workmen's overalls, made up in satin or crepe, with ruffles, yet. Their decollete see-through blouses are said to sell to male pop stars as well as dolly girls.

A friend of Adrian Hughes supplies Victorian and Edwardian buckles, buttons, belts and bags on a commission basis. "They go great with the clothes," Hughes comments.

Foreign tourists make up an important part of the Fulham Road Clothes Shop's clientele, according to Hughes. "Particularly Americans," he says. "They're much more ready to accept something new. They're really knocked out when they come in here."

MEADOW MONSTER seems to be attacking an unsuspecting cow. Alert photographer Randy Dieter spotted the amusing situation when the animal wandered near a piece of machinery on a farm near Evansville, Ind.

Raise the Roof with Floral Stripes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

To create illusions of space take a tip from trend-setting artist-designer Jack Denst. Use large-scale wall decorations.

"The returning vacationist who has enjoyed spacious accommodations is conscious of the limits of his own home or apartment. It is especially true of travelers in Europe who become accustomed to 10 or 12-foot ceiling heights."

Denst suggests a single large scale floral or an important vertical stripe of florals to draw the eye to that single decoration and endow the rest of the room with an expansive air. A mural, tapestry or large painting, will also achieve this effect.

He advises travelers not to overload their home with foreign acquisitions, but to limit collections to three basic colors. Denst restricts his own collection of art pieces to subjects executed in black, white or actual wood, thus enabling him to vary use of objects from time to time while maintaining a decorative balance.

Store those "extra" vacation prizes in a "clutter closet", he suggests, until you can fit them into a room gracefully.

The use of area rugs will also permit a floor level change of scene with rugs alternating to freshen the appearance.

Furniture pieces of different scale, an occasional floor plant instead of a lamp to give an outdoor look to the area are other ideas suggested by Denst for gaining the illusion of more space.

Troops Can't Bear to Leave Mascot

FORT CARSON, Colo. (ANF) — Soldiers of the 1st Battalion, 11th Infantry, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized), were happy to know that their good friend Specialist Brutus would join them in Vietnam. Their concern was justifiable, for Specialist Brutus is a 200 pound female bear.

Born in September 1963 somewhere in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains of Colorado, Brutus developed a preference for human companionship and one day ambled into Canon City, Colo.

Lt. Col. James H. Sanders, then commander of the battalion, found Brutus in the Pueblo (Colo.) City Zoo and engineered her induction into the unit as a mascot in 1964.

Brutus will travel to San Francisco via commercial aircraft and complete the journey by ship. Members of the 5th Infantry will meet her in San Francisco and accompany her on the voyage.

The infantrymen have worked diligently to prepare Brutus for the long trip.

It was necessary to provide her with a personnel file, gear and update her shot record. Orders had to be cut which created a problem for no one could locate her service number. Undaunted, the infantrymen looked through back issues of the post newspaper, "The Mountaineer," and produced the required figures.

Brutus eats three or four cans of dog food each day, plus guzzling all the soda pop her friends provide. She prefers Coca-Cola, but will consume orange, grape, milk, fruit juice or coffee with relish.

At Fort Carson Brutus attained the rank of Specialist 4th class with an MOS (Military Occupational Specialty) of Terrain Analyst. The sight of Specialist Brutus, sitting on her haunches with a soda pop bottle between her front paws, will be missed at Fort Carson.

COMPACT HORSE reportedly is the first Falabella Miniature bred in the United States. The foal is the offspring of "Don Franco," a stallion that weighs 145 pounds and stands 30 inches tall, and "Robin's Girl," 120 pounds and 27 inches tall. "Timmy's Boy" poses in Monroe, Conn., with Windgap Farm owner Lawrence W. Baff; his two grandchildren Jeffrey and Lauren Charnow; and Timothy O'Shea (right).

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH

ALTHOUGH located on the island of Formosa, the Republic of China postal authorities still carry on the traditions and heritage of their ancient civilization via its postage stamps.

This was noted on the latest set of four stamps issued by the Republic of China to honor four of China's most famous poets in commemoration of "Poets Day," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Poets Day is celebrated on the fifth day of the fifth moon (June 12 this year)—the anniversary of the death of poet Chu Yuan.

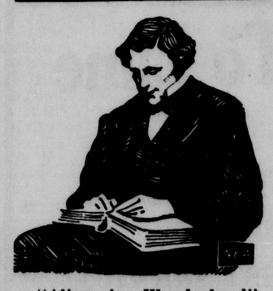

The set consists of a $1 (Taiwan currency) picturing Chu Yuan (332-295 BC), a $2 depicting Li Po (705-762 AD), a $2.50 showing Tu Fu (712-770 AD) and a $3 illustrating Po Chu-i (772-846).

A Bermuda stamp issued in 1861 was purchased in London recently for $5,500. The stamp is known as the "Perot Crowned Circle" and there are only five such stamps known to be in existence. The stamp is so rare that Queen Elizabeth's collection, considered to be one of the finest in the world, does not have one. Oddly enough, the stamp was said to have been discovered in a deed box within an envelope marked "1861 stamp."

"Alice in Wonderland" and "Curiosa Mathematica" were written by the same man, Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, The World Almanac notes. Although Dodgson was known as a mathematician and logician, he is remembered for his works of whimsy written under the pseudonym Lewis Carroll. "Alice" was inspired by and written for Alice Liddell, a child of a friend.

Canada will mark the 50th anniversary of the Canadian Press by issuing a new 5 cent stamp on Aug. 31. The new stamp will feature an oblate spheroid in which is contained a map centering the western hemisphere. Superimposed on this area is a strip, pointed at each end, on which appears "Anniversary 50 Anniversaire." The word "Canada" appears atop the stamp and the words "The Canadian Press" and La Presse Canadienne" can be seen at the bottom.

Pakistan has issued a new 15 paisa stamp to celebrate the awarding of the Hilal-i-Isteqlal citation to the city of Lahore by the President of Pakistan and to the cities of Sialkot and Sargodha by the governor of West Pakistan. The coveted Pakistani award was presented for valor by the cities mentioned during the Indo-Pakistan War in September 1965.

Ann Landers

Martyr Type Willing to Submit to Exploitation

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to N.Y. Dilemma, the woman whose husband suffered "a small stroke" and now demands all her time and attention? It happened to my father, or I should say to my mother. Although it was Father who had the "small stroke," it was Mother who died from it.

For 14 years Mother waited on him hand and foot -- "get me this . . . bring me that . . . I'm ready for my bath now . . . I'd like some hot tea." Mother pushed him around the house in a converted kitchen chair because he hated the idea of being in a wheel chair.

The first year Mother lost 15 pounds (which Father gained). She left the house only to bring in groceries or to do Father's errands. Her social life was zero. She dropped out of the bridge club, the church circle -- everything. She couldn't even have visitors to the house because Father was always needing something.

Mother died last year -- a blessed and welcome release from her slavery. Father is still alive -- in a convalescent home. If I knew 15 years ago what I know now, I would have insisted that Mother get a "sitter" for Father two afternoons a week and an evening or two as well. His stroke was slow death for her. -- BITTER.

Dear Bitter: The "slow death" you described was more than just exploitation by a sick and selfish person. It would not have occurred had your mother not been a martyr type who was willing to allow it.

Ann, Baby: Your column is a gas. Sometimes I cry my eyes out. Other times I bust up laughing. But those cutesy wootsy names like Bub, Buster, Buddy Boy, Cupcake and Lamb Chop detract from your otherwise sensible advice. So, knock it off, will you, Doll? Some of your correspondents are twice your age and you ought to be more respectful. -- ARCHIE

Dear Archie: Thanks. I'll watch it, Honeybun.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 35. My husband is 37. We are professional people and have a six- year-old daughter. We both feel that perhaps Ruth should have a little brother or sister. She is unusually precocious and somewhat spoiled. Frankly, I am less enthusiastic about a second child than my husband. While he has said he doesn't care one way or the other, I suspect he would be pleased if he had a son.

We agreed to leave it up to Ruth and yesterday we asked her how she would like to have a baby sister or brother. She made it clear that she doesn't want a new baby in the house and has threatened to run away if we "surprised" her with one.

What is your opinion, Ann? -- IN DOUBT

Dear In: A couple who would let a six-year-old decide whether or not to have another child is in a bad way. I'm afraid you may already have more than you can handle.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Navy Band Unit to Sikeston

50 years ago
September 23, 1918

Sikeston is again to be honored by having a visit from a musical organization which is being trained to enthuse and cheer the men of our navy. A detachment of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station Band of which Lt. John Phillip Sousa is director, will visit Sikeston on October 15th.

J. H. Tyer last week sold his farm of 80 acres at Tanner school house to Noah Randolph for $210 per acre. Mr. Randolph owns an adjoining farm. This is a fine piece of land and was worth the price paid. Mr. Tyer owns 240 acres near Canalou, most of which is improved. He has not as yet definitely decided where he and his family will locate.

F. S. Crowe, pastor of the Methodist Church at Oran, received appointment as chaplain in the army the latter part of last week, and will leave soon for a short course at the camp for chaplains at Frankfort, Ky.

James Angel, who had been making his home in Sikeston, but was teaching at Wardell, was found dead in his room at the Dillard Hotel in Wardell early Wednesday night with a bullet in his head.

Morehouse - Jack Edwards, who had been employed as night clerk in the Del Rey Hotel at Sikeston, has accepted a position with his uncle, W. B. Lacy, who is operating the Commercial Hotel in Kennett.

Sikeston's golfers defeated the team from Poplar Bluff Sunday afternoon at the Fairgrounds, 36 to 16. Clarence Scott of Sikeston turned in the low score -- 72. He was paired with Earl Arthur, one of Poplar Bluff's best shooters, who Sunday scored 80.

A practice tilt, to give experience to the Bulldog and Morehouse football squads, held Friday evening ended in a 7 to 6 victory for the Sikeston proteges of Coach Whitmer.

A son, Robert Williams, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Highland Schroff of New Madrid at the Emergency Hospital September 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Keller are parents of a son born at their home Tuesday night, whom they have named Don Frederick.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Methodist Church in Kennett for John Andrew Cowan, father of Mrs. H. A. Bach, who died at her home on North Ranney Tuesday of tuberculosis.

The Malone Insurance Agency, which has been operated for the past 28 years by the late colonel C. L. Malone, was sold today to Clay A. Mitchell and his sons, Robert and Charles, according to announcement made this morning by Mr. Mitchell.

Bertrand--Bennie Lee Mercer, 11 years old, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when he fell under a cotton truck and the rear wheels of the truck ran over him.

Robert Wayne Chappell, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Chappell of Smith Addition, suffered a fractured right leg last Wednesday morning when his mother unknowingly ran over him as she backed the car out of the driveway at home.

Masonic Order Slates Special Music Concert

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Grand Lodge of Missouri Freemasons will present a concert, Monday evening, Sept. 30, featuring music composed especially for the fraternity by such artists as Mozart, Sibelius, Gilbert & Sullivan, and others.

The music will be performed by the Symphony Orchestra from the Conservatory of Music of the University of Missouri-Kansas City and the school's nationally known Heritage Singers.

The 147th annual communication of the Masonic fraternity in the state will open Monday. Grand Master William R. Denslow, chief officer for the 115,000 Masons in Missouri, said the concert at the Scottish Rite Temple will be open to members of the fraternity, their families and friends.

One composition will be presented in Missouri for the first time. It is the ritual music by the late Dutch composer, Willem Pijper, entitled "Six Adagios."

Other composers who will be represented in the concert include John Philip Sousa, George M. Cohan, Sigmund Romberg, and Irving Berlin.

Dr. Everett Hendricks is director of the 50-voice Heritage Singers and Jay Decker conducts the school's 60-piece Symphony Orchestra.

MULTIPLICATIONS ARE CHEAPER

NEW YORK (AP) — In the late 1950s it cost $1.35 to perform 100,000 multiplications on the most efficient computer available, says Cybernetic Applications Inc., data processing consultants.

Today, the company says, the same function costs less than 3 cents.

The Prayer
from The Upper Room

"Now come along to some quiet place by yourselves, and rest for a little while," said Jesus. (Mark 6:31, Phillips).

PRAYER: Our Father, our lives are full of restlessness, of hustling and bustling. Teach us the value of rest for the refreshment of ourselves so that with more strength and gladness we may continue in our daily labors. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

If You Were the Judge

Golfer Must Pay For Guest's Injury

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Howard found himself in a golfer's dilemma. He shot a hole in one and there was no one around to see it. Consequently, he did the next best thing. He threw a party so that he could tell everyone about it. And, being rather eccentric, he insisted upon showing several of his golfing friends his "perfect swing" that enabled him to dunk the ace.

Unfortunately, as Howard "swished" around his club, he whacked poor defenseless Fred on the head. Not being a golfer himself, Fred took an even dimmer view of the incident and sued Howard for the birdie's he heard for weeks thereafter.

"I was off to the side minding my own business," Fred explained to the judge. "In fact, I was bored. I was invited to a party that turned out to be a golf ball."

"He can't sue me," was Howard's answer. "Under the law, the only duty a host has to a guest is not to wilfully injure him and, my hitting Fred was purely unintentional."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the eccentric Howard pay Fred for his injury?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held in effect that the host-guest relationship had no bearing on the case even though the accident happened on Howard's property. Simply, Howard was guilty of personal negligence in swinging his club.

MISSOURI FINANCE CORPORATION FORMED TO AID INDUSTRIES

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. - The First Missouri Development Finance Corpoartion has as an immediate goal the creation or retention of 10,000 jobs for Missourians. This will not be achieved through government created work projects, but through a privately financed industrial loan organization.

In the past, if a firm wanted to expand or make capital improvements, it had to turn to a bank or other private loan institution. Many companies are considered "marginal risks" by banks, and therefore can not get a loan. Some small banks are also not equipped to make large capital improvement loans.

To fill this gap, the Missouri Bankers Association and the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce have been working the last five years to get the Missouri Development Corporation going. The corporation was formed by an act of The Legislature in 1961 and late amended in 1963.

The corporation is not then a part of the state government, although chartered by the State and under the supervision of the Commissioner of Finance. Thus, the creation of a possible 10,000 jobs a year and the expanding of industry in Missouri will coast the taxpayers nothing.

The basis of the Missouri Development Corporation is the pooling of the funds of the member banks. Any bank who joins agrees to lend the corporation two per cent of its capital and surplus.

The corporation pays the lending banks an interest rate of at least one-quarter of one percent over the existing prime rate. The firm borrowing the money then pays the corporation an additional two percent over the prize rate.

This does not make loans cheaper, but it does make it possible for even marginal riskfirms who have been turned down for conventional loans, add will be on either a five or ten year term.

Jack Pearson, of the State Chamber of Commerce, said that a similar program in Kansas resulted in 4,000 additional jobs the first year, but had started out with only half the capital of the Missouri Corporation.

Pearson described the program as "Private business's answer to providing long term capital and jobs. This is a sound business proposition at no cost to the taxpayer."

Loans will be made only to Missouri firms or to firms wishing to relocate in Missouri. A loan will not be granted to a firm desiring to move ints entire base of operations from on Missouri community to another.

A board of directors and executive committee have been selected and with the completion of stock sales next month, "Missouri's Newest Approach to Industrial Development," will be underway.

Old Paper Tells Of Washington's Funeral Rites

Jack Hughes, 115 East St., has a copy of the Kingston, Ulster County, New York Gazette, dated Jan. 4, 1800, featuring the funeral procession of General George Washington.

The copy was given Hughes by a friend in Long Beach, Calif., and is either an original, or a reproduction made many years ago. The four-page issue is discolored from age and the edges frayed from handling.

The paper has four columns, each about two and one-half inches wide. The front page has announcements given by President John Adams, and the senate, expressing deep regret on the death of Washington.

The two inside pages have a one-fourth inch black border around each column, describing the funeral procession of Washington, including the entombment.

The funeral procession is outlined, describing the pallbearers on each side of the casket and included on left, colonels Sims, Ramsey, Payne, and on right, Colonels Gilpin, Marsteller and Little, followed by family mourners, Masonic brothers and citizens.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, Richard M. Nixon, campaigning for the vice presidency, went on nationwide radio and television to refute allegations of wrong-doing in accepting an $18,000 "expense fund."

On this date—

In 1789, the U.S. Supreme Court was established.

In 1845, the first baseball club in the United States, the Knickerbocker Club of New York, was organized.

In 1914, Dusseldorf was the target of the first British air raid on Germany in World War I.

In 1949, the Internal Security Act was adopted by Congress over President Harry S. Truman's veto. It provided for the registration of Communists and their internment in times of emergency.

Ten years ago - The United States announced that all new economic assistance to Indonesia would be withheld temporarily because of anti-British incidents and Indonesia's diplomatic break with Malaysia.

One year ago - The Soviet Union agreed to provide more weapons and aid to North Vietnam.

Ann Landers

Martyr Type Willing to Submit to Exploitation

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to N.Y. Dilemma, the woman whose husband suffered "a small stroke" and now demands all her time and attention? It happened to my father, or I should say to my mother. Although it was Father who had the "small stroke," it was Mother who died from it.

For 14 years Mother waited on him hand and foot -- "get me this . . . bring me that . . . I'm ready for my bath now . . . I'd like some hot tea." Mother pushed him around the house in a converted kitchen chair because he hated the idea of being in a wheel chair.

The first year Mother lost 15 pounds (which Father gained). She left the house only to bring in groceries or to do Father's errands. Her social life was zero. She dropped out of the bridge club, the church circle -- everything. She couldn't even have visitors to the house because Father was always needing something.

Mother died last year -- a blessed and welcome release from her slavery. Father is still alive -- in a convalescent home. If I knew 15 years ago what I know now, I would have insisted that Mother get a "sitter" for Father two afternoons a week and an evening or two as well. His stroke was slow death for her. -- BITTER.

Dear Bitter: The "slow death" you described was more than just exploitation by a sick and selfish person. It would not have occurred had your mother not been a martyr type who was willing to allow it.

Ann, Baby: Your column is a gas. Sometimes I cry my eyes out. Other times I bust up laughing. But those cutesy wootsy names like Bub, Buster, Buddy Boy, Cupcake and Lamb Chop detract from your otherwise sensible advice. So, knock it off, will you, Doll? Some of your correspondents are twice your age and you ought to be more respectful. -- ARCHIE

50 years ago
September 23, 1918

Sikeston is again to be honored by having a visit from a musical organization which is being trained to enthuse and cheer the men of our navy. A detachment of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station Band of which Lt. John Phillip Sousa is director, will visit Sikeston on October 15th.

J. H. Tyer last week sold his farm of 80 acres at Tanner school house to Noah Randolph for $210 per acre. Mr. Randolph owns an adjoining farm. This is a fine piece of land and was worth the price paid. Mr. Tyer owns 240 acres near Canalou, most of which is improved. He has not as yet definitely decided where he and his family will locate.

F. S. Crowe, pastor of the Methodist Church at Oran, received appointment as chaplain in the army the latter part of last week, and will leave soon for a short course at the camp for chaplains at Frankfort, Ky.

James Angel, who had been making his home in Sikeston, but was teaching at Wardell, was found dead in his room at the Dillard Hotel in Wardell early Wednesday night with a bullet in his head.

Morehouse - Jack Edwards, who had been employed as night clerk in the Del Rey Hotel at Sikeston, has accepted a position with his uncle, W. B. Lacy, who is operating the Commercial Hotel in Kennett.

Sikeston's golfers defeated the team from Poplar Bluff Sunday afternoon at the Fairgrounds, 36 to 16. Clarence Scott of Sikeston turned in the low score -- 72. He was paired with Earl Arthur, one of Poplar Bluff's best shooters, who Sunday scored 80.

A practice tilt, to give experience to the Bulldog and Morehouse football squads, held Friday evening ended in a 7 to 6 victory for the Sikeston proteges of Coach Whitmer.

A son, Robert Williams, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Highland Schroff of New Madrid at the Emergency Hospital September 15.

The Malone Insurance Agency, which has been operated for the past 28 years by the late colonel C. L. Malone, was sold today to Clay A. Mitchell and his sons, Robert and Charles, according to announcement made this morning by Mr. Mitchell.

Bertrand--Bennie Lee Mercer, 11 years old, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when he fell under a cotton truck and the rear wheels of the truck ran over him.

Robert Wayne Chappell, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Chappell of Smith Addition, suffered a fractured right leg last Wednesday morning when his mother unknowingly ran over him as she backed the car out of the driveway at home.

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

"Now come along to some quiet place by yourselves, and rest for a little while," said Jesus. (Mark 6:31, Phillips).

PRAYER: Our Father, our lives are full of restlessness, of hustling and bustling. Teach us the value of rest for the refreshment of ourselves so that with more strength and gladness we may continue in our daily labors. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Masonic Order Slates Special Music Concert

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Grand Lodge of Missouri Freemasons will present a concert, Monday evening, Sept. 30, featuring music composed especially for the fraternity by such artists as Mozart, Sibelius, Gilbert & Sullivan, and others.

The music will be performed by the Symphony Orchestra from the Conservatory of Music of the University of Missouri-Kansas City and the school's nationally known Heritage Singers.

The 147th annual communication of the Masonic fraternity in the state will open Monday. Grand Master William R. Denslow, chief officer for the 115,000 Masons in Missouri, said the concert at the Scottish Rite Temple will be open to members of the fraternity, their families and friends.

One composition will be presented in Missouri for the first time. It is the ritual music by the late Dutch composer, Willem Pijper, entitled "Six Adagios."

Other composers who will be represented in the concert include John Philip Sousa, George M. Cohan, Sigmund Romberg, and Irving Berlin.

Dr. Everett Hendricks is director of the 50-voice Heritage Singers and Jay Decker conducts the school's 60-piece Symphony Orchestra.

MULTIPLICATIONS ARE CHEAPER

NEW YORK (AP) — In the late 1950s it cost $1.35 to perform 100,000 multiplications on the most efficient computer available, says Cybernetic Applications Inc., data processing consultants.

Today, the company says, the same function costs less than 3 cents.

If You Were the Judge

Golfer Must Pay For Guest's Injury

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Howard found himself in a golfer's dilemma. He shot a hole in one and there was no one around to see it. Consequently, he did the next best thing. He threw a party so that he could tell everyone about it. And, being rather eccentric, he insisted upon showing several of his golfing friends his "perfect swing" that enabled him to dunk the ace.

Unfortunately, as Howard "swished" around his club, he whacked poor defenseless Fred on the head. Not being a golfer himself, Fred took an even dimmer view of the incident and sued Howard for the birdie's he heard for weeks thereafter.

"I was off to the side minding my own business," Fred explained to the judge. "In fact, I was bored. I was invited to a party that turned out to be a golf ball."

"He can't sue me," was Howard's answer. "Under the law, the only duty a host has to a guest is not to wilfully injure him and, my hitting Fred was purely unintentional."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the eccentric Howard pay Fred for his injury?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held in effect that the host-guest relationship had no bearing on the case even though the accident happened on Howard's property. Simply, Howard was guilty of personal negligence in swinging his club.

MISSOURI FINANCE CORPORATION FORMED TO AID INDUSTRIES

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. - The First Missouri Development Finance Corpoartion has as an immediate goal the creation or retention of 10,000 jobs for Missourians. This will not be achieved through government created work projects, but through a privately financed industrial loan organization.

In the past, if a firm wanted to expand or make capital improvements, it had to turn to a bank or other private loan institution. Many companies are considered "marginal risks" by banks, and therefore can not get a loan. Some small banks are also not equipped to make large capital improvement loans.

To fill this gap, the Missouri Bankers Association and the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce have been working the last five years to get the Missouri Development Corporation going. The corporation was formed by an act of The Legislature in 1961 and late amended in 1963.

The corporation is not then a part of the state government, although chartered by the State and under the supervision of the Commissioner of Finance. Thus, the creation of a possible 10,000 jobs a year and the expanding of industry in Missouri will coast the taxpayers nothing.

The basis of the Missouri Development Corporation is the pooling of the funds of the member banks. Any bank who joins agrees to lend the corporation two per cent of its capital and surplus.

The corporation pays the lending banks an interest rate of at least one-quarter of one percent over the existing prime rate. The firm borrowing the money then pays the corporation an additional two percent over the prize rate.

This does not make loans cheaper, but it does make it possible for even marginal riskfirms who have been turned down for conventional loans, add will be on either a five or ten year term.

Jack Pearson, of the State Chamber of Commerce, said that a similar program in Kansas resulted in 4,000 additional jobs the first year, but had started out with only half the capital of the Missouri Corporation.

Pearson described the program as "Private business's answer to providing long term capital and jobs. This is a sound business proposition at no cost to the taxpayer."

Loans will be made only to Missouri firms or to firms wishing to relocate in Missouri. A loan will not be granted to a firm desiring to move ints entire base of operations from on Missouri community to another.

A board of directors and executive committee have been selected and with the completion of stock sales next month, "Missouri's Newest Approach to Industrial Development," will be underway.

Old Paper Tells Of Washington's Funeral Rites

Jack Hughes, 115 East St., has a copy of the Kingston, Ulster County, New York Gazette, dated Jan. 4, 1800, featuring the funeral procession of General George Washington.

The copy was given Hughes by a friend in Long Beach, Calif., and is either an original, or a reproduction made many years ago. The four-page issue is discolored from age and the edges frayed from handling.

The paper has four columns, each about two and one-half inches wide. The front page has announcements given by President John Adams, and the senate, expressing deep regret on the death of Washington.

The two inside pages have a one-fourth inch black border around each column, describing the funeral procession of Washington, including the entombment.

The funeral procession is outlined, describing the pallbearers on each side of the casket and included on left, colonels Sims, Ramsey, Payne, and on right, Colonels Gilpin, Marsteller and Little, followed by family mourners, Masonic brothers and citizens.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, Richard M. Nixon, campaigning for the vice presidency, went on nationwide radio and television to refute allegations of wrong-doing in accepting an $18,000 "expense fund."

On this date—

In 1789, the U.S. Supreme Court was established.

In 1845, the first baseball club in the United States, the Knickerbocker Club of New York, was organized.

In 1914, Dusseldorf was the target of the first British air raid on Germany in World War I.

In 1949, the Internal Security Act was adopted by Congress over President Harry S. Truman's veto. It provided for the registration of Communists and their internment in times of emergency.

Ten years ago - The United States announced that all new economic assistance to Indonesia would be withheld temporarily because of anti-British incidents and Indonesia's diplomatic break with Malaysia.

One year ago - The Soviet Union agreed to provide more weapons and aid to North Vietnam.

Police Report Nine Arrests, Car Stolen

Richard Marshall, 18, 204 Bowman, was arrested by Sikeston police during the weekend and charged with burglary and stealing in connection with a breakin last week of the Riggs Wholesale Co., 800 West North St.

Sylvester Murphy, 214 Westgate, was arrested by police last week in connection with the same breakin. Investigation is continuing into the case, Police Chief Arthur Bruce said today. Some of the stolen items have been recovered, and one of the two suspects has admitted to taking part in breakins at the Texaco Bulk plant and the office of Beck and McCord Auction Co. Investigation is continuing in those cases also, Bruce said.

In other activity during the weekend, Clarence McCullough, route two, Sikeston, was charged Saturday with driving while intoxicated and careless and imprudent driving.

David O'Neal, 613 Carroll, was charged today with careless and imprudent driving. He was stopped at Murray Lane and South Kingshighway.

Boyd Sparks, Morehouse, reported to police at 2:23 p.m. Saturday that his black over gold 1968 Ford XL was stolen from the Missouri Delta Community Hospital between10 a.m. and 2:23 p.m. Saturday.

Author's Death Ruled Suicide

NEW YORK (AP) —The death of Charles Jackson, author of "The Lost Weekend," has been ruled suicide by assistant medical examiner Michael Baden.

Dr. Baden said Sunday that Jackson, 66, died in St. Vincent's Hospital Saturday of acute barbiturate poisoning.

A native of Summit, N.J., Jackson worked in Chicago and New York, then contracted tuberculosis and went to Daves, Switzerland, for his health. There, he began writing short stories and novels.

Monk With Stigmatic Stains Dies

SAN GIOVANNI ROTONDO, Italy (AP) - Padre Pio, the Roman Catholic monk who bore the stigmatic bloodstains recalling the wounds of the crucified Christ, died at his monastery here today. He was 81.

Last Friday, gravely ill and confined to a wheelchair, he celebrated the 50th anniversary of the first appearance of the stigma on his hands, feet and the left side of his chest.

The Vatican never gave an official pronouncement itself on the case of Padre Pio, born Francesco Forgiene, son of a poor peasant in Southern Italy. He became a monk in 1903 and was ordained a priest in 1910.

He never left his monastery of St. Mary of Mercy after the stigma appeared on Sept. 20, 1918

As the story of Padre Pio spread, prosperity came to little San Giovanni Rotondo, in Italy's poor southland. Tourists, visitors and seekers of miracle cures came to his little town, at first by the thousands, finally at the rate of more than one million a year.

Shot Takes Life

Lee Forrest, 95, 229 Alabama St., was shot to death Sunday afternoon with a shotgun in Sunset Addition, Sikeston police reported today.

George Washington, 44, 307B Alabama St., has been taken into custody by police and is being held for investigation of the shooting.

Forrest's body was found in the driveway at Washington's house. He had been shot in the neck with a 20 gauge shotgun with a number six shell, police reported.

Washington admitted to police that he shot Forrest after Forrest threatened to shoot him with a pistol.

No charges have been filed in the shooting yet. Coroner Gene Nunnelee said an inquest may be held later, if it is ordered by the prosecuting attorney's office.

CATHY KEM was crowned Miss Matthews at the fifth annual fall festival Saturday.

HHH Hopes For Scaledown Of Troops

TOLEDO, Ohio AP — Hubert H. Humphrey told Toledo housewifes today "it is my hope and my intention" to scale down American troop commitments in Vietnam - even should Hanoi balks at peace terms.

The Democratic presidential candidate addressed an overflow crowd of women and a few squaling infants - in a grade school gymnasium.

"If we cannot be successful in negotiations," he said, "it is my hope and my intention to re-assess the Vietnam situation.

The reassessment, he said, would look toward the reduction of this country's contribution to the war, particularly in numbers of combat troops.

In Sunday's campaigning in Ohio before his biggest - yet crowds, Humphrey kept open his option to disagree with President Johnson on the war, but pledged that Hanoi wouldn't get any easier terms from him.

He told the Toledo housewives he would look toward a systematic cutback in the number of American fighting men in Southeast Asia, "keeping in mind the safety of the troops that remain and the safety of South Vietnam."

Cathy Kem Wears Matthews Crown

MATTHEWS - Miss Cathy Kem, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Kem, was crowned Miss Matthews Saturday at the fifth annual Fall Festival, by Mayor Harold Burch,

Miss Shelia Burch, 17, was selected first alternate. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Burch.

The new Miss Matthews, a junior in high school, was awarded a pendant watch and an arm bouquet of red roses. Miss Burch received a gold engraved necklace, and a silver engraved necklace was presented Miss Sexton.

Judges were Mrs. Gertrude Schuerenberg, Kewanee, and Mrs. Joanne Fox and Miss Judy Matthews, both of Sikeston. Mrs. Earlyne Barnes was chairman of the contest.

Preceding the beauty pageant, a parade was held featuring floats, New Madrid junior and senior high school bands, Lilbourn high school band and the queen contestants.

Taking first prize of $35 for the best float was the carousel entered by the employes of the University of Missouri Delta Center in Portageville. The Business and Professional Women's float from Parma placed second and received $25. The New Madrid County Library float depicting Home on the Range was awarded third prize of $15.

Mrs. Larry Richards was parade chairman.

Wallace Admits Surprise At Own Campaign Success

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — "My campaign," said a grinning George C. Wallace to an audience in Dallas the other day, "reminds me of the old joke that begins, 'They laughed when I sat down to play...'

"Well," he said to the boom of applause and the scream of rebel yells, "not many Democrats or Republicans are laughing now."

Wallace has said that even he, whose political antennae are probably as sensitive as anybody's, did not anticipate when he announced his third-party candidacy in January the degree of success it would achieve by late September.

Wallace, for example, expected his "mission impossible" task force of Alabama lawyers to win for him a place on the ballots of 40 states at most.

Last week, when he met the qualifications of the 50th state —although Ohio remains in doubt—he began referring to the Democrats and Republicans as "the other two national parties."

He says his campaign treasury is in good condition, "but don't get the idea we're swimming in money," and he plans to eliminate many of the fundraising dinners that have been a staple of his campaign appearances. There also is a rumor that he soon will replace his prop-driven DC7 airplane with a speedier prop-jet model.

He also plans to slow the pace of his campaign. Last Friday he completed a fatiguing swing through the Southwest, Midwest and South, and will not resume again until next Friday, when he will embark on a trip through the Northeast, Midwest and Far West.

The secret of Wallace's success has become clear as his traveling road show—complete with a country band and two blonde vocalists—the Taylor Sisters, Mona and Lisa—has wound its way through 31 states. Wallace has demonstrated an acute sense of the fundamental fears and irritations that gnaw at a great many bewildered Americans, and an ability to speak of them in simple, colorful terms.

Concerning law and order, for example, the visceral issue of his campaign, Wallace says the Democratic and Republican candidates promised to enforce the law but that both of them, by past policies, had helped to bring about "today's anarchy."

"I reply to them," Wallace said the other night in Florida, "in the words of an old hillbilly song: 'It's too late to ask for forgiveness.'"

"Tell it like it is, George!" has become a slogan shrieked at rallies from Milwaukee to Montgomery, Lowell to Long Beach.

His appeal is pitched to men who attend his rallies in shirts with open collars, women in toreador pants, though suits and ties are well-represented, and lately, a growing number of young people have been on hand.

"Folks have been looking down their noses at us rednecks long enough," Wallace tells them, "and we're going to show them on Nov. 5 that there are more of us than them."

He says his views "represent the mainstream of American thought" and that he has a better than an outside chance of winning the election.

He sneers at the "scientific polls" which currently reflect the support of about 20 per cent of the electorate, recalls his unpredicted success when he ran in primary elections in 1964, and predicts, "We're going to put a lot of pollsters out of business on election day."

Last week aboard his lumbering campaign airplane he cracked to his traveling corps of newsmen: "Do you fellows think either Mr. Nixon or Mr. Humphrey will get enough votes to throw this election into the House of Representatives?"

GM Car Prices Up $49

DETROIT (AP) - General Motors, giant of the auto industry, today announced price increases which averaged $49 or nearly 50 per cent under figures announced by Chrysler last week.

GM Board Chairman James M. Roche denied there had been any pressure from Washington sources to get General Motors to come in with a smaller figure than Chrysler had one as the 1969 cars headed toward the market.

"There were frank discussions in Washington, but I assure you General Motors' decision as usual was made by General Motors people before we even went to Washington," Roche told a news conference.

General Motors, in figuring out its $49, or 1.6 per cent per car price boost, used list price figures, those which the companies charge its dealers. Chrysler, hich was the first of the auto companies to post its new list prices had figured the increases at $84, or 2.9 per cent ever its 1968 list prices.

The prices as announced by General Motors did not include federal excise tax and dealer handling and preparation charges. Those items are included on the so-called sticker price which a buyer would find on a car in his dealer's showroom.

Working from that sticker price, GM's average increase would be $52 or 1.6 per cent, contrasted with an $89 or 2.5 per cent increase which Chrysler used on its sticker prices this year.

Roche, in explaining GM'S decision to use list prices in its formal announcement to the press, said "confusion sometimes results from the various elements that are combined when one is figuring out different types of auto prices."

Festus Expansion Contested

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Two proud residents of Herculaneum, Mo., where shot and lead was produced for the War of 1812, are searching the dusty archives of the state for records that might help forestall encroachment from Festus, Mo.

Festus wants to annex land close to the old town lines of Herculaneum. Some records reportedly indicate Herculaneum may have been incorporated back in 1819 when Missouri was still a territory. If it was, that may be ammunition to shoot down Festus plans to expand in the direction of Herculaneum.

Donald Stotler and his wife came to Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick's office today to check old records. They also want to look over other state archives.

A history of Missouri, produced by the State Historical Society in 1942, shows that Moses Austin and Samuel Hammond laid out the town of Herculaneum on 400 arpens of land they purchased from Judathan Kendall early in 1809. An arpen is an old french land measure closely equivalent to an acre.

Herculaneum had the first post office in the county and when Jefferson county was created in 1818 it became the first county seat. In the 1830s, however, the county seat was moved to Monticello, now Hillsboro.

The historical society's records showed that Herculaneum never had been incorporated. But the Stotlers are still searching records for more than that wispy report of an incorporation in 1819.

Major Rail Strike Possible

CHICAGO (AP) — Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen have voted to authorize a strike which a union spokesman said could tie up all major railroads in the nation.

C. J. Chamberlain, international union president, said today that more than 90 per cent of the ballots were in favor of authorizing a strike.

He said a federal mediator will enter the negotiations Wednesday and that if after a reasonable time no progress is made a strike date then would be set.

The 13,000 - member union is seeking a 25 per cent wage increase over three years, retroactive to July 1. Chamberlain said the carriers have offered wage hikes amounting to about 9 per cent over 18 months.

Thant Says Bomb Halt Favored

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary - General U Thant expressed belief today that a majority of the 124 members of the United Nations would vote for an immediate cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam if the issue were put to a test.

He told a news conference he was convinced he was voicing the conscience of the world in continuing to urge a total bombing halt as an essential first step toward meaningful Vietnam peace talks.

Thant added, however, that he didn't "see any light at the end of the tunnel for another year or more."

The secretary - general dealt with a wide range of world problems, including the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia, the Nigerian civil war, Red China and Soviet claims that the U.N. Charter permits Soviet military intervention in West Germany to curb an alleged threat of Nazi resurgence.

Nixon Runs Leisurely But Cautious Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, confident but cautious, is campaigning for the White House from a script which emphasizes television and devotes little public attention to his two presidential opponents.

Nixon tells the crowds—generally big ones—that a nation in trouble should not turn for leadership to a member of the administration that got it there.

George C. Wallace, the third party candidate, gets not a word from Nixon on the campaign platform. The Republican nominee contends that would only build up Wallace, so he never mentions the man.

Nevertheless, Wallace is a matter of real concern to Nixon's strategists. They believe Nixon can maintain his current lead in the opinion polls, and translate it into victory over Humphrey. But they share a fear that Wallace might win enough electoral votes to deny a majority to either of the major party candidates, thus sending the election to the House of Representatives.

Robert Ellsworth, Nixon's national political director, charged in an interview that the Democrats have a conscious strategy designed to do just that.

"The Democrats are doing everything they can to build up Wallace," Ellsworth said. He said they see in a House decision their best chance of denying Nixon the presidency.

Nixon's campaign pace is generally a leisurely one, with two or three speeches a day, each virtually identical. The schedule is shaped around television, and the question-and-answer programs Nixon is staging in the major states.

There have been four so far: Ohio, Illinois, California and Pennsylvania.

There will be at least a halfdozen more. Nixon's travels are frequently structured around the campaign television shows. So is his schedule. Each of them is preceded by a day of relaxation and preparation.

Nixon's campaign speech features an appeal to the people the candidate calls forgotten Americans. "You are Republicans, you are Democrats, you are independents," Nixon says. "You have been quiet. You have been going to work and you have been paying your taxes and supporting your schools."

But now, says Nixon, these quiet, forgotten Americans are aroused and ready to speak out with votes on Nov. 5.

The set speech's main assault on Humphrey links the vice president to that administration.

His schedule is being kept flexible, made up 10 days to two weeks in advance, so that the nominee can devote his time to states in which his advisors believe a campaign nudge is needed.

That could include extra television appearances in some key states.

While the word is out against overconfidence, the word also is out that if the polls continue to run as they have, Nixon will feel free in the weeks ahead to campaign in some states with few electoral votes but with Republicans running for Senate or House seats or governorships.

"You may see more of that," one Nixon advisor said.

Morley Man Arrested

MORLEY--W. R. Rodgers, about, 55, was arrested by the sheriff's department Saturday afternoon and will be charged with peace disturbance, Sheriff John Dennis said today. Rodgers was drunk and was threatening residents with a knife, the sheriff charged.

Trooper Injured In Hunt Mishap

HAYTI — Highway Trooper Kenneth Howell, accompanied by John Turnage, both of Hayti, were squirrel hunting Sunday when Howell was struck accidentally by shotgun pellets from Turnage's gun.

The two men had separated. As the trooper was walking over a hill he was struck by five pellets from the gun of his companion.

Howell was treated at the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital, was released, and has returned to his duties.

Carnival Fever Rising

The usual park bench procrastinators who daily solve the problems of the world in American Legion Park were surrounded today by hustling soda distributors, mechanics and rows of tents.

Final preparations for the opening of the 24th annual Cotton Carnival at 3 p.m. today were underway this morning.

Glenn McClellan, general chairman of the American Legion's event, said everything is running smoothly and the main attractions will be three contests.

The cotton top king and queen will be crowned Wednesday night by Vernon Landgraf, Republican candidate for 10th district Congressman. The event will start at 7:30 p.m. on a stage to be placed on North New Madrid street in the center of the carnival grounds. William Pinnell is chairman. About 60 contestants have entered.

Miss Sikeston will be chosen Friday night in an event slated to follow the Sikeston-Charleston football game. It is expected to start at 10 p.m. Eighteen girls will vie for the title. Miss Sikeston will be crowned by Lt. Gov. Thomas Eagleton, candidate for U.S. Senator.

Miss Cotton Carnival will be crowned Saturday by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes following the parade at 10:30 a.m.

Bill Scarbrough is chairman of both queen contests. In the event of rain during any of the contests, they will be held at the American Legion Hall on South Kingshighway.

Merchants days will be held today and tomorrow. Tickets for rides will be sold at reduced rates for children each day. Wednesday is school day. Rides will be given at a cut rate from 3 p.m. till 6 p.m.

Activities will begin at 3 p.m. today through Friday. Saturday rides and concessions are expected to be open all day.

Proceeds will be used for the purchase of equipment for a rescue squad.

Six Injured in Falls Treated

Gun Blast Subdues Wanted Man

Urich had a warrant, charging the Ellsinore man with comman assault in beating up Donna Walloy in Poplar Bluff on Sept. 15, according to the Butler county prosecuting attorneys office.

Piganowski, who was accompanied by three children, ages three to ten, was forced to stop his car. He got out and started to attack the deputy when Urich shot him with shotgun, about 1 a.m.

Trooper Don Frazier had given chase earlier, but was unable to stop the 1965 Ford driven by Piganowski, and called for assistance.

Frazier caught up with the fleeing car, after Urich had forced him to stop, and drove in front of the Ford to assist the deputy, when the struggle occurred.

The Ellsinore man was taken to the Lucy Lee hospital in Poplar Bluff, and treated for shotgun pellet wounds. He is not believed to be in a serious condition.

DAEOC Leases Six Vehicles

PORTAGEVILLE — Six modern air-conditioned service vehicles have been leased to serve the six counties of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation. One vehicle is being assigned to each county.

They will be used to transport and distribute surplus food to families who are unable to reach the commodity distribution centers because of age, illness, or lack of transportation and to distribute supplies other than food for the centers being operated under DAEOC.

The six counties served by DAEOC are Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

Humphrey Depending On Lively Campaign

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign is showing smoke if not fire. With his quest for the presidency in its second week, the vice president drew in Toledo what appeared to be the biggest crowds of his campaign—and he was as obviously delighted as a boy with a double dip ice cream cone.

"Thank you, thank you very much," he said beamingly, pumping hands as a hundred or more persons crowded around his car Sunday outside an ice cream parlor.

Humphrey is behind and knows it. He started late and slow. Even the money, he says, is in short supply, thus his television advertising was late. He also feels the turbulence surrounding the Chicago convention hurt him in the polls.

But Humphrey, the cheerful exponent of the politics of hope, still manages to sound confident.

Wait until the middle of October, he says, then go out and cover all the Nixon money available. "We're going to win," he says.

Although Humphrey was the frontrunner, he came out of the convention without much treasury or organization. And Humphrey was disappointed in the first week of his campaign.

He sprinted from coast to coast and back—with a tailwind of disappointing crowds, hecklers and snubs from Texas Gov. John Connally and California's Jesse Unruh, as well as some well-publicized oratorical miscues over the party's Vietnam plank and the withdrawal of troops from Vietnam.

Humphrey was tired—trying to cover too much ground, talking too long without guarding his tongue closely enough and campaigning past midnight.

The first postconvention poll results came in and Richard M. Nixon, his Republican opponent, was still far ahead.

Even then, Humphrey saw a bright side—that now antiwar dissidents could see that their next president would be Nixon if they didn't do something for Humphrey.

More advance men then were added to his campaign to bring out the crowds. The scheduling crew was shaken up. Enough money was collected so that Humphrey could go ahead with his advertising.

In addition, Humphrey was endorsed by President Johnson. And from the other side of the Vietnam issue, he won public embraces from Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, George S. McGovern and Wayne Morse. He also made a pilgrimage to see the Democrat who pulled off one of history's best-known political upsets, Harry S. Truman.

Would all this activity be enough? Humphrey thinks he can win by taking the offense against Nixon on issues of personality, prosperity, by calling for civil justice as well as law and order and by trying to paint Nixon as more of a hawk or foreign policy hardliner than Humphrey.

Nor is Humphrey reluctant to portray himself as, if not the best presidential candidate possible, at least a better alternative than Nixon or George C. Wallace.

His biggest problem, and he knows it, is Vietnam. He is said to be under strong pressure to make some dramatic gesture or statement that would divorce him from the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy. It seemed unlikely that he would.

But he is again hitting with greater emphasis that while he is only a vice president and a candidate now and thus with no control over events, he would put an end to the war on top of his priorities as president.

UNICEF Appeals Approach

This year "Tricks or Treat for UNICEF" will be heard on Hallowe'en, Oct. 31. Plans are getting underway to canvas the city by children from 30 churches. The collection time will be from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The program will be sponsored by the Church Women United, Mrs. Burt Rowe, Sr. president. Named as UNICEF chairman is Mrs. Bernard Rice with Mrs. Marjorie Hopkins as co-chairman. Mrs. Oren Dahl will serve as collection chairman and the First National Bank will be collection headquarters. UNICEF Christmas cards will be sold by the church women with Mrs. William S. Corrigan in charge. The sale of the cards will be held during the weeks of Nov. 11 and Nov. 18 at the post office from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. each weekday.

Proceeds from one box of cards will protect 50 children against tuberculosis or provide many with nourishing food. Artists have donated their talents to design the cards. Also available will be the new 1969 UNICEF calendars.

An art project is being planned by Miss Harriet Jones, art supervisor of the public schools, assisted by Mrs. Phil Campagna and children from all elementary schools.

Book marks will be placed in the school libraries and the public library telling how five cents will provide vaccine to protect four children from tuberculosis, but 30 vitamin tablets or 30 glasses of milk.

Orange and black collection cartons will be placed in stores throughout the downtown area as well as the Mid-Towner Shopping Center.

Volunteers are needed for both the drive and the selling of cards. Any individuals or groups interested in lending a helping hand may call Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Rowe, or Mrs. Corrigan.

Juvenile Captured

BENTON-- A juvenile was picked up in Sikeston Sunday by police after escaping from the juvenile cell in the court house Saturday night, Sheriff John Dennis said today.

The juvenile, who was being held on a bad check charge, kicked a hole in the cell wall to make his escape.

Curtis Will Speak Thursday

Congressman Thomas B. Curtis, St. Louis, will be in Sikeston Thursday, for a press conference and address.

He will hold a press conference at the Holiday Inn at 6:30 p.m., and will speak at a dinner at Two Tony's at 7:15 p.m., according to C. Robert Scott, chairman, Scott county Republican social committee.

Tickets are available from Scott or at the headquarters by calling 471-3721.

Dr. Johnson Installed As Dental President

Dr. G. H. Bredall, Perryville, a district and state association past president, was honored for 50 years of practice.

The 1969 fall meeting will be in Poplar Bluff.

Dr. Johnson has been selected as a people to people delegate to Europe in the spring. The tour is sponsored by People to People Inc., Kansas City, and the Missouri Dental Society.

Countries on the tour will be Belgium, Sweden, the Soviet Union, Poland, German and Czechoslovakia. Dr. Johnson will fly from New York April 30 and return May 21.

Dr. Johnson has practiced dentistry 30 years, 13 in Sikeston. He is a graduate of the Kansas City Western Dental College, which now is associated with the University of Missouri.

Three Injured in Traffic Accidents

The highway patrol reported three injuries in traffic accidents over the weekend.

A one-car accident Sunday at 7:20 a.m. at the intersection of Interstate 55 and 57, four miles east of Sikeston, sent James Beal, 21, Chicago driver of a 1965 Pontiac to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where he was treated for head cuts.

The patrol said he apparently went to sleep, ran off the road, and struck a highway marker.

A two-car collision Sunday at 4 p.m. in Dexter, resulted on cuts on the knee for Deborah Nochta, 16, Dexter.

She was driving a 1968 Pontiac, when it collided with a 1967 Chevrolet, driven by Creal Black, 71, at an unmarked intersection. The Pontiac ran into the side of the Black car.

Dennis Lancaster, 20, Randles, driver of a 1965 Pontiac, was treated for scratches and bruises in a one-car accident Saturday at 6:45 p.m. in Perkins.

Shot Takes Life

Lee Forrest, 95, 229 Alabama St., was shot to death Sunday afternoon with a shotgun in Sunset Addition, Sikeston police reported today.

George Washington, 44, 307B Alabama St., has been taken into custody by police and is being held for investigation of the shooting.

Forrest's body was found in the driveway at Washington's house. He had been shot in the neck with a 20 gauge shotgun with a number six shell, police reported.

Washington admitted to police that he shot Forrest after Forrest threatened to shoot him with a pistol.

No charges have been filed in the shooting yet. Coroner Gene Nunnelee said an inquest may be held later, if it is ordered by the prosecuting attorney's office.

CATHY KEM was crowned Miss Matthews at the fifth annual fall festival Saturday.

HHH Hopes For Scaledown Of Troops

TOLEDO, Ohio AP — Hubert H. Humphrey told Toledo housewifes today "it is my hope and my intention" to scale down American troop commitments in Vietnam - even should Hanoi balks at peace terms.

The Democratic presidential candidate addressed an overflow crowd of women and a few squaling infants - in a grade school gymnasium.

"If we cannot be successful in negotiations," he said, "it is my hope and my intention to re-assess the Vietnam situation.

The reassessment, he said, would look toward the reduction of this country's contribution to the war, particularly in numbers of combat troops.

In Sunday's campaigning in Ohio before his biggest - yet crowds, Humphrey kept open his option to disagree with President Johnson on the war, but pledged that Hanoi wouldn't get any easier terms from him.

He told the Toledo housewives he would look toward a systematic cutback in the number of American fighting men in Southeast Asia, "keeping in mind the safety of the troops that remain and the safety of South Vietnam."

MATTHEWS - Miss Cathy Kem, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Kem, was crowned Miss Matthews Saturday at the fifth annual Fall Festival, by Mayor Harold Burch,

Miss Shelia Burch, 17, was selected first alternate. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Burch.

The new Miss Matthews, a junior in high school, was awarded a pendant watch and an arm bouquet of red roses. Miss Burch received a gold engraved necklace, and a silver engraved necklace was presented Miss Sexton.

Judges were Mrs. Gertrude Schuerenberg, Kewanee, and Mrs. Joanne Fox and Miss Judy Matthews, both of Sikeston.

Mrs. Earlyne Barnes was chairman of the contest.

Preceding the beauty pageant, a parade was held featuring floats, New Madrid junior and senior high school bands, Lilbourn high school band and the queen contestants.

Taking first prize of $35 for the best float was the carousel entered by the employes of the University of Missouri Delta Center in Portageville. The Business and Professional Women's float from Parma placed second and received $25. The New Madrid County Library float depicting Home on the Range was awarded third prize of $15.

Mrs. Larry Richards was parade chairman.

Wallace Admits Surprise At Own Campaign Success

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — "My campaign," said a grinning George C. Wallace to an audience in Dallas the other day, "reminds me of the old joke that begins, 'They laughed when I sat down to play...'

"Well," he said to the boom of applause and the scream of rebel yells, "not many Democrats or Republicans are laughing now."

Wallace has said that even he, whose political antennae are probably as sensitive as anybody's, did not anticipate when he announced his third-party candidacy in January the degree of success it would achieve by late September.

Wallace, for example, expected his "mission impossible" task force of Alabama lawyers to win for him a place on the ballots of 40 states at most.

Last week, when he met the qualifications of the 50th state —although Ohio remains in doubt—he began referring to the Democrats and Republicans as "the other two national parties."

He says his campaign treasury is in good condition, "but don't get the idea we're swimming in money," and he plans to eliminate many of the fundraising dinners that have been a staple of his campaign appearances. There also is a rumor that he soon will replace his prop-driven DC7 airplane with a speedier prop-jet model.

He also plans to slow the pace of his campaign. Last Friday he completed a fatiguing swing through the Southwest, Midwest and South, and will not resume again until next Friday, when he will embark on a trip through the Northeast, Midwest and Far West.

The secret of Wallace's success has become clear as his traveling road show—complete with a country band and two blonde vocalists—the Taylor Sisters, Mona and Lisa—has wound its way through 31 states. Wallace has demonstrated an acute sense of the fundamental fears and irritations that gnaw at a great many bewildered Americans, and an ability to speak of them in simple, colorful terms.

Concerning law and order, for example, the visceral issue of his campaign, Wallace says the Democratic and Republican candidates promised to enforce the law but that both of them, by past policies, had helped to bring about "today's anarchy."

"I reply to them," Wallace said the other night in Florida, "in the words of an old hillbilly song: 'It's too late to ask for forgiveness.'"

"Tell it like it is, George!" has become a slogan shrieked at rallies from Milwaukee to Montgomery, Lowell to Long Beach.

His appeal is pitched to men who attend his rallies in shirts with open collars, women in toreador pants, though suits and ties are well-represented, and lately, a growing number of young people have been on hand.

"Folks have been looking down their noses at us rednecks long enough," Wallace tells them, "and we're going to show them on Nov. 5 that there are more of us than them."

He says his views "represent the mainstream of American thought" and that he has a better than an outside chance of winning the election.

He sneers at the "scientific polls" which currently reflect the support of about 20 per cent of the electorate, recalls his unpredicted success when he ran in primary elections in 1964, and predicts, "We're going to put a lot of pollsters out of business on election day."

Last week aboard his lumbering campaign airplane he cracked to his traveling corps of newsmen: "Do you fellows think either Mr. Nixon or Mr. Humphrey will get enough votes to throw this election into the House of Representatives?"

GM Car Prices Up $49

DETROIT (AP) - General Motors, giant of the auto industry, today announced price increases which averaged $49 or nearly 50 per cent under figures announced by Chrysler last week.

GM Board Chairman James M. Roche denied there had been any pressure from Washington sources to get General Motors to come in with a smaller figure than Chrysler had one as the 1969 cars headed toward the market.

"There were frank discussions in Washington, but I assure you General Motors' decision as usual was made by General Motors people before we even went to Washington," Roche told a news conference.

General Motors, in figuring out its $49, or 1.6 per cent per car price boost, used list price figures, those which the companies charge its dealers. Chrysler, hich was the first of the auto companies to post its new list prices had figured the increases at $84, or 2.9 per cent ever its 1968 list prices.

The prices as announced by General Motors did not include federal excise tax and dealer handling and preparation charges. Those items are included on the so-called sticker price which a buyer would find on a car in his dealer's showroom.

Working from that sticker price, GM's average increase would be $52 or 1.6 per cent, contrasted with an $89 or 2.5 per cent increase which Chrysler used on its sticker prices this year.

Roche, in explaining GM'S decision to use list prices in its formal announcement to the press, said "confusion sometimes results from the various elements that are combined when one is figuring out different types of auto prices."

Nixon Runs Leisurely But Cautious Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, confident but cautious, is campaigning for the White House from a script which emphasizes television and devotes little public attention to his two presidential opponents.

Nixon tells the crowds—generally big ones—that a nation in trouble should not turn for leadership to a member of the administration that got it there.

George C. Wallace, the third party candidate, gets not a word from Nixon on the campaign platform. The Republican nominee contends that would only build up Wallace, so he never mentions the man.

Nevertheless, Wallace is a matter of real concern to Nixon's strategists. They believe Nixon can maintain his current lead in the opinion polls, and translate it into victory over Humphrey. But they share a fear that Wallace might win enough electoral votes to deny a majority to either of the major party candidates, thus sending the election to the House of Representatives.

Robert Ellsworth, Nixon's national political director, charged in an interview that the Democrats have a conscious strategy designed to do just that.

"The Democrats are doing everything they can to build up Wallace," Ellsworth said. He said they see in a House decision their best chance of denying Nixon the presidency.

Nixon's campaign pace is generally a leisurely one, with two or three speeches a day, each virtually identical. The schedule is shaped around television, and the question-and-answer programs Nixon is staging in the major states.

There have been four so far: Ohio, Illinois, California and Pennsylvania.

There will be at least a halfdozen more. Nixon's travels are frequently structured around the campaign television shows. So is his schedule. Each of them is preceded by a day of relaxation and preparation.

Nixon's campaign speech features an appeal to the people the candidate calls forgotten Americans. "You are Republicans, you are Democrats, you are independents," Nixon says. "You have been quiet. You have been going to work and you have been paying your taxes and supporting your schools."

But now, says Nixon, these quiet, forgotten Americans are aroused and ready to speak out with votes on Nov. 5.

The set speech's main assault on Humphrey links the vice president to that administration.

His schedule is being kept flexible, made up 10 days to two weeks in advance, so that the nominee can devote his time to states in which his advisors believe a campaign nudge is needed.

That could include extra television appearances in some key states.

While the word is out against overconfidence, the word also is out that if the polls continue to run as they have, Nixon will feel free in the weeks ahead to campaign in some states with few electoral votes but with Republicans running for Senate or House seats or governorships.

"You may see more of that," one Nixon advisor said.

Morley Man Arrested

MORLEY--W. R. Rodgers, about, 55, was arrested by the sheriff's department Saturday afternoon and will be charged with peace disturbance, Sheriff John Dennis said today. Rodgers was drunk and was threatening residents with a knife, the sheriff charged.

Trooper Injured In Hunt Mishap

HAYTI — Highway Trooper Kenneth Howell, accompanied by John Turnage, both of Hayti, were squirrel hunting Sunday when Howell was struck accidentally by shotgun pellets from Turnage's gun.

The two men had separated. As the trooper was walking over a hill he was struck by five pellets from the gun of his companion.

Howell was treated at the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital, was released, and has returned to his duties.

News Briefs

Festus Expansion Contested

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Two proud residents of Herculaneum, Mo., where shot and lead was produced for the War of 1812, are searching the dusty archives of the state for records that might help forestall encroachment from Festus, Mo.

Festus wants to annex land close to the old town lines of Herculaneum. Some records reportedly indicate Herculaneum may have been incorporated back in 1819 when Missouri was still a territory. If it was, that may be ammunition to shoot down Festus plans to expand in the direction of Herculaneum.

Donald Stotler and his wife came to Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick's office today to check old records. They also want to look over other state archives.

A history of Missouri, produced by the State Historical Society in 1942, shows that Moses Austin and Samuel Hammond laid out the town of Herculaneum on 400 arpens of land they purchased from Judathan Kendall early in 1809. An arpen is an old french land measure closely equivalent to an acre.

Herculaneum had the first post office in the county and when Jefferson county was created in 1818 it became the first county seat. In the 1830s, however, the county seat was moved to Monticello, now Hillsboro.

The historical society's records showed that Herculaneum never had been incorporated. But the Stotlers are still searching records for more than that wispy report of an incorporation in 1819.

Major Rail Strike Possible

CHICAGO (AP) — Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen have voted to authorize a strike which a union spokesman said could tie up all major railroads in the nation.

C. J. Chamberlain, international union president, said today that more than 90 per cent of the ballots were in favor of authorizing a strike.

He said a federal mediator will enter the negotiations Wednesday and that if after a reasonable time no progress is made a strike date then would be set.

The 13,000 - member union is seeking a 25 per cent wage increase over three years, retroactive to July 1. Chamberlain said the carriers have offered wage hikes amounting to about 9 per cent over 18 months.

Thant Says Bomb Halt Favored

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary - General U Thant expressed belief today that a majority of the 124 members of the United Nations would vote for an immediate cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam if the issue were put to a test.

He told a news conference he was convinced he was voicing the conscience of the world in continuing to urge a total bombing halt as an essential first step toward meaningful Vietnam peace talks.

Thant added, however, that he didn't "see any light at the end of the tunnel for another year or more."

The secretary - general dealt with a wide range of world problems, including the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia, the Nigerian civil war, Red China and Soviet claims that the U.N. Charter permits Soviet military intervention in West Germany to curb an alleged threat of Nazi resurgence.

Carnival Fever Rising

The usual park bench procrastinators who daily solve the problems of the world in American Legion Park were surrounded today by hustling soda distributors, mechanics and rows of tents.

Final preparations for the opening of the 24th annual Cotton Carnival at 3 p.m. today were underway this morning.

Glenn McClellan, general chairman of the American Legion's event, said everything is running smoothly and the main attractions will be three contests.

The cotton top king and queen will be crowned Wednesday night by Vernon Landgraf, Republican candidate for 10th district Congressman. The event will start at 7:30 p.m. on a stage to be placed on North New Madrid street in the center of the carnival grounds. William Pinnell is chairman. About 60 contestants have entered.

Miss Sikeston will be chosen Friday night in an event slated to follow the Sikeston-Charleston football game. It is expected to start at 10 p.m. Eighteen girls will vie for the title. Miss Sikeston will be crowned by Lt. Gov. Thomas Eagleton, candidate for U.S. Senator.

Miss Cotton Carnival will be crowned Saturday by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes following the parade at 10:30 a.m.

Bill Scarbrough is chairman of both queen contests. In the event of rain during any of the contests, they will be held at the American Legion Hall on South Kingshighway.

Merchants days will be held today and tomorrow. Tickets for rides will be sold at reduced rates for children each day. Wednesday is school day. Rides will be given at a cut rate from 3 p.m. till 6 p.m.

Activities will begin at 3 p.m. today through Friday. Saturday rides and concessions are expected to be open all day.

Proceeds will be used for the purchase of equipment for a rescue squad.

Six Injured in Falls Treated

Gun Blast Subdues Wanted Man

Urich had a warrant, charging the Ellsinore man with comman assault in beating up Donna Walloy in Poplar Bluff on Sept. 15, according to the Butler county prosecuting attorneys office.

Piganowski, who was accompanied by three children, ages three to ten, was forced to stop his car. He got out and started to attack the deputy when Urich shot him with shotgun, about 1 a.m.

Trooper Don Frazier had given chase earlier, but was unable to stop the 1965 Ford driven by Piganowski, and called for assistance.

Frazier caught up with the fleeing car, after Urich had forced him to stop, and drove in front of the Ford to assist the deputy, when the struggle occurred.

The Ellsinore man was taken to the Lucy Lee hospital in Poplar Bluff, and treated for shotgun pellet wounds. He is not believed to be in a serious condition.

DAEOC Leases Six Vehicles

PORTAGEVILLE — Six modern air-conditioned service vehicles have been leased to serve the six counties of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation. One vehicle is being assigned to each county.

They will be used to transport and distribute surplus food to families who are unable to reach the commodity distribution centers because of age, illness, or lack of transportation and to distribute supplies other than food for the centers being operated under DAEOC.

The six counties served by DAEOC are Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

Humphrey Depending On Lively Campaign

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign is showing smoke if not fire. With his quest for the presidency in its second week, the vice president drew in Toledo what appeared to be the biggest crowds of his campaign—and he was as obviously delighted as a boy with a double dip ice cream cone.

"Thank you, thank you very much," he said beamingly, pumping hands as a hundred or more persons crowded around his car Sunday outside an ice cream parlor.

Humphrey is behind and knows it. He started late and slow. Even the money, he says, is in short supply, thus his television advertising was late. He also feels the turbulence surrounding the Chicago convention hurt him in the [illegible].

But Humphrey, the chee[illegible] exponent of the politics of ho[illegible] still manages to sound confident.

Wait until the middle of October, he says, then go out and cover all the Nixon money available. "We're going to win," he says.

Although Humphrey was the frontrunner, he came out of the convention without much treasury or organization. And Humphrey was disappointed in the first week of his campaign.

He sprinted from coast to coast and back—with a tailwind of disappointing crowds, hecklers and snubs from Texas Gov. John Connally and California's Jesse Unruh, as well as some well-publicized oratorical miscues over the party's Vietnam plank and the withdrawal of troops from Vietnam.

Humphrey was tired—trying to cover too much ground, talking too long without guarding his tongue closely enough and campaigning past midnight.

The first postconvention poll results came in and Richard M. Nixon, his Republican opponent, was still far ahead.

Even then, Humphrey saw a bright side—that now antiwar dissidents could see that their next president would be Nixon if they didn't do something for Humphrey.

More advance men then were added to his campaign to bring out the crowds. The scheduling crew was shaken up. Enough money was collected so that Humphrey could go ahead with his advertising.

In addition, Humphrey was endorsed by President Johnson. And from the other side of the Vietnam issue, he won public embraces from Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, George S. McGovern and Wayne Morse. He also made a pilgrimage to see the Democrat who pulled off one of history's best-known political upsets, Harry S. Truman.

Would all this activity be enough? Humphrey thinks he can win by taking the offense against Nixon on issues of personality, prosperity, by calling for civil justice as well as law and order and by trying to paint Nixon as more of a hawk or foreign policy hardliner than Humphrey.

Nor is Humphrey reluctant to portray himself as, if not the best presidential candidate possible, at least a better alternative than Nixon or George C. Wallace.

His biggest problem, and he knows it, is Vietnam. He is said to be under strong pressure to make some dramatic gesture or statement that would divorce him from the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy. It seemed unlikely that he would.

But he is again hitting with greater emphasis that while he is only a vice president and a candidate now and thus with no control over events, he would put an end to the war on top of his priorities as president.

UNICEF Appeals Approach

UNICEF time is almost here again.

This year "Tricks or Treat for UNICEF" will be heard on Hallowe'en, Oct. 31. Plans are getting underway to canvas the city by children from 30 churches. The collection time will be from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The program will be sponsored by the Church Women United, Mrs. Burt Rowe, Sr. president. Named as UNICEF chairman is Mrs. Bernard Rice with Mrs. Marjorie Hopkins as co-chairman. Mrs. Oren Dahl will serve as collection chairman and the First National Bank will be collection headquarters. UNICEF Christmas cards will be sold by the church women with Mrs. William S. Corrigan in charge. The sale of the cards will be held during the weeks of Nov. 11 and Nov. 18 at the post office from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. each weekday.

Proceeds from one box of cards will protect 50 children against tuberculosis or provide many with nourishing food. Artists have donated their talents to design the cards. Also available will be the new 1969 UNICEF calendars.

An art project is being planned by Miss Harriet Jones, art supervisor of the public schools, assisted by Mrs. Phil Campagna and children from all elementary schools.

Book marks will be placed in the school libraries and the public library telling how five cents will provide vaccine to protect four children from tuberculosis, but 30 vitamin tablets or 30 glasses of milk.

Orange and black collection cartons will be placed in stores throughout the downtown area as well as the Mid-Towner Shopping Center.

Volunteers are needed for both the drive and the selling of cards. Any individuals or groups interested in lending a helping hand may call Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Rowe, or Mrs. Corrigan.

Juvenile Captured

BENTON-- A juvenile was picked up in Sikeston Sunday by police after escaping from the juvenile cell in the court house Saturday night, Sheriff John Dennis said today.

The juvenile, who was being held on a bad check charge, kicked a hole in the cell wall to make his escape.

Curtis Will Speak Thursday

Congressman Thomas B. Curtis, St. Louis, will be in Sikeston Thursday, for a press conference and address.

He will hold a press conference at the Holiday Inn at 6:30 p.m., and will speak at a dinner at Two Tony's at 7:15 p.m., according to C. Robert Scott, chairman, Scott county Republican social committee.

Tickets are available from Scott or at the headquarters by calling 471-3721.

Dr. Johnson Installed As Dental President

Dr. G. H. Bredall, Perryville, a district and state association past president, was honored for 50 years of practice.

The 1969 fall meeting will be in Poplar Bluff.

Dr. Johnson has been selected as a people to people delegate to Europe in the spring. The tour is sponsored by People to People Inc., Kansas City, and the Missouri Dental Society.

Countries on the tour will be Belgium, Sweden, the Soviet Union, Poland, German and Czechoslovakia. Dr. Johnson will fly from New York April 30 and return May 21.

Dr. Johnson has practiced dentistry 30 years, 13 in Sikeston. He is a graduate of the Kansas City Western Dental College, which now is associated with the University of Missouri.

Three Injured in Traffic Accidents

The highway patrol reported three injuries in traffic accidents over the weekend.

A one-car accident Sunday at 7:20 a.m. at the intersection of Interstate 55 and 57, four miles east of Sikeston, sent James Beal, 21, Chicago driver of a 1965 Pontiac to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where he was treated for head cuts.

The patrol said he apparently went to sleep, ran off the road, and struck a highway marker.

A two-car collision Sunday at 4 p.m. in Dexter, resulted on cuts on the knee for Deborah Nochta, 16, Dexter.

She was driving a 1968 Pontiac, when it collided with a 1967 Chevrolet, driven by Creal Black, 71, at an unmarked intersection. The Pontiac ran into the side of the Black car.

Dennis Lancaster, 20, Randles, driver of a 1965 Pontiac, was treated for scratches and bruises in a one-car accident Saturday at 6:45 p.m. in Perkins.

He was taken to St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Think this over: "Society can have law and order without freedom, tho society can remain free without law and order."

* * *

BATTLER FROM 'BAMA

Southeast Missourians who attended yesterday's Wallace - for - President rally at Cape Girardeau couldn't have been disappointed in the weather, the crowd, the enthusiasm or the candidate himself. The weather was perfect, the crowd was estimated at 6,000 persons, the enthusiasm would rival any Bootheel political rally, and as for the candidate, George C. Wallace lived up to all of his advance billings. And perhaps a little more.

Striking out at some of the innumerable frustrations felt by Americans in 1968, the former Alabama Governor addressed himself to such subjects as law and order, busing of school children, the federal open housing act, farm income, student protest movements, the Vietnam war and back again to law and order. All of these subjects, in varying degrees, have provided the frustrations of 1968, a year in which political history in this section of the state and even perhaps across the nation may well be rewritten.

Although he disclaims any "Wallace phenomenon," the 6,000 persons who attended yesterday's rally in this Democratic stronghold of Missouri disproved it. For here were 6,000 Southeast Missourians who were neither racists nor radicals, neither red-necks nor revolutionaries. For the most part they were solid, respectable, middle - class American citizens who had come to hear a candidate for the President of the United States discuss the same problems they, themselves, have been discussing. And these Southeast Missourians were not disappointed in what they heard.

Indeed, Wallace had an answer for nearly every problem, even if some of the answers were a little too simple for the complex dilemmas facing the nation. Recognizing this, the candidate promised a full discussion of his position on every major problem with the release of a platform by the American Independent Party.

Wallace seemed anxious to impress upon the crowd two facts: First, he could be trusted to love "the folks" as much after election as he does now, and, secondly, if "the folks" will go out and work for him, he has a chance to be elected President. We have no reason to doubt his sincerity in the first instance, and in the second instance, we suspect that he will be closer to the truth on November 5 than a good many Americans now realize.

While Richard Nixon is out enthusing the Republicans, who number some 26 per cent of the registered voters, and while Hubert Humphrey is still trying to rouse anyone, Wallace's campaign has no trouble reaching into what may well be called the mainstream of today's America. If George Wallace is attracting the kind of crowds and the kind of enthusiasm in the northern industrial states that he attracted in Southeast Missouri yesterday, then all general election bets are off. Wallace took particular pains to tell newsmen yesterday that he was, indeed, doing as well elsewhere as he's doing in the South and the border states. While often critical of the press in his speech yesterday, Wallace did not hesitate to try to use the news media to get across the message that he is gaining on both candidates, that he will get more steam in the weeks ahead, and that, come November 5, the liberals and the non-believers will be as shocked as the Republicans were in 1948.

Wallace has promised that if elected President he will solve many of the frustrations now facing the nation. But things don't always work out that way, as evidence President Kennedy's inability to get his programs through Congress. It is a mistake to label the American Independent Party as a political organization; it is not. It carries few candidates other than George Wallace and promises no majority in either the House or the Senate. John Kennedy couldn't get legislation through the Congress and he had a majority in both houses; George Wallace as President would find the going even tougher. These are the political facts of life, as practiced in the nation's capital.

The greatest contribution Wallace has made thus far is to point up some of the deep and abiding frustrations of mainstream America. His greatest failure to date has been to provide adequate solutions to most of these problems, unless one wishes to take him at his word and accept as gospel his promise to change everything that's bad in the nation today.

The greatest fault of both the Democratic and Republican parties is to provide a reason for a George Wallace in the first place. There is more than slight truth to Wallace's contention that both parties stand pretty much for the same thing. The Democrats and Republicans excuse this on the ground that national problems are complex and solutions rest more in the techniques of solution than simple, pat answers. In this, they have a point.

But the political point of 1968 is that George Wallace is gaining on both Mr. Nixon and Mrs. Humphrey. We believe both of them have already looked over their shoulders to catch a glimpse of the candidate from Alabama.

Who was it who said not all winners are ahead at the half-way mark?

ASKING FOR IT

Only a few years ago it would have been inconceivable that a candidate for President of the United States would appear on a television variety show and say, "Sock it to me." Yet Newsweek magazine reports (Aug. 5, 1968) that that's just what former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will do on the Rowan and Martin program on Monday evening, Sept. 16. The three-second spot was taped before the Miami REpublican convention. Nixon-Agnew headquarters in New York City confirm the appearance.

The pragmatic reasoning is simple. Rowan and Martin command perhaps 30 million viewers. Politics and television have contracted an informal, mutually uneasy marriage of convenience in recent years. Candidates of both major parties show up on the Johnny Carson show late in the evening and the Today show at breakfast time.

No candidate for high national or state office can afford to ignore a medium that reaches at least 98 per cent of all American households wired for electricity. Television politics is costly, both to the candidates and the broadcasters. Few politicos are going to turn down even three seconds of national prime time.

WHAT TO WEAR ON AN AUTUMN TRIP

Among the most important items of wear are the windshield wipers. No matter whether the wiper mechanism still works like a metronome, if the blades streak you can't trust them. THE LAW'S HALTER ON DR. SPOCK

"A child, like an adult, knows when he is getting away with too much naughtiness or rudeness even when his mother is trying to close her eyes to it. He feels guilty inside. He would like to be stopped. But if he isn't corrected, he's likely to behave worse and worse. It's as if he were saying, 'How bad do I have to be before somebody stops me?'"

From "Baby and Child Care," by Benjamin Spock, M.D.

Dr. Spock, of course, is not a child, nor does he fell at all guilty inside for behaving "naughtily"—for having encouraged resistance to the draft. Entirely the contrary; the highest personal moral motives impelled him to do what he did.

Nor is society in the position of parent to Dr. Spock. Yet there is a parallel between the situation described above by the famed baby doctor and the situation society found itself in because of his opposition to the war in Vietanm.

America, the wails of the way-out liberals notwithstanding, still tolerates a great deal of dissent—perhaps more than it ever has in history. Because it does, Spock and his associates had to deliberately court a confrontation with authority and had to go to extreme lengths before the government could be proded into indicting them on a charge of "conspiring to counsel young men to evade the draft."

A point was finally reached when authority could no longer close its eyes and realize that if respect for the law were not enforced, the actions of the dissenters would get worse and worse. It was as if it said, "How bad can we allow them to get before we stop them?"

As Federal Judge Francis Ford stated at the time of sentencing Spock and his three co-defendants, they had been found guilty of "what amounts to rebellion against the law. It is important that the laws be enforce for the protection of each one of us. I believe that lawlessness cannot be tolerated. Where the law and order stops, anarchy begins."

That is what the trial and conviction of Dr. Spock was all about. It had nothing to do with the suppression of free speech or the crushing of opposition to government policy.

There is no doubt that Dr. Spock is convinced of the immorality of the Vietnam war and the evil of a law that requires young men to fight in it. He could go on decrying the war and the law for as long as the war lasted and no one would question his right to do so.

He chose, however, the tactic of outright violation of the law in order to dramatize his beliefs and to arouse the consciences of those Americans who aren't sure or who perhaps don't care.

In that, he has so far failed. Another generation may vindicate him and hail him as a hero. Or it may very well decide that the course he advocated would have led to even greater evils than those he denounced.

Whatever the event, the good doctor today stands convicted of breaking the law and has no choice but to take his medicine.

TAKE OVER THE ENEMY

For the last third of a century or more, the 99 per cent non-communist part of the U.S. population has been losing a battle to the one per cent who are better organized. The anti-freedomists constituting this small percentage make no secret of their intention to take over the nation. But that does not have to happen. A better plan is for lovers of freedom to take over the enemy!

If patroits will refrain from hating this one per cent and instead work constantly at appraising and cultivating the enemy, they will acquire -- tuition-free -- valuable information and know-how which cannot be bought or learned from their closest friends. Patriots will find the avowed enemy eager to make contact and meet them halfway. This may seem surprising, but it is not really surprising. Just this kind of attitude and aptitude may be the secret of the success of the dedicated, well-organized minority, which is winning.

Highly intelligent patroiots, with truth on their side, may transmit the knowledge they gain to fellow non-communists, who will help them convert the dupes and stooges. These latter groups are never apathetic. They are always anxious to "take a side" and eager to "get in on the act," whether right or wrong. There is no logical reason why they should be left in the hands of freedom's enemies whey they could just as well be working for the right side. We may, through simply increasing our understanding of human nature, begin winning before it is too late. HLH

Even among men who consider themselves healthy, the chances are one in five that they'll have a heart attack before their 60th birthday.

One of America's most colorful battlefield commanders, the late Gen. George S. Patton Jr., also renowned for his deep knowledge of military history, never learned to read and write until he was 12.

Add the picturesque windmills of Holland to the victims of progress. They still look fine on post cards, but their task of removing excess water from the Netherlands has been taken over by electric pumps.

Here's why you need regular exercise: about half of your body weight is made up of 10 million muscle cells. Unless you flex the muscles, they weaken into flab.

A student's intelligence quotient can be affected by the outlook of his teacher. Studies by a Harvard psychologist found that teachers with positive attitudes could increase the I.Q. of students by as much as four points within a single school year. Negative-minded teachers held the students back.

Nutrition experts believe most Americans probably eat too little in the morning and too much at night. Their recommendation: eat two-fifths of your daily caloric intake for breakfast, two-fifths at lunch, and only one-fifth during your evening meal.

Safety in age: Some medical authorities question the wisdom of the mandatory rule retiring commercial pilots at 60. Tests have shown that they respond better to stress situations than younger pilots. And government studies reveal that the accident rate among nearly 10,000 licensed flyers aged 60 and over is lower than for any other age group except those in the 45-49 bracket, whose safety record is only slightly superior.

Drinking problems: Schools and colleges today need to have alcohol education programs, says the National Institute of Mental Health. It points out that 60 per cent of teen-agers now drink before leaving high school, drinking is no longer taboo at many colleges, and more than half a dozen even serve beer on campus.

Botanical myth: Did you think, as most people do, that sunflowers always turn their petals toward the sun? Well, they don't. Prevailing winds often determine the direction in which the blossom head faces.

Worth remembering: "Juvenile delinquency is the result of parents trying to train children without starting at the bottom."

History lesson: Can you identify the U.S. presidents who bore the following nicknames: "Old Fox," "Sectional President," "Veto President," and "Boss"? They were, in order, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Grover Cleveland, and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Disenfranchised: Millions of Americans may lose their voting rights, come November, because one out of six persons in our nomadic population will have moved to another state during the year. A residence of six months to a year is required of voters by most states. In New York the period is only three months—in Mississippi it is two years.

Prosperity note: More Americans should eat high on the turkey this Thanksgiving. In 1940 the United States had 35 million turkeys, one for every four persons. This year the supply is more plentiful—about one for every two persons, theoretically allowing a drumstick for nearly everybody.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

HOOVER US. CLARK

For some time the Washington Merry-Go-Round has spotlighted the backstage bickering between J. Edgar Hoover and his boss, Attorney General Ramsey Clark. In columns dated Jan. 23 and Feb. 5, 1968, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that the two men were at wide variance on law renforcement, and hardly spoke.

This was revealed publicly for the first time on Sept. 18, when Hoover and Clark testified before the National Commission on causes and prevention of violence.

DREW PEARSON SAYS: President holds tight rein on Paris peace team; Word to Harriman and Vance is "clear it with LBJ"; Peace overtures have aborted twice

PARIS--You can write it down as certain that LBJ will never get a truce in Vietnam as long as he keeps his two negotiators in Paris so tightly on the leash.

Friendly western diplomats, who have been following in great detail the attempts to get a truce in Vietnam, are amazed at the manner in which the President of the United States tries to dictate the Paris talks from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

They note that he has two of the most experienced diplomats from the American stable of Diplomacy representing him in Paris. Ambassador Averell Harriman has served in the cabinet, as Ambassador to Moscow. Ambassador to London, as deputy under Secretary of State and as Ambassador for the Marshall plan in Europe. He has conducted some of the most skilled and delicate negotiations in recent years, including the settlement of thetrouble in Laos and the test ban treaty with Russia.

Cyrus Vance, former under Secretary of defense, is also one of Johnson's most trusted negotiators. He was sent as a troubleshooter to Cyprus when that controversial Island appeared on the verge of exploding into a Mediterranean war. He was sent to Detroit during the Negro riots of 1967. He was dispatched to the far east when North Korea seized the USS Pueblo.

Both these men know their diplomatic onions probably far better than the President. Yet they have been required to clear everything with him.

NIXON & LBJ

Sometimes, furthermore, they have almost received the impression that President Johnson would rather see Nixon elected in November than Vice President Humphrey. "Spider" Vance got something of a jolt regarding this when he received a telephone call in August from the President asking him to come to the LBJ ranch. Vance was about to take off for Paris, but went to Texas instead.

There he found, somewhat to his suprise, former Vice President Nixon lunching with LBJ. Vance was asked to give Nixon a briefing on the truce talks. It surprised him, as it did others around the White House, that Johnson would invite Nixon to lunch only two days after his nomination.

The public doesn't know it, but Twice during the last three months the truce talks have been on the verge of success. Here is the inside story of what happened:

1. Last June Philip Noel-Baker, a British quaker and long-time member of Parliament who had been to Hanoi, worked out a plan with the North Vietnamese and the American negotiators in Paris to get an agreement the minute the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam. The formula was for the United States to move first, with an agreement that North Vietnam would move immediately thereafter.

But suddenly there was publicity in Washington. Someone leaked.

At this point the North Vietnamese blew up. Part of the agreement was that there were to be no leaks. American diplomats in Paris explained that they were under requirement to report these moves to the President and that they were not responsible for the leak. There was some suspicion that the leak from the White House was deliberate on the part of those around LBJ who don't really want peace. But there was no evidence.

At any rate, the damage was done. This particular peace overture was exploded.

SECOND MOVE FOR PEACE

2. Toward the end of last July negotiators also were on the verge of agreement. The North Vietnamese had curtailed their ground operations. There was relative quiet in South Vietnam. It was proposed that this be taken as evidence of "responsible reciprocity" anthat the United States suspend all bombing.

But at this point President Johnson flew to Hawaii, where he met President Thieu of South Vietnam. He issued a vigorous statement against any concessions. Once again the precariously negotiated peace proposals went up in smoke.

American diplomats in Paris are still optimistic--but only if the President will take his hands off the reins and give them a chance. Some of them are reminded of thmanner in which LBJ operates his Texas ranch. The President gets a great kick out of running things himself.

On occasion he has been known to telephone over his short have car radio to the ranch manager somewhat as follows: "The fence is down over here in the South pasture. Get Sam and Joe and tell them to take the white pickup truck and come over here. Don't use the station wagon. It's over in the north pasture. And don't bother Jake. He's on another job with those whiteface over in the feed lot. Pick up that 12-pound sledge and don't forget to bring a roll of barbed wire, a couple of fence posts and a pair of pliers."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

'REVOLUTIONIZING' THE STREETS:

Federal Poverty Officials Use Working Time to Discredit U. S.

Washington, D. C.: -- Long before the hippies, Yippies and Mobilizers hit the streets to "radicalize" the citizenry, there were directors of the Office of Economic Opportunity who, quite skillfully, directed poverty workers to go out and "revolutionize" the nation's ghettos.

This community action formula was developed by two former labor officials appointed by Ambassador Sargent Shriver, the OEO director.

The labor men have gone. But their policy lingers on amid turbulence, violence, tumultuous mass picketing, and disruption of child care, poverty counseling, cleanup of slum streets and training of the hard core jobless. I charge this flatly.

The labor officials nonchalantly referred to their policy of education-in-revolution as "Go fight City Hall." There is at least one communication in the OEO files to this effect - unless it has been destroyed or its dossier moved along with the itinerant labor men.

Thus hundreds of thousands of dollars, perhaps millions, have been and are being poured into this revolutionary street-action tactic. Poverty executives, some earning from $15,000 to $30,000 annually, spend their time confronting, frequently battling the police, picketing city halls and boards of education, closing down schools, struggling with union workers, and actually discrediting the U. S. in the presence of foreign statesmen.

A week ago I explained all this to an OEO official. In detail I reported the following Kafkaesqye "incident":

The city of New York had invited 84 world leaders in the country for a UN social welfare conference, to take a walking tour of the metropolis on Sept. 11. The intent was to show the government leaders from all continents -- including Africa -- the "best and worst" of our society. Fifty prestigious delegates from 50 nations accepted and turned out.

They were driven out to the city's uproarious Ocean Hall-Brownsville district, where the black decentralized local school governing board is battling the United Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO), the largest local union in the land.

The UN delegates from nations reaching from Norway to Uganda went into the Brownsville Community Council headquarters. This is a federally funded, OEO subsidiary.

There they were suddenly told by a local poverty executive that they would soon hear from a grandmother's own lips how she was beaten by the police -- New York's not Chicago's gendarmerie. Before the weeping woman was brought on stage, the world delegates were informed curtly that the tour was off. There just was nothing to see at the child car centers or other poverty offices, clinics, and counseling services. The centers had been shut down.

Why? Because, said the OEO executive director, the 400 poverty counselors and workers were out demonstrating against the police.

Thus, the foreign visitors - on whose governments we spend hundreds of millions of U. S. Information Agency dollars for good will and imagery -- were sent back to their hotels believing that here fighting poverty means fighting.

This is the impression, it seems to me, willfully given by the OEO executives. In effect, one federally funded agency was not only discrediting the government which provides it with millions, but also negating the work of another federal agency.

Furthermore, the poverty officials - most of the district's 400 -- were accomplishing their august mission on government time. But this disturbs them not. They have been picketing, terrorizing, howling at city officials and the boards of education for months.

These poverty counselors earn from $175 to $225 a week, depending on their training and education, if you'll forgive me the expression. Their leaders earn from $15,000 to $20,000 annually. The latter have assistants at pay ranging from $11,000 to $14,000. And in most big cities, the central executive director is in charge and receives up to $30,000 a year.

All this I explained carefully is most basic English to a spokesman for the OEO national headquarters here. I told him I'd wait a week for an answer.

How could federally paid "poverty workers" be permitted to go off and demonstrate against the police? How could they be permitted to shut down child car centers? What happened to the children?How could they continue to battle the authorities day after day and still draw pay?

And how could the directors of one federal agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity, permit their colleagues to discredit the work of another federal unit, the U. S. Information Agency, as well as smear the reputation of the government itself?

I have had no reply. Does no one care?

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Think this over: "Society can have law and order without freedom, tho society can remain free without law and order."

BATTLER FROM 'BAMA

Southeast Missourians who attended yesterday's Wallace - for - President rally at Cape Girardeau couldn't have been disappointed in the weather, the crowd, the enthusiasm or the candidate himself. The weather was perfect, the crowd was estimated at 6,000 persons, the enthusiasm would rival any Bootheel political rally, and as for the candidate, George C. Wallace lived up to all of his advance billings. And perhaps a little more.

Striking out at some of the innumerable frustrations felt by Americans in 1968, the former Alabama Governor addressed himself to such subjects as law and order, busing of school children, the federal open housing act, farm income, student protest movements, the Vietnam war and back again to law and order. All of these subjects, in varying degrees, have provided the frustrations of 1968, a year in which political history in this section of the state and even perhaps across the nation may well be rewritten.

Although he disclaims any "Wallace phenomenon," the 6,000 persons who attended yesterday's rally in this Democratic stronghold of Missouri disproved it. For here were 6,000 Southeast Missourians who were neither racists nor radicals, neither red-necks nor revolutionaries. For the most part they were solid, respectable, middle - class American citizens who had come to hear a candidate for the President of the United States discuss the same problems they, themselves, have been discussing. And these Southeast Missourians were not disappointed in what they heard.

Indeed, Wallace had an answer for nearly every problem, even if some of the answers were a little too simple for the complex dilemmas facing the nation. Recognizing this, the candidate promised a full discussion of his position on every major problem with the release of a platform by the American Independent Party.

Wallace seemed anxious to impress upon the crowd two facts: First, he could be trusted to love "the folks" as much after election as he does now, and, secondly, if "the folks" will go out and work for him, he has a chance to be elected President. We have no reason to doubt his sincerity in the first instance, and in the second instance, we suspect that he will be closer to the truth on November 5 than a good many Americans now realize.

While Richard Nixon is out enthusing the Republicans, who number some 26 per cent of the registered voters, and while Hubert Humphrey is still trying to rouse anyone, Wallace's campaign has no trouble reaching into what may well be called the mainstream of today's America. If George Wallace is attracting the kind of crowds and the kind of enthusiasm in the northern industrial states that he attracted in Southeast Missouri yesterday, then all general election bets are off. Wallace took particular pains to tell newsmen yesterday that he was, indeed, doing as well elsewhere as he's doing in the South and the border states. While often critical of the press in his speech yesterday, Wallace did not hesitate to try to use the news media to get across the message that he is gaining on both candidates, that he will get more steam in the weeks ahead, and that, come November 5, the liberals and the non-believers will be as shocked as the Republicans were in 1948.

Wallace has promised that if elected President he will solve many of the frustrations now facing the nation. But things don't always work out that way, as evidence President Kennedy's inability to get his programs through Congress. It is a mistake to label the American Independent Party as a political organization; it is not. It carries few candidates other than George Wallace and promises no majority in either the House or the Senate. John Kennedy couldn't get legislation through the Congress and he had a majority in both houses; George Wallace as President would find the going even tougher. These are the political facts of life, as practiced in the nation's capital.

The greatest contribution Wallace has made thus far is to point up some of the deep and abiding frustrations of mainstream America. His greatest failure to date has been to provide adequate solutions to most of these problems, unless one wishes to take him at his word and accept as gospel his promise to change everything that's bad in the nation today.

There is more than slight truth to Wallace's contention that both parties stand pretty much for the same thing. The Democrats and Republicans excuse this on the ground that national problems are complex and solutions rest more in the techniques of solution than simple, pat answers. In this, they have a point.

But the political point of 1968 is that George Wallace is gaining on both Mr. Nixon and Mrs. Humphrey. We believe both of them have already looked over their shoulders to catch a glimpse of the candidate from Alabama.

Among the most important items of wear are the windshield wipers. No matter whether the wiper mechanism still works like a metronome, if the blades streak you can't trust them. Have them refilled or replaced. Don't wear signs or doodads or swinging knickknacks in the windows of your car. Keep your visibility as clear as the clear blue sky.

Take along a raincoat or a top coat that you can wear when needed away from home.

The horse and mule live 30 years
And know nothing of wines and beers;
The goat and sheep at twenty die
And never taste of Scotch and Rye;
The cow drinks water by the ton
And at 18 is mostly done;
The dog at 15 cashes in
Without the aid of Rum and Gin;
The cat in milk and water soaks,
Then at 12 short years it croaks;
The modest, sober, bone-dry hen
Lays eggs for nogs, then dies at 10.
All animals are strictly dry,
They sinless live and swiftly die;
But sinful, ginful, rum-soaked men
Survive for three score years and ten;
And some of us, the mighty few,
Stay pickled 'til we're 92!

THE LAW'S HALTER ON DR. SPOCK

"A child, like an adult, knows when he is getting away with too much naughtiness or rudeness even when his mother is trying to close her eyes to it. He feels guilty inside. He would like to be stopped. But if he isn't corrected, he's likely to behave worse and worse. It's as if he were saying, 'How bad do I have to be before somebody stops me?'"

From "Baby and Child Care," by Benjamin Spock, M.D.

Dr. Spock, of course, is not a child, nor does he fell at all guilty inside for behaving "naughtily"—for having encouraged resistance to the draft. Entirely the contrary; the highest personal moral motives impelled him to do what he did.

Nor is society in the position of parent to Dr. Spock. Yet there is a parallel between the situation described above by the famed baby doctor and the situation society found itself in because of his opposition to the war in Vietanm.

America, the wails of the way-out liberals notwithstanding, still tolerates a great deal of dissent—perhaps more than it ever has in history. Because it does, Spock and his associates had to deliberately court a confrontation with authority and had to go to extreme lengths before the government could be proded into indicting them on a charge of "conspiring to counsel young men to evade the draft."

A point was finally reached when authority could no longer close its eyes and realize that if respect for the law were not enforced, the actions of the dissenters would get worse and worse. It was as if it said, "How bad can we allow them to get before we stop them?"

As Federal Judge Francis Ford stated at the time of sentencing Spock and his three co-defendants, they had been found guilty of "what amounts to rebellion against the law. It is important that the laws be enforce for the protection of each one of us. I believe that lawlessness cannot be tolerated. Where the law and order stops, anarchy begins."

That is what the trial and conviction of Dr. Spock was all about. It had nothing to do with the suppression of free speech or the crushing of opposition to government policy.

There is no doubt that Dr. Spock is convinced of the immorality of the Vietnam war and the evil of a law that requires young men to fight in it. He could go on decrying the war and the law for as long as the war lasted and no one would question his right to do so.

He chose, however, the tactic of outright violation of the law in order to dramatize his beliefs and to arouse the consciences of those Americans who aren't sure or who perhaps don't care.

In that, he has so far failed. Another generation may vindicate him and hail him as a hero. Or it may very well decide that the course he advocated would have led to even greater evils than those he denounced.

Whatever the event, the good doctor today stands convicted of breaking the law and has no choice but to take his medicine.

RED HAVE YEN FOR YEN

Long addicted to using the pound sterling in international trade - and ideology be damned, Communist China switched to the French franc last November when the pound was devalued.

But France's troubles now have Mao's bankers leery of the franc, and it is the Japanese yen that is currently in favor as the prime monetary unit for Red Chinese financial transactions with the West.

TAKE OVER THE ENEMY

For the last third of a century or more, the 99 per cent non-communist part of the U.S. population has been losing a battle to the one per cent who are better organized. The anti-freedomists constituting this small percentage make no secret of their intention to take over the nation. But that does not have to happen. A better plan is for lovers of freedom to take over the enemy!

If patroits will refrain from hating this one per cent and instead work constantly at appraising and cultivating the enemy, they will acquire - tuition-free -- valuable information and know-how which cannot be bought or learned from their closest friends. Patriots will find the avowed enemy eager to make contact and meet them halfway. This may seem surprising, but it is not really surprising. Just this kind of attitude and aptitude may be the secret of the success of the dedicated, well-organized minority, which is winning.

Highly intelligent patroiots with truth on their side, may transmit the knowledge they gain to fellow non-communists who will help them convert the dupes and stooges. These latter groups are never apathetic. They are always anxious to "take side" and eager to "get in on the act," whether right or wrong. There is no logical reason why they should be left in the hands of freedom's enemies whey they could just as well be working for the right side. We may, through simply increasing our understanding of human nature begin winning before it is too late. HLH

Even among men who consider themselves healthy, the chances are one in five that they'll have a heart attack before their 60th birthday.

One of America's most colorful battlefield commanders, the late Gen. George S. Patton Jr., also renowned for his deep knowledge of military history, never learned to read and write until he was 12.

Add the picturesque windmills of Holland to the victims of progress. They still look fine on post cards, but their task of removing excess water from the Netherlands has been taken over by electric pumps.

Here's why you need regular exercise: about half of your body weight is made up of 10 million muscle cells. Unless you flex the muscles, they weaken into flab.

A student's intelligence quotient can be affected by the outlook of his teacher. Studies by a Harvard psychologist found that teachers with positive attitudes could increase the I.Q. of students by as much as four points within a single school year. Negative-minded teachers held the students back.

Nutrition experts believe most Americans probably eat too little in the morning and too much at night. Their recommendation: eat two-fifths of your daily caloric intake for breakfast, two-fifths at lunch, and only one-fifth during your evening meal.

Safety in age: Some medical authorities question the wisdom of the mandatory rule retiring commercial pilots at 60. Tests have shown that they respond better to stress situations than younger pilots. And government studies reveal that the accident rate among nearly 10,000 licensed flyers aged 60 and over is lower than for any other age group except those in the 45-49 bracket, whose safety record is only slightly superior.

Drinking problems: Schools and colleges today need to have alcohol education programs, says the National Institute of Mental Health. It points out that 60 per cent of teen-agers now drink before leaving high school, drinking is no longer taboo at many colleges, and more than half a dozen even serve beer on campus.

Botanical myth: Did you think, as most people do, that sunflowers always turn their petals toward the sun? Well, they don't. Prevailing winds often determine the direction in which the blossom head faces.

Worth remembering: "Juvenile delinquency is the result of parents trying to train children without starting at the bottom."

History lesson: Can you identify the U.S. presidents who bore the following nicknames: "Old Fox," "Sectional President," "Veto President," and "Boss"? They were, in order, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Grover Cleveland, and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Disenfranchised: Millions of Americans may lose their voting rights, come November, because one out of six persons in our nomadic population will have moved to another state during the year. A residence of six months to a year is required of voters by most states. In New York the period is only three months—in Mississippi it is two years.

Prosperity note: More Americans should eat high on the turkey this Thanksgiving. In 1940 the United States had 35 million turkeys, one for every four persons. This year the supply is more plentiful—about one for every two persons, theoretically allowing a drumstick for nearly everybody.

It was E.W. Howe who observed, "i think I am better than the people who are trying to reform me."

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

HOOVER US. CLARK

For some time the Washington Merry-Go-Round has spotlighted the backstage bickering between J. Edgar Hoover and his boss, Attorney General Ramsey Clark. In columns dated Jan. 23 and Feb. 5, 1968, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that the two men were at wide variance on law renforcement, and hardly spoke.

This was revealed publicly for the first time on Sept. 18, when Hoover and Clark testified before the National Commission on causes and prevention of violence.

DREW PEARSON SAYS: President holds tight rein on Paris peace team; Word to Harriman and Vance is "clear it with LBJ"; Peace overtures have aborted twice

PARIS--You can write it down as certain that LBJ will never get a truce in Vietnam as long as he keeps his two negotiators in Paris so tightly on the leash.

Friendly western diplomats, who have been following in great detail the attempts to get a truce in Vietnam, are amazed at the manner in which the President of the United States tries to dictate the Paris talks from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

They note that he has two of the most experienced diplomats from the American stable of Diplomacy representing him in Paris. Ambassador Averell Harriman has served in the cabinet, as Ambassador to Moscow. Ambassador to London, as deputy under Secretary of State and as Ambassador for the Marshall plan in Europe. He has conducted some of the most skilled and delicate negotiations in recent years, including the settlement of thetrouble in Laos and the test ban treaty with Russia.

Cyrus Vance, former under Secretary of defense, is also one of Johnson's most trusted negotiators. He was sent as a troubleshooter to Cyprus when that controversial Island appeared on the verge of exploding into a Mediterranean war. He was sent to Detroit during the Negro riots of 1967. He was dispatched to the far east when North Korea seized the USS Pueblo.

Both these men know their diplomatic onions probably far better than the President. Yet they have been required to clear everything with him.

NIXON & LBJ

Sometimes, furthermore, they have almost received the impression that President Johnson would rather see Nixon elected in November than Vice President Humphrey. "Spider" Vance got something of a jolt regarding this when he received a telephone call in August from the President asking him to come to the LBJ ranch. Vance was about to take off for Paris, but went to Texas instead.

There he found, somewhat to his suprise, former Vice President Nixon lunching with LBJ. Vance was asked to give Nixon a briefing on the truce talks. It surprised him, as it did others around the White House, that Johnson would invite Nixon to lunch only two days after his nomination.

The public doesn't know it, but Twice during the last three months the truce talks have been on the verge of success. Here is the inside story of what happened:

1. Last June Philip Noel-Baker, a British quaker and long-time member of Parliament who had been to Hanoi, worked out a plan with the North Vietnamese and the American negotiators in Paris to get an agreement the minute the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam. The formula was for the United States to move first, with an agreement that North Vietnam would move immediately thereafter.

But suddenly there was publicity in Washington. Someone leaked.

At this point the North Vietnamese blew up. Part of the agreement was that there were to be no leaks. American diplomats in Paris explained that they were under requirement to report these moves to the President and that they were not responsible for the leak. There was some suspicion that the leak from the White House was deliberate on the part of those around LBJ who don't really want peace. But there was no evidence.

At any rate, the damage was done. This particular peace overture was exploded.

SECOND MOVE FOR PEACE

2. Toward the end of last July negotiators also were on the verge of agreement. The North Vietnamese had curtailed their ground operations. There was relative quiet in South Vietnam. It was proposed that this be taken as evidence of "responsible reciprocity" anthat the United States suspend all bombing.

But at this point President Johnson flew to Hawaii, where he met President Thieu of South Vietnam. He issued a vigorous statement against any concessions. Once again the precariously negotiated peace proposals went up in smoke.

American diplomats in Paris are still optimistic--but only if the President will take his hands off the reins and give them a chance. Some of them are reminded of thmanner in which LBJ operates his Texas ranch. The President gets a great kick out of running things himself.

On occasion he has been known to telephone over his short have car radio to the ranch manager somewhat as follows: "The fence is down over here in the South pasture. Get Sam and Joe and tell them to take the white pickup truck and come over here. Don't use the station wagon. It's over in the north pasture. And don't bother Jake. He's on another job with those whiteface over in the feed lot. Pick up that 12-pound sledge and don't forget to bring a roll of barbed wire, a couple of fence posts and a pair of pliers."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

'REVOLUTIONIZING' THE STREETS:

Federal Poverty Officials Use Working Time to Discredit U. S.

Washington, D. C.: -- Long before the hippies, Yippies and Mobilizers hit the streets to "radicalize" the citizenry, there were directors of the Office of Economic Opportunity who, quite skillfully, directed poverty workers to go out and "revolutionize" the nation's ghettos.

This community action formula was developed by two former labor officials appointed by Ambassador Sargent Shriver, the OEO director.

The labor men have gone. But their policy lingers on amid turbulence, violence, tumultuous mass picketing, and disruption of child care, poverty counseling, cleanup of slum streets and training of the hard core jobless. I charge this flatly.

The labor officials nonchalantly referred to their policy of education-in-revolution as "Go fight City Hall." There is at least one communication in the OEO files to this effect - unless it has been destroyed or its dossier moved along with the itinerant labor men.

Thus hundreds of thousands of dollars, perhaps millions, have been and are being poured into this revolutionary street-action tactic. Poverty executives, some earning from $15,000 to $30,000 annually, spend their time confronting, frequently battling the police, picketing city halls and boards of education, closing down schools, struggling with union workers, and actually discrediting the U. S. in the presence of foreign statesmen.

A week ago I explained all this to an OEO official. In detail I reported the following Kafkaesqye "incident":

The city of New York had invited 84 world leaders in the country for a UN social welfare conference, to take a walking tour of the metropolis on Sept. 11. The intent was to show the government leaders from all continents -- including Africa -- the "best and worst" of our society. Fifty prestigious delegates from 50 nations accepted and turned out.

They were driven out to the city's uproarious Ocean Hall-Brownsville district, where the black decentralized local school governing board is battling the United Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO), the largest local union in the land.

The UN delegates from nations reaching from Norway to Uganda went into the Brownsville Community Council headquarters. This is a federally funded, OEO subsidiary.

There they were suddenl told by a local poverty executiv that they would soon hear fro a grandmother's own lips ho she was beaten by the police New York's not Chicago gendarmerie. Before the weepin woman was brought on stag the world delegates wer informed curtly that the tou was off. There just was nothin to see at the child car centers other poverty offices, clinic and counseling services. Th centers had been shut down.

Why? Because, said the OEC executive director, the 40 poverty counselors and worke were out demonstrating again the police.

Thus, the foreign visitors - whose governments we sper hundreds of millions of U. Information Agency dollars f good will and imagery -- we sent back to their hote believing that here fighti poverty means fighting.

This is the impression, seems to me, willfully given the OEO executives. In effe one federally funded agency w not only discrediting t government which provides with millions, but also negati the work of another fede agency.

Furthermore, the pover officials - most of the distric 400 -- were accomplishing th august mission on governme time. But this disturbs them n They have been picketi terrorizing, howling at c officials and the boards education for months.

These poverty counsel earn from $175 to $225 a we depending on their training a education, if you'll forgive the expression. Their lead earn from $15,000 to $20,0 annually. The latter h assistants at pay ranging fr $11,000 to $14,000. And most big cities, the cent executive director is in cha and receives up to $30,00 year.

All this I explained carefu is most basic English to spokesman for the OEO natio headquarters here. I told him wait a week for an answer.

How could federally p "poverty workers" be permit to go off and demonstr against the police? How co they be permitted to shut do child car centers? Wh happened to the children?Ho could they continue to ba the authorities day after day still draw pay?

And how could the direct of one federal agency, the Of of Economic Opportun permit their colleagues discredit the work of anot federal unit, the U. Information Agency, as wel smear the reputation of government itself?

I have had no reply. Does one care?

Couple Wed In Ceremony

BENTON—St. Denis Catholic Church here was the scene Aug. 31 for the wedding of Miss Thearl Lee Moore to Linus Leo Glastetter. The double ring ceremony was preformed by the pastor, the Rev. Francis P. Donovan.

Mr. Glastetter is the son of Mrs. Coletta Glastetter of Illmo.

Presented in marriage by a friend, Rudy Eifert, the bride chose a formal gown of Chantilace over taffeta with an empire waist and elbow-length kabuki sleeves. A bouffant veil of imported English illusion was attached to a cap of lace petals, pearls and hand-ctu crystals. She carried a bouquet of white roses, ivy, and white ribbon streamers.

Attendants to the couple were Miss Armella Glastetter, sister of the bridegroom, and Leon Enderle of Chaffee. Miss Glastetter wore a formal gown of aqua chiffon, and carried white carnations with a center of five yellow rosebuds and yellow ribbon streamers.

Couple Wed In Ceremony

BENTON—St. Denis Catholic Church here was the scene Aug. 31 for the wedding of Miss Thearl Lee Moore to Linus Leo Glastetter. The double ring ceremony was preformed by the pastor, the Rev. Francis P. Donovan.

Mr. Glastetter is the son of Mrs. Coletta Glastetter of Illmo.

Presented in marriage by a friend, Rudy Eifert, the bride chose a formal gown of Chantilace over taffeta with an empire waist and elbow-length kabuki sleeves. A bouffant veil of imported English illusion was attached to a cap of lace petals, pearls and hand-ctu crystals. She carried a bouquet of white roses, ivy, and white ribbon streamers.

Attendants to the couple were Miss Armella Glastetter, sister of the bridegroom, and Leon Enderle of Chaffee. Miss Glastetter wore a formal gown of aqua chiffon, and carried white carnations with a center of five yellow rosebuds and yellow ribbon streamers.

Dodgers Sweep 3-Game Card Series

For the past week the National League champs have shown the Bird-dogs practically nothing.

Los Angeles' late-streaking Dodgers beat St. Louis ace Bob Gibson 3-2 Sunday, completing a three-game sweep of the Cardinals for a 15-4 mark over the last three weeks.

The Cards have won one of six starts since they locked up the flag at Houston one week ago. The victory was Ray Washburn's no-hit gem at San Francisco ... the day after the Giants' Gaylord Perry nipped Gibson 1-0 with a no-hitter.

Sunday's loss killed the Cards' last hope for a 100-victory season. They're 94-63 with five games remaining.

Second place San Francisco belted Atlanta 10-2, Pittsburgh trimmed the Chicago Cubs 5-1, Houston topped Cincinnati 6-1 and the New York Mets downed Philadelphia 5-2 in other NL games.

In the American League Washington toppled the Tigers 6-0, Boston dropped the New York Yankees 5-1, Baltimore blanked the Chicago White Sox 3-0, Cleveland edged California 2-1 and Minnesota shaded Oakland 2-1.

Right-hander Don Sutton blanked the Cardinals on one hit until the eighth inning, when he balked home the second of two St. Louis runs for a 2-2 deadlock.

But the Dodgers broke the tie in the bottom of the eighth on a walk, a sacrifice and rookie right fielder Joe Hague's throwing error. Bill Sudakis scored the winning run when Hague caught Paul Popovich's short fly and then threw wildly past third base.

Willie Crawford homered off Gibson, 21-9, who has beaten the Dodgers only 11 times in 28 lifetime decisions.

Willie McCovey drove in three runs for the Giants with a double and his 35th homer, boosting his league RBI lead to 102. Willie Mays lashed three hits and Jim Hart drove in three runs, helping Bob Bolin, 10-5, breeze past the Braves with a five-hitter.

Bob Moose fired a four-hitter as the Pirates climbed into a three-way tie for fourth place with the Cubs and Braves. Gene Alley delivered two runs with a homer and single and Roberto Clemente hit an inside-the-park homer to pace the Pittsburgh attack.

Jim Wynn's 24th and 25th homers knocked in three runs, leading the Astros past the third place Reds behind southpaw Mike Cuellar, who scattered eight hits.

12-Inch Limit Set On Community Lake Bass

The Conservation Commission has placed a 12-inch limit on black bass in all community lakes in Missouri. The rule takes effect at midnight, Oct. 1.

Missouri now has few length limits on fish, but there is a good reason for this one.

In a community lake, which is usually smaller than 40 acres, the fish populations are kept in control by predation - that is, the larger fish feed on the smaller fish. Bass keep bluegill populations within bounds, but only if there are enough bass large enough to eat bluegill. In a community lake, fishermen could catch too many of these bass and the bluegill population could grow out of control. When that happens, the reproduction of bass is threatened and bluegill continue their population explosion.

Charles A. Purkett Jr., chief of the Conservation Department's fisheries division, said the new regulation will assure quality rather than qantity for fishermen using these lakes. At the same time, he said, it will leave enough bass up to 12 inches long to maintain control over bluegill populations.

Community lakes are small fishing lakes built by the Conservation Department on land provided by the community. Such lakes are identified with signs.

ASU head basketball coach Marvin Speight announced that registration for the coaches will begin at 1 p.m. Friday.

Other speakers scheduled for the clinic will be Bob Cradic of Three Rivers (Mo.) Junior College, Doyce Winningham of Greenbrier High School, Bob Reese of Little Rock McClelland High School and Gene Bess of Oran, Mo.

From 150 to 200 high school coaches from the Arkansas - Missouri area are expected to attend the two - day clinic. The coaches will also be special guests at the ASU - Tennessee Tech football game at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5.

Coach Speight said, "The fundamentals of offense and defense will be the main topic of discussion at the clinic."

"A meeting of this kind," Coach Speight stated in a letter of invitation to the high school coaches, "cannot only give us some new ideas and techniques, but can get us to thinking and talking basketball and help us to get ready for the coming season."

Highlights of Western Kentucky's basketball mentor for his four years at the University include two regular season Ohio Valley Conference titles and one second - place finish, four holiday tournament championships, three trips to national post - season tournaments and an overall record of 84 wins and 22 losses.

He is also the only man to have been named the Ohio Valley Conference Coach of the Year twice in the seven years that the league has been making the selection.

Other coaching positions that Coach Oldham has held include Western's College High School and Tennessee Tech.

Sports Corner

By Ron Jaynes

Exploding population, intensive agriculture and large farm units which tend to do away with fencerow habitat will continue to reduce opportunities for hunting on private lands. The Conservation Department estimates that within the next 10 years they should have under their administration 150,000 acres to relieve this situation. Since 1960 they have acquired 31 public hunting areas, totaling 43,000 acres - 22 by purchase and 9 by donation.

Costs of buying satisfactory lands are staggering. At present costs, the Department would need more than $16,000,000 to acquire the needed acreage. An average 10% rate of increase in land cost would add another $9,000,000. Overhead and development costs would add more millions. It is estimated the total projected costs at the end of 10 years would total more than $28,000,000.

An expanded program of land donation can help to relieve this situation. By assisting the Department in such a program, you can also further your own hunting and fishing opportunity.

When land is donated to a state agency such as the Conservation Department, exclusively for public use, an individual can realize a 30% tax deduction in his adjusted gross income each year for six years or until the appraisal value of donated land is expended.

Any information lands that might be donated should be directed to the Department of Conservation, North Ten Mile Drive, Jefferson City, Missouri 65101. Keep in mind that this is another opportunity for you to insure the future generations in Missouri of a chance to enjoy hunting and fishing as you have enjoyed it.

It's official now that St. Louis and Detroit will clash in the World Series for the first time in 34 years. And, if it turns out to be anything like their last meeting, the umpires, the baseball commissioner and the team physicians have their work cut out for them.

That seven - game 1934 Series, won by St. Louis, saw Mickey Cochrane, the Tigers' catcher - manager, spiked twice. Frankie Frisch, the Cards' skipper, flattened in a play at second base. Dizzy Dean, St. Louis' ace pitcher, knocked unconscious by a thrown ball . . . and Joe Medwick, the Cards' colorful outfielder, the target of a fruit and vegetable shower.

The debris aimed at Medwick in the final game necessitated his removal by order of Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis. It was an unprecedented development in a Series game.

The spectators who unleashed the barrage in Detroit felt they weren't making a mountain out of a molehill. They were angered by previous incidents they thought had been triggered by Ducky and other star Cardinal players.

The Medwick situation actually started developing in the second game when the outfielder, in a vain attempt to score in the third inning, crashed into Cochrane. The catcher's right leg was injured, but he remained in the game.

Cochrane was also injured in a sixth game collision with pitcher Paul Dean, Dizzy's brother. Again, Cochrane remained in the game after first aid.

Thus, Medwick and his teammates were not the apples of the Tiger fans' eyes when the clubs met in the deciding game, Oct. 9.

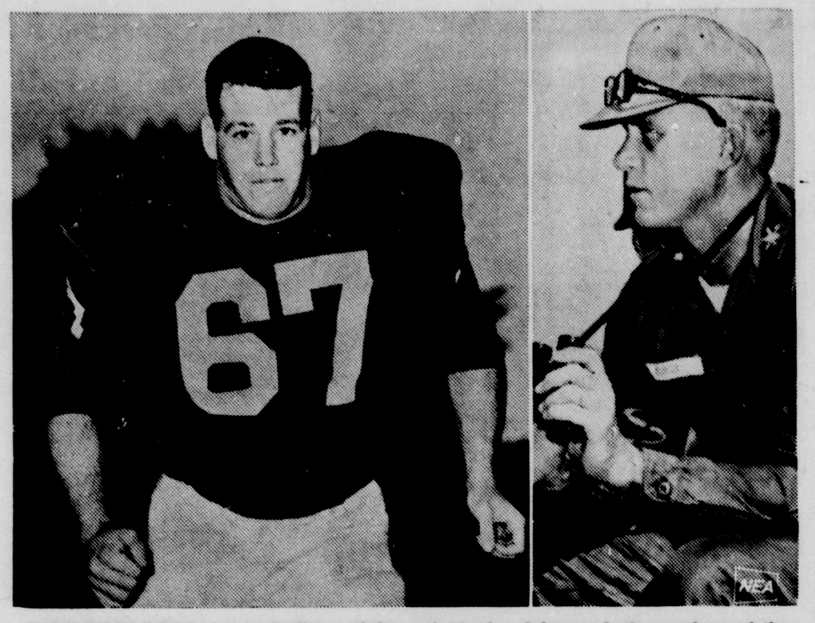

With St. Louis leading 7-0 in the sixth inning, Pepper Martin led off with a single, The next two batters made out. Then Medwick slammed a drive off the right center field wall. As he slid safely into third base, Marvin Owen stepped on him. Ducky retaliated by kicking his spikes at the third baseman from a prone position.

When the brief altercation ended, Collins singled Medwick home. As Ducky walked to the dugout, he was roundly booed and some of the spectators tossed programs and papers at him.

When Medwick went to his left field position in the Tigers' half of the inning, apples, oranges and pop bottles came flying out of the stands. The game was held up for 20 minutes while Ducky took refuge in the St. Louis dugout. Finally, it became necessary for Landis to remove Medwick from the game.

In previous incidents, Frisch was hurt in the second inning of the opener as Goose Goslin barreled into Frisch and knocked him to the ground on a steal attempt. It appeared that the player - manager was seriously hurt. However, he remained at second base.

Dizzy Dean was hurt in the fourth game. He was inserted at first base as a pinch - runner in the third inning. Pepper Martin then grounded to second baseman Charley Gehringer, who threw to Billy Rogell at short for a force play. In trying for a double play, however, Rogell's throw hit Dean on the head. The ball bounced high off Dizzy's noggin and landed in right field while Dean landed on the ground, unconscious.

PART-TIME PROS—Larry Stallings (left) and Charley Johnson, both members of the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL, perform military duties during the week and play for the Cards on weekends. They did it last year and are going through the same procedure again this season.

Kansas Whips Illinois

Tigers Tamed by Kentucky

Is Kansas that good? The question is bothering the dopesters who picked the Jayhawks to be also-rans in the Big Eight football race.

They are wondering because Kansas rapped Illinois 47-7 for the weekend's most impressive showing as the Big Eight broke even against nonconference foes.

A better answer can be given after this week's games. Missouri will take its turn at Illinois and that should show more about how Illinois ranks with the Big Eight. Also, Kansas is host to Indiana and its outstanding quarterback, Harry Gonso, who led the Hoosiers into the Rose Bowl last season.

There is a strong feeling that the Jayhawks may have used up most of their season's good breaks in the first game.

Colorado, a solid 28-7 victory over Oregon, will give the Big Eight another measure by taking on California in a televised game at Berkeley.

Kansas State opened with a 21-0 triumph over Colorado State to dedicate its new stadium before a crowd of 25,000 and displayed a stable of young talent in numbers unseen at Manhattan previously. The flush of victory faded a bit as prospects of this week's encounter with Penn State's 10th-ranked Nittany Lions intruded in the celebration.

Oklahoma will entertain North Carolina State and try to forget the 45-21 nightmare created by Notre Dame.

Iowa State, beaten 21-12 by Arizona, will take on Brigham Young at Provo, and Oklahoma State has an open date to recover from the 32-15 pasting by Arkansas.

Coach Dan Devine's new I formation gave Missouri an edge in total offense but Kentucky was the 12-6 winner because the Tigers missed too many chances. Rocky Wallace, who kicked 15-of-15 conversions last year, missed two field goals and an extra point. Four fumbles cost the Tigers heavily.

"But let's not take it away from Kentucky," Devine said. "They hit hard and kept at it."

Three Missourians were hurt and will miss some action. They are end Bill Schmitt, dislocated elbow, to be sidelined three weeks; center Con Rees, strained knee, three weeks, and guard Roger Boyd, bruised knee one week.

"Their offensive line blocks so well that the running game has to work—and I saw some good running backs, too."

Vince Gibson, K-State coach, pointed out that 16 of his 22 starters played their first bigtime college game Saturday, and "the main thing to remember about this team, like all young ones, is that even though it will get better, it will have hot and cold games."

The MIAA football teams won half their games against non - conference opponents in their openers last Saturday and will take on another slate of non-league foes this week.

Central's Mules walloped Washburn 34-0 last Saturday; Northeast downed Parsons of Iowa 14-3 and Southeast beat Delta State (Miss.) 33-21.

On the other hand, Arkansas A&M battered Northwest 38-13; Washington edged Rolla 20-18, and Central Oklahoma ran over Southwest 34-7.

Culver - Stockton coasted over Iowa Wesleyan 32-14; Jewell beat Millikin 20-7; Tarkio blanked Dana, Neb., 23-0, and Central Methodist defeated Principia 14-0.

Culver will play at Graceland in the only league game this week. Jewell will be at Northwest Missouri, Rolla at Missouri Valley, Doane, Neb., at Tarkio, and Illinois College at Central Methodist.

Jewell, Tarkio and Culver each have won two nonconference games.

Dodgers Sweep 3-Game Card Series

For the past week the National League champs have shown the Bird-dogs practically nothing.

Los Angeles' late-streaking Dodgers beat St. Louis ace Bob Gibson 3-2 Sunday, completing a three-game sweep of the Cardinals for a 15-4 mark over the last three weeks.

The Cards have won one of six starts since they locked up the flag at Houston one week ago. The victory was Ray Washburn's no-hit gem at San Francisco ... the day after the Giants' Gaylord Perry nipped Gibson 1-0 with a no-hitter.

Sunday's loss killed the Cards' last hope for a 100-victory season. They're 94-63 with five games remaining.

Second place San Francisco belted Atlanta 10-2, Pittsburgh trimmed the Chicago Cubs 5-1, Houston topped Cincinnati 6-1 and the New York Mets downed Philadelphia 5-2 in other NL games.

In the American League Washington toppled the Tigers 6-0, Boston dropped the New York Yankees 5-1, Baltimore blanked the Chicago White Sox 3-0, Cleveland edged California 2-1 and Minnesota shaded Oakland 2-1.

Right-hander Don Sutton blanked the Cardinals on one hit until the eighth inning, when he balked home the second of two St. Louis runs for a 2-2 deadlock.

But the Dodgers broke the tie in the bottom of the eighth on a walk, a sacrifice and rookie right fielder Joe Hague's throwing error. Bill Sudakis scored the winning run when Hague caught Paul Popovich's short fly and then threw wildly past third base.

Willie Crawford homered off Gibson, 21-9, who has beaten the Dodgers only 11 times in 28 lifetime decisions.

Willie McCovey drove in three runs for the Giants with a double and his 35th homer, boosting his league RBI lead to 102. Willie Mays lashed three hits and Jim Hart drove in three runs, helping Bob Bolin, 10-5, breeze past the Braves with a five-hitter.

Bob Moose fired a four-hitter as the Pirates climbed into a three-way tie for fourth place with the Cubs and Braves. Gene Alley delivered two runs with a homer and single and Roberto Clemente hit an inside-the-park homer to pace the Pittsburgh attack.

Jim Wynn's 24th and 25th homers knocked in three runs, leading the Astros past the third place Reds behind southpaw Mike Cuellar, who scattered eight hits.

12-Inch Limit Set On Community Lake Bass

The Conservation Commission has placed a 12-inch limit on black bass in all community lakes in Missouri. The rule takes effect at midnight, Oct. 1.

Missouri now has few length limits on fish, but there is a good reason for this one.

In a community lake, which is usually smaller than 40 acres, the fish populations are kept in control by predation - that is, the larger fish feed on the smaller fish. Bass keep bluegill populations within bounds, but only if there are enough bass large enough to eat bluegill. In a community lake, fishermen could catch too many of these bass and the bluegill population could grow out of control. When that happens, the reproduction of bass is threatened and bluegill continue their population explosion.

Charles A. Purkett Jr., chief of the Conservation Department's fisheries division, said the new regulation will assure quality rather than qantity for fishermen using these lakes. At the same time, he said, it will leave enough bass up to 12 inches long to maintain control over bluegill populations.

Community lakes are small fishing lakes built by the Conservation Department on land provided by the community. Such lakes are identified with signs.

Delta State SEMO Victim

The MIAA football teams won half their games against non - conference opponents in their openers last Saturday and will take on another slate of non-league foes this week.

Central's Mules walloped Washburn 34-0 last Saturday; Northeast downed Parsons of Iowa 14-3 and Southeast beat Delta State (Miss.) 33-21.

On the other hand, Arkansas A&M battered Northwest 38-13; Washington edged Rolla 20-18, and Central Oklahoma ran over Southwest 34-7.

Culver - Stockton coasted over Iowa Wesleyan 32-14; Jewell beat Millikin 20-7; Tarkio blanked Dana, Neb., 23-0, and Central Methodist defeated Principia 14-0.

Culver will play at Graceland in the only league game this week. Jewell will be at Northwest Missouri, Rolla at Missouri Valley, Doane, Neb., at Tarkio, and Illinois College at Central Methodist.

Jewell, Tarkio and Culver each have won two nonconference games.

MEXICO CITY — Octavio Gomez, Mexico, stopped Masataka Uno, Japan, 3, bantamweights; Julio Guerrero, Mexico, knocked out Kyuzo Hashimoto, Japan, 3, bantamweights; Erubey Carmona, Mexico, knocked out Norio Endo, Japan.

Buy Bonds where you work.

He does.

Why do our servicemen buy U.S. Savings Bonds? Their reasons are the same as yours and mine: saving for the future, supporting freedom. And because they're fighting for freedom, too, maybe servicemen see the need more clearly than many of us. Buy Bonds. In more than one way, it makes you feel good.

NOW—Higher Rates!
Savings Bonds now pay 4.25% when held to maturity—and Freedom Shares (sold in combination with E Bonds) pay a full 5%. The extra interest will be added as a bonus at maturity.

And now you can buy the Bond/Freedom Share combination any time—no monthly commitment necessary. Get the facts where you work or bank.

Even today, when this rare Bourbon is temporarily in short supply, many St. Louisans prefer simply to wait.

To the Editor
Daily Sikeston Standard,

Dear Sir,

My letter written to you on Sept. 12 and published in your paper on Sept. 18, did not carry the full thought although I did not re-publish the editorial, written by Mrs. Stapleton, reference to Mrs. Floyd and Mrs. Floyd made for the public the plea which was ter of the cards and letters written in opinion on the matter of the deportation from our country.

This plea was made in an effort to gain support from the American people, to help Mrs. Floyd gain recognition in the ruling offices of our State, was asked of the people to express your opinion matter in a letter or card and mail to the Dunklin Democrat," Mo.

Though our State Senator Symington and the House Rep. Paul C. Jones have gone to bat for her there is still a long battle ahead.

So if each of you could find just a moment to write the Dunklin Democrat and express your opinion, it would help them to continue their wonderful and truly appreciated effort.

Thank you very much for taking time to print and read my letter.

Turks Make Life Rough On Hippies

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — The international hippie beatnik influx into Istanbul has brought them the name "bitli turist." That translates literally as "the louse-infested tourists."

But few of those lice-infested tourists have very long or messy hair. Their clothes aren't shabby or peculiar either. The only thing used to diffuse seems to have disappeared.

The reform started with a statement by Interior Minister Faruk Sukan.

He described "the louse-infested tourists" as people without a dime, who used narcotics and led a very immoral life. He said they affected public health and public order and were liable to commit crimes.

Sukan ordered the police to expel all foreign girls and youths of this description and not allow any of their kind to set foot on Turkish soil again.

Police cracked down on the hippie-beatnik center around Sultanahmet, the historic Blue Mosque. Thirty persons were taken into custody pending deportation from our country.

This plea was made in an effort to gain support from the American people, to help Mrs. Floyd gain recognition in the ruling offices of our State, was asked of the people to express your opinion matter in a letter or card and mail to the Dunklin Democrat," Mo.

Hippies Turn Tables on Suburbanites

NEW YORK (AP) — Tired of being gawked at by camera-toting tourists in the wilds of suburbia, a group of hippies from the Lower East Side turned the tables Sunday.

About 50 hippies, clad in their best beads and bells, paid $2 each, then boarded a bus at St. Mark's Place, in the heart of the East Village, and set off for a day in Queens, a predominantly middle class borough of New York City.

The tour was the brainchild of Joe Skaggs, 23, an artist, who described the expedition as "a put-on of middle class values ... a sort of cultural exchange."

The turned-on tourists got glimpses of such nonhippie strongholds as housing developments, bowling alleys, neatly manicured lawns and other middle class symbols most of which the hippie left behind when they fled to the Village.

Included in the tour were several stops. During one of them —at a restaurant for ice cream —eight "straight" patrons fled through a side door when the hippies walked in.

"We're being invaded," cried one housewife, as the hippies de-bused near her house. "It must be some kind of underground movie stunt," added her husband.

"Not much," she said. "We go to sleep early."

The tour ended with a happening in the Nirvana Headshop—a touch of hippiedom in Hillside, Queens—where four men and three women danced, nude, while an artist painted their bodies.

HomeEconomics Association to Meet Oct. 5

IRONTON — The Southeast District of the Missouri Home Economics Association will hold its annual meeting Oct. 5.

A coffee will be served at 9:00 a.m. at the St. Marie Du Lac elementary school. The morning session will have as the principal program participant, Mrs. Henry Koch, home economist for Union Electric Company, St. Louis.

Also appearing during the morning session will be the president of the Missouri Home Economics Association, Mrs. Jewel Hogles, St. Louis.

Following a buffet luncheon, the women will travel to Taum Sauk, Union Electric's Hydro Plant near Lesterville. Harold Gove, tour director for the company, will direct the tour.

Officers being installed at the meeting are President, Mrs. Art Siemers, Cape Girardeau; Vice President, Mrs. Welton Grobe, Ste. Genevieve; Secretary, Miss Lois Meyer, Farmington; and Treasurer, Mrs. Dona Ingle, Potosi.

Anyone wishing to register for the meeting may contact Mrs. Dona Ingle, extension home economist, Potosi.

Watters Heads Historical Society

COLUMBIA — T. Watters of Marshfield was elected president of the Missouri Historical Society of Columbia Saturday and the organization awarded its long - time secretary and librarian, Floyd C. Shoemaker, its highest distinguished service award.

Shoemaker who served the society from 1910 to his retirement in 1960 received a standing award from retiring president Leo J. Rosier. Shoemaker received a gold medallion with the seal of Missouri and also received a framed certificate.

Watters is publisher of the Marshfield Mail.

The society was told state papers of Rep. Paul Jones of Kennett will be acquired by the Western Historical Manuscripts Collection.

Walkout Intensifies Church Edict Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bitter dispute within the Washington Roman Catholic archdiocese has intensified in the wake of an unprecedented walkout protest against Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, archbishop of the diocese.

About 200 persons walked out of St. Matthew's cathedral during masses Sunday as the cardinal rose to urge obedience to Pope Paul VI's latest edict banning use of artificial birth controls.

The cardinal, who has been challenged on his interpretation of the Pope's encyclical by 44 area priests, had ordered a pastoral letter criticizing the dissenters read in all Roman Catholic churches in his jurisdiction.

Cardinal O'Boyle himself read the letter at three masses at St. Matthew's, and watched without apparent emotion as the people walked from the crowded cathedral. Most returned after he finished reading the message.

It was estimated that at least another 300 persons left other churches when the letter was read.

The protest had been urged by two lay organizations supporting the dissident priests. The cardinal said after the services that it was the first time he had encountered such a protest in his 20 years as archbishop of Washington. "It is a very emotional matter," he said. Other church officials said it was probably the first time parishioners had taken such action in any Catholic church.

The dispute arose following issuance of the Pope's edict July 29 prohibiting the use of all forms of artificial contraceptive devices, leaving only the rhythm method acceptable for Catholics.

Cardinal O'Boyle immediately interpreted the encyclical as binding on all Catholics. This was challenged by a group of 51 priests, later reduced to 44, who contend the Pope's statement leaves it up to individual Catholics to follow as a matter of personal conscience.

In the 800 word letter, which was to be read "without comment or discussion," Cardinal O'Boyle told dissidents that continued disobedience of the birth control teaching might result in their being struck by a curse mentioned in the Book of Deuteronomy.

The curse mentioned in Deuteronomy 29: 15-20 says "the wrath and the jealousy of the Lord" would fall on a man who follows his conscience over divine law.

Mention of the curse immediately brought criticism from one of the 44 priests, the Rev. James P. Kennelly, who said the cardinal quoted the passage out of context.

The cardinal "is, if the words are applied literally, calling us pagans," because the quote referred to nonbelievers who rejected the God of Israel, he said.

Conferees Okay Eleven Point Scenic Designation

WASHINGTON — Agreement by the Senate - House conferees to include the Eleven Point River in Oregon County in Southeast Missouri as part of the National Scenic Rivers system is most encouraging," Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said today, "and we hope this agreement will now be accepted by both houses."

"This action will be another important step in calling national and international recognition to the natural beauties to be found in the Missouri Ozarks and will therefore be a further boost to the tourist industry in our State," Symington said.

The Eleven Point River had been designated as a "Scenic River" in Senate Bill, S.119, but the House - passed version had designated that river only for study and not as one of the initial rivers in the system.

Senator Symington has been working four years with state and local organizations, with Governor Hearnes and with members of the senate for recognition of the Eleven Point as one of the most beautiful, free flowing, spring - fed rivers in America. The effort has been supported by several national as well as State groups.

If the conference report is adopted by both houses, the river will be preserved in its natural state for park and recreation purposes for approximately 34 miles and will be available for float or boat trips, fishing, hiking, exploring, camping, picnicking, hunting and sightseeing. Dams would be prohibited on the Missouri portion of the river.

WRINKLES

by Marie Devant

NEW YORK — Chemical science has found a white substance made with quicksilver that works wonders on wrinkled, roughened face and hands. Use it one time and it is entirely possible you will see improvement next morning. In a few days dry skin wrinkles start to vanish. Many of the small ones around the eyes and mouth have already disappeared. But that is not all! "Old-Age" (weathered) brown spots on hands and arms—brown "age" darkness on surface of face and neck fades away! Rich silky lubricant pores so blackheads can slip out without squeezing. Surface pimples and blemishes and scars, outwardly caused, dry up or become less noticeable! But don't take my word for it. Make a 6-day test without risking one penny. Just get a jar of Peacock's Imperial Creme at your favorite department or drug store. Use this thrilling cream for 6 days—satisfaction guaranteed by The Mirchum Company or return unused portion to retailer for full refund. No questions asked. Peacock's Imperial Creme can work wonders for wrinkles, lines, brown spots and other weathered blemishes. You may obtain Imperial Creme for $2.00 at SHY'S REXALL Clip this out.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,

My letter writte[n] to you on Sept. 12 and publi[shed] in your paper on Sept. 18, [did] not carry the full thought [you] not re-publish th[e] editorial written by Mrs. Sapleton, in reference to Mrs. Elf[roid] the plea which was [made] in the public cards and letter wi[ll] opinion on the mat[ter] of the deportation from co[untry]

This plea was mad[e in effort] to gain support [from the] American people, to [help] Mrs. Floyd gain recognitio[n in the] ruling officce of our S[tate. What] was asked of the peop[le was, to] express your opinion [of this] matter in a letter or [on a post] card and mail to th[e "Daily] Dunklin Democrat," [Kennett,] Mo.

Though our State [Senator] Symington and the H[onorable] Rep. Paul C. Jones han[d gone to] bat for her there is sti[ll a long] battle ahead.

So if each of you co[uld find] just a moment to w[rite the] Dunklin Democrat and [express] your opinion, it wou[ld help] them to continue [their] wonderful and truly app[reciated] effort.

Thank you very m[uch for] taking time to print and [read my] letter.

Turks Make Life Rough On Hippies

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — The international hippie-[beatnik] influx into Istanbul [brought] them the name "bitli tu[rist]." That translates literally as "the louse-infested tourists."

But few of those le[ft] have very long or mea[ny] hair. Their clothes aren't that [shabby] or peculiar either. The od[or] they used to diffuse seems [to have] disappeared.

He described [the] louse-infested tourists" as [people] without a dime, who [used] narcotics and led a very i[mmoral] life. He said they affected [public] health and public order a[nd were] liable to commit crimes.

Sukan ordered the p[olice to] expel all foreign girls and [youths] of this description and a[ever to] allow any of their kind [to set] foot on Turkish soil again.

The youths' last ch[ance was] to shape up if they w[anted to] stay in Turkey.

Some went to see [what the] inside of a Turkish bath [was like,] visited barbers, and bo[ught new] clothes.

Some of the hippi[e-beatnik] group taken into [city earlier] were allegedly b[eaten or] molested. Some girls [were said] to have scratched po[licemen's] faces as they tried to re[sist being] rounded up.

More than 30 of t[he group] were forcibly taken to t[he Greek] border for expulsion. [They] included French, Britis[h, Italian,] Dutch and Norwegian [boys and] girls who put up a last [stand of] resistance, breaking the [windows] of the police van they [were in.]

Hippies Turn Tables on Suburbanites

NEW YORK (AP) — Tired of being gawked at by camera-toting tourists from the wilds of suburbia, a group of hippies from the Lower East Side turned the tables Sunday.

About 50 hippies, clad in their beat beads and bells, paid 25 each, then boarded a bus at St. Mark's Place, in the heart of the East Village, and set off for a day in Queens, a predominantly middle class borough of New York City.

The tour was the brainchild of Joe Skaggs, 23, an artist, who described the expedition as "a put-on of middle class values .... a sort of cultural exchange."

The turned-on tourists got a glimpse of such nonhippie strongholds as housing developments, bowling alleys, neatly manicured lawns and other middle class symbols St. Mathew's, and watched many of which the hippies left behind when they fled to the Village.

Included in the tour were several stops. During one of them —at a restaurant for ice cream —eight "straight" patrons fled through a side door when the hippies walked in.

"We're being invaded," cried one housewife, as the hippies neared her house. "It must be some kind of underground movie stunt," added her husband.

"Not much," she said. "We go to sleep early."

The tour ended with a happening in the Nirvana Headshop—a touch of hippiedom in Hillside, Queens—where four men and three women danced, nude, while an artist painted their bodies.

HomeEconomics Association to Meet Oct. 5

IRONTON — The Southeast District of the Missouri Home Economics Association will hold its annual meeting Oct. 5.

A coffee will be served at 9:00 a.m. at the St. Marie Du Lac elementary school. The morning session will have as the principal program participant, Mrs. Henry Koch, home economist for Union Electric Company, St. Louis.

Also appearing during the morning session will be the president of the Missouri Home Economics Association, Mrs. Jewel Hoglen, St. Louis.

Following a buffet luncheon, the women will travel to Taum Sauk, Union Electric's Hydro Plant near Lesterville. Harold Grove, tour director for the company, will direct the tour.

Officers being installed at the meeting are President, Mrs. Art Siemers, Cape Girardeau; Vice President, Mrs. Welton Grobe, Ste. Genevieve; Secretary, Miss Lois Meyer, Parmington; and Treasurer, Mrs. Dona Ingle, Potosi.

Anyone wishing to register for the meeting may contact Mrs. Dona Ingle, extension home economist, Potosi.

Watters Heads Historical Society

COLUMBIA — T[he] Watters of Marshfie[ld] elected president of t[he] Historical Society of [the] Saturday and the orga[nization] awarded its long -time s[ecretary] and librarian, Flo[yd C.] Shoemaker, [its first] distinguished service awa[rd.]

Shoemaker who ser[ved the] society from 1910 [to his] retirement in 1960 rece[ived the] Ballard award from retiring president Leo J. Rozier. Shoemaker received a gold medallion with the seal of Missouri and also received a framed certificate.

The society was told state papers of Rep. Paul Jones of Kennett will be acquired by the Western Historical Manuscripts Collection.

Walkout Intensifies Church Edict Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bitter dispute within the Washington Roman Catholic archdiocese has intensified in the wake of an unprecedented walkout protest against Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, archbishop of the diocese.

About 200 persons walked out of St. Matthew's cathedral during masses Sunday as the cardinal rose to urge obedience to Pope Paul VI's latest edict banning use of artificial birth controls.

The cardinal, who has been challenged on his interpretation of the Pope's encyclical by 44 area priests, had ordered a pastoral letter criticizing the dissenters read in all Roman Catholic churches in his jurisdiction.

Cardinal O'Boyle himself read the letter at three masses at Matthew's, and watched without apparent emotion as the people walked from the crowded cathedral. Most returned after he finished reading the message.

It was estimated that at least another 200 persons left other churches when the letter was read.

The protest had been urged by two lay organizations supporting the dissident priests.

The cardinal said after the service that it was the first time he had encountered such a protest in his 20 years as archbishop of Washington. "It is a very emotional matter," he said. Other church officials said it was probably the first time parishioners had taken such action in any Catholic church.

The dispute arose following issuance of the Pope's edict July 29 prohibiting the use of all forms of artificial contraceptive devices, leaving only the rhythm method acceptable for Catholics.

Cardinal O'Boyle immediately interpreted the encyclical as binding on all Catholics. This was challenged by a group of 51 priests, later reduced to 44, who contend the Pope's statement leaves it up to individual Catholics to follow as a matter of personal conscience.

In the 200 word letter, which was to be read "without comment or discussion," Cardinal O'Boyle told dissidents that continued disobedience of the birth control teaching might result in their being struck by a curse mentioned in the Book of Deuteronomy.

The curse mentioned in Deuteronomy 29: 19-20 says "the wrath and the jealousy of the Lord" would fall on a man who follows his conscience over divine law.

Mention of the curse immediately brought criticism from one of the 44 priests, the Rev. James F. Kennelly, who said the cardinal quoted the passage out of context.

The cardinal "is, if the words are applied literally, calling us pagans," because the quote referred to nonbelievers who rejected the God of Israel, he said.

Conferees Okay Eleven Point Scenic Designation

WASHINGTON — Agreement by the Senate-House conferees to include the Eleven Point River in Oregon County in Southeast Missouri as a part of the National Scenic Rivers system is most encouraging," Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said today, "and we hope this agreement will now be accepted by both houses."

"This action will be another important step in calling national and international recognition to the natural beauties to be found in the Missouri Ozarks and will therefore be a further boost to the tourist industry in our State," Symington said.

The Eleven Point River had been designated as a "Scenic River" in Senate Bill, S.119, but the House - passed version had designated that river only for study and not as one of the initial rivers in the system.

Senator Symington has been working four years with state and local organizations, with Governor Hearnes and with members of the senate for recognition of the Eleven Point as one of the most beautiful, free flowing, spring - fed rivers in America. The effort has been supported by several national as well as State groups.

If the conference report is adopted by both houses, the river will be preserved in its natural state for park and recreation purposes for approximately 54 miles and will be available for float or boat trips, fishing, hiking, exploring, camping, picnicking, hunting and sightseeing. Dams would be prohibited on the Missouri portion of the river.

Douglas Again Blocks Reserve Vietnam Orders

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time in two weeks, Justice William O. Douglas has ordered the Army not to send groups of reservists to Vietnam until the Supreme Court considers whether to hear their objections to being called up for active duty.

In issuing the order Sunday, Douglas told the Army he was staying until at least Oct. 7 any orders to send the 448th Postal Unit and the 1018th Service Supply Company to Vietnam.

Douglas, who acted one day after Chief Justice Earl Warren refused to intervene, issued a similar order Sept. 12 for the 1002nd Combat Supply Company. Warren and Justice Hugo Black also had declined to act in the earlier case.

The postal unit is from New York City, while the supply company is from Schenectady, N.Y. Both units are stationed at Ft. Lee, Va. The 1002nd is from Ohio and Stationed at Ft. Meade, Md.

Thirteen members of the postal unit and 83 members of the supply company asked for the stay. Their case, as in the one from 113 members of the 1002nd company, is based on the contention that it is unconstitutional for the President to activate the reserves for extended duty without the declaration of war or a national emergency.

The units involved were among several reserve groups called to active duty by President Johnson under a 1966 law which provided he could take such action if it were in the national interest.

Although only individuals asked for the Supreme Court hearing, Douglas' action applies to each unit as a whole. Actually, officials at Ft. Lee said orders had already gone out to keep the units on base indefinitely.

In issuing the Sept. 12 stay, Douglas said only that the case brought up several substantial questions. As reported by court officials Sunday, Douglas made no comment on his latest order.

Several things could result from the court's Oct. 7 session. It could refuse to hear the cases, thus automatically dissolving the stays and making the units eligible for immediate shipment overseas.

Or the court could agree to put the matter on its docket for a hearing, which would mean extending the stays until a decision is reached.

At least four justices would have to vote to hear the reservists' cases before they would be put on the docket, which would be unusual in view of the reluctance by the court to hearing challenges involving the Vietnam war.

Douglas issued Sunday's stay, as he did the others, by phone from a remote vacation spot in the state of Washington.

UNDERWATER WARDENS

HONOLULU (AP) — The Hawaii State Fish and Game Division says it will use three scuba-diving wardens to enforce fishing laws and regulations.

Michio Takata, head of the division, said the purpose of the diving wardens is to "curb such illegal practices as use of chemicals to take fish — particularly bleach."

They will use regular arrest procedure, Takata said. "But details as to how to make an arrest under water will have to be worked out," he added.

Donald Ray Jones Home on Leave

Petty Officer Jimmy McBryar, Sikestons navy recruiter, reports that Seaman Apprentice Donald Ray Jones is home on leave. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jones of 403 Prosperity.

He has completed basic training with the St. Louis National baseball team company, a company formed annually of young men from the area. He was congratulated by Stan Musiel and graduated from recruit training at the U.S. naval recruit training center at Great Lakes, Ill.

After leave he will report to the Navy's yeoman class A School at Bainbridge, Md. After Yoeman school, where he will take clerical instruction, he will receive a further assignment.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What causes the Mexican jumping bean to jump?

A—The larva of a moth enters the seed, on which it feeds, and by its contortions makes the seed jump.

A—The first home delivery of ice was in 1802. This led to the building of the ice chest and the icebox, forerunners of modern cold-storage methods.

Q—When was Lyndon B. Johnson first elected to the United States Senate?

A—In November 1948. He was elected by an 87-vote margin over Gov. Stevenson of Texas.

Q—What is the meaning of "henotheism"?

A—This was the ancient belief that there is one Supreme Being, but that there may be other subsidiary gods. It allowed for belief in tribal or family deities, subject to the Supreme Being.

Q—What has become of the Labrador duck, once common near long Island?

A—The first home delivery of ice was in 1802. This led to the building of the ice chest and the icebox, forerunners of modern cold-storage methods.

Q—When was Lyndon B. Johnson first elected to the United States Senate?

A—In November 1948. He was elected by an 87-vote margin over Gov. Stevenson of Texas.

Q—What is the meaning of "henotheism"?

A—This was the ancient belief that there is one Supreme Being, but that there may be other subsidiary gods. It allowed for belief in tribal or family deities, subject to the Supreme Being.

Q—What has become of the Labrador duck, once common near long Island?

Vanessa's in London Rag Trade

EDITOR'S NOTE: Although the Beatles sold their "Apple" boutique after eight months of ownership, fashion is still a popular sideline for pop stars and actresses ranging from Herman and the Hermits in New York to Elizabeth Taylor with a Paris boutique house. Now Vanessa Redgrave.

By NADEANE WALKER

LONDON (AP) — Actress Vanessa Redgrave is the latest star to jump on the rag trade bandwagon. She's backing a new boutique, the Fulham Road Clothes Shop.

As might be expected from the unconventional Miss Redgrave (who still leads peace demonstrations on occasion), the boutique she's backing is something quite out of the ordinary — in fact, the only conventional thing about it is it's name.

Along with pure 'Forties-era clothes, the Fulham Road Clothes Shop is selling eight-foot long foam rubber bananas, antique trimmings, and highly futuristic furniture. The shop is drawing nightly crowds just to look at the window, which features an ever-changing pattern of rainbow-hued neon. Every customer who steps over the threshold trips off a new sequence of lighting effects. They say an American has already tried, unsuccessfully, to buy the window.

Inside the shop on three floor levels, colored slides of the clothes are projected continuously onto the white walls. It comes as no surprise that one of the directors, Adrian Hughes, 26, is an ex-movie producer, who wants to run the shop like a film.

The other three directors are a pretty blonde photographer, Annette Green, 27, and two girl designers from the Royal College of Art, Zandra Rhodes, 29, and Sylvia Ayton, 30.

The quartet got together with the star during the filming of the Redgrave movie, "Isadora." Hughes was assistant director of the film, and Annette was sent to make pictures of the star. She was wearing an outfit designed by Zandra and Sylvia. Vanessa expressed admiration, and the boutique idea blossomed.

Fulham Road used to be anything but a chic address, but the premises found for the shop is only a few blocks off the King's Road, Chelsea, where the swinging scene flourishes.

"We didn't have much money," Adrian Hughes explains, "but Vanessa bought some shares and guaranteed our lease. Best of all, she wears our clothes, and used some of them in the film, 'A Quiet Place in the Country.'"

The boutique team reciprocated by designing lipstick-scrawl prints that proclaim, "We Love You, Vanessa," and by naming their star suit "Jolie," after Miss Redgrave's youngest daughter.

Those giant bananas, incidentally, are not as you might think, children's toys or pure freak decor. "They're original works of art, in a limited edition of 100, by Neville Green," says Hughes. They cost 65 pounds (156 dollars) and the shop has so far sold two, one to a fashion photographer and the other to a television producer.

The clothes come cheaper from about five pounds ($12 for a blouse, up to 30 pounds ($72) for a leather suit with hand-painted puffed sleeves. Nearly all the dresses and trousers are in floppy satin, crepe or chiffon, with the ruffles, pin-tucks, peplums and off-shoulder effects dear to the Forties.

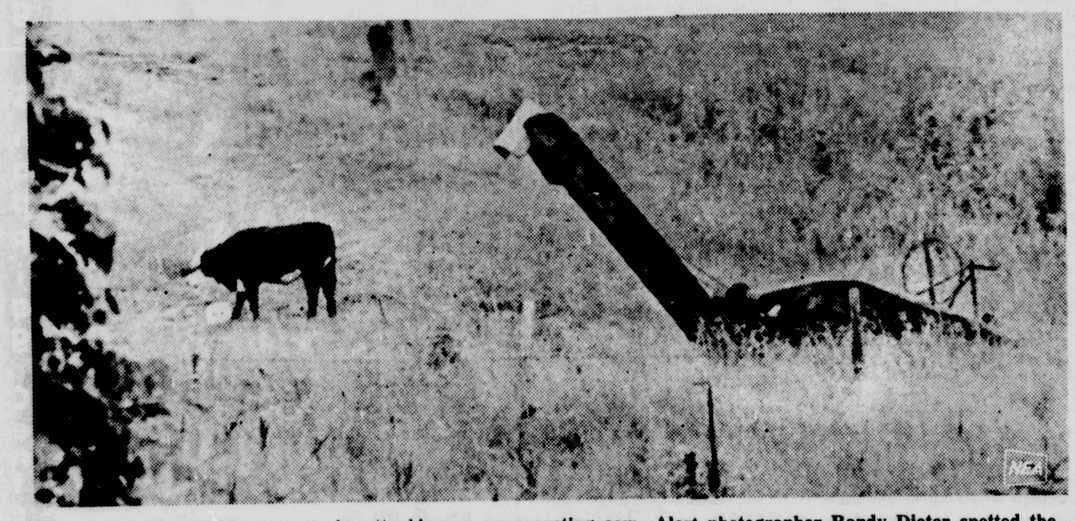

Zandra's and Sylvia's most original garment is something they call dungarees — a sort of fancy dress version of workmen's overalls, made up in satin or crepe, with ruffles, yet. Their decollete see-through blouses are said to sell to male pop stars as well as dolly girls.

A friend of Adrian Hughes supplies Victorian and Edwardian buckles, buttons, belts and bags on a commission basis. "They go great with the clothes," Hughes comments.

Foreign tourists make up an important part of the Fulham Road Clothes Shop's clientele, according to Hughes. "Particularly Americans," he says. "They're much more ready to accept something new. They're really knocked out when they come in here."

MEADOW MONSTER seems to be attacking an unsuspecting cow. Alert photographer Randy Dieter spotted the amusing situation when the animal wandered near a piece of machinery on a farm near Evansville, Ind.

Raise the Roof with Floral Stripes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

To create illusions of space take a tip from trend-setting artist-designer Jack Denst. Use large-scale wall decorations.

"The returning vacationist who has enjoyed spacious accommodations is conscious of the limits of his own home or apartment. It is especially true of travelers in Europe who become accustomed to 10 or 12-foot ceiling heights."

Denst suggests a single large scale floral or an important vertical stripe of florals to draw the eye to that single decoration and endow the rest of the room with an expansive air. A mural, tapestry or large painting, will also achieve this effect.

He advises travelers not to overload their home with foreign acquisitions, but to limit collections to three basic colors. Denst restricts his own collection of art pieces to subjects executed in black, white or actual wood, thus enabling him to vary use of objects from time to time while maintaining a decorative balance.

Store those "extra" vacation prizes in a "clutter closet", he suggests, until you can fit them into a room gracefully.

The use of area rugs will also permit a floor level change of scene with rugs alternating to freshen the appearance.

Furniture pieces of different scale, an occasional floor plant instead of a lamp to give an outdoor look to the area are other ideas suggested by Denst for gaining the illusion of more space.

Troops Can't Bear to Leave Mascot

FORT CARSON, Colo. (ANF) — Soldiers of the 1st Battalion, 11th Infantry, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized), were happy to know that their good friend Specialist Brutus would join them in Vietnam. Their concern was justifiable, for Specialist Brutus is a 200 pound female bear.

Born in September 1963 somewhere in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains of Colorado, Brutus developed a preference for human companionship and one day ambled into Canon City, Colo.

Lt. Col. James H. Sanders, then commander of the battalion, found Brutus in the Pueblo (Colo.) City Zoo and engineered her induction into the unit as a mascot in 1964.

Brutus will travel to San Francisco via commercial aircraft and complete the journey by ship. Members of the 5th Infantry will meet her in San Francisco and accompany her on the voyage.

The infantrymen have worked diligently to prepare Brutus for the long trip.

It was necessary to provide her with a personnel file, gear and update her shot record. Orders had to be cut which created a problem for no one could locate her service number. Undaunted, the infantrymen looked through back issues of the post newspaper, "The Mountaineer," and produced the required figures.

Brutus eats three or four cans of dog food each day, plus guzzling all the soda pop her friends provide. She prefers Coca-Cola, but will consume orange, grape, milk, fruit juice or coffee with relish.

At Fort Carson Brutus attained the rank of Specialist 4th class with an MOS (Military Occupational Specialty) of Terrain Analyst. The sight of Specialist Brutus, sitting on her haunches with a soda pop bottle between her front paws, will be missed at Fort Carson.

COMPACT HORSE reportedly is the first Falabella Miniature bred in the United States. The foal is the offspring of "Don Franco," a stallion that weighs 145 pounds and stands 30 inches tall, and "Robin's Girl," 120 pounds and 27 inches tall. "Timmy's Boy" poses in Monroe, Conn., with Windgap Farm owner Lawrence W. Baff; his two grandchildren Jeffrey and Lauren Charnow; and Timothy O'Shea (right).

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH

ALTHOUGH located on the island of Formosa, the Republic of China postal authorities still carry on the traditions and heritage of their ancient civilization via its postage stamps.

This was noted on the latest set of four stamps issued by the Republic of China to honor four of China's most famous poets in commemoration of "Poets Day," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Poets Day is celebrated on the fifth day of the fifth moon (June 12 this year)—the anniversary of the death of poet Chu Yuan.

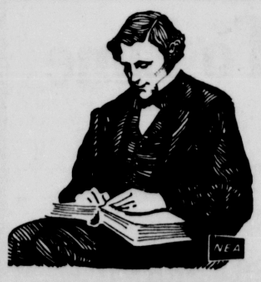

The set consists of a $1 (Taiwan currency) picturing Chu Yuan (332-295 BC), a $2 depicting Li Po (705-762 AD), a $2.50 showing Tu Fu (712-770 AD) and a $3 illustrating Po Chu-i (772-846).

A Bermuda stamp issued in 1861 was purchased in London recently for $5,500. The stamp is known as the "Perot Crowned Circle" and there are only five such stamps known to be in existence. The stamp is so rare that Queen Elizabeth's collection, considered to be one of the finest in the world, does not have one. Oddly enough, the stamp was said to have been discovered in a deed box within an envelope marked "1861 stamp."

"Alice in Wonderland" and "Curiosa Mathematica" were written by the same man, Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, The World Almanac notes. Although Dodgson was known as a mathematician and logician, he is remembered for his works of whimsy written under the pseudonym Lewis Carroll. "Alice" was inspired by and written for Alice Liddell, a child of a friend.

Canada will mark the 50th anniversary of the Canadian Press by issuing a new 5 cent stamp on Aug. 31. The new stamp will feature an oblate spheroid in which is contained a map centering the western hemisphere. Superimposed on this area is a strip, pointed at each end, on which appears "Anniversary 50 Anniversaire." The word "Canada" appears atop the stamp and the words "The Canadian Press" and La Presse Canadienne" can be seen at the bottom.

Pakistan has issued a new 15 paisa stamp to celebrate the awarding of the Hilal-i-Isteqlal citation to the city of Lahore by the President of Pakistan and to the cities of Sialkot and Sargodha by the governor of West Pakistan. The coveted Pakistani award was presented for valor by the cities mentioned during the Indo-Pakistan War in September 1965.

The clothes come cheaper from about five pounds ($12 for a blouse, up to 30 pounds ($72) for a leather suit with hand-painted puffed sleeves. Nearly all the dresses and trousers are in floppy satin, crepe or chiffon, with the ruffles, pin-tucks, peplums and off-shoulder effects dear to the Forties.

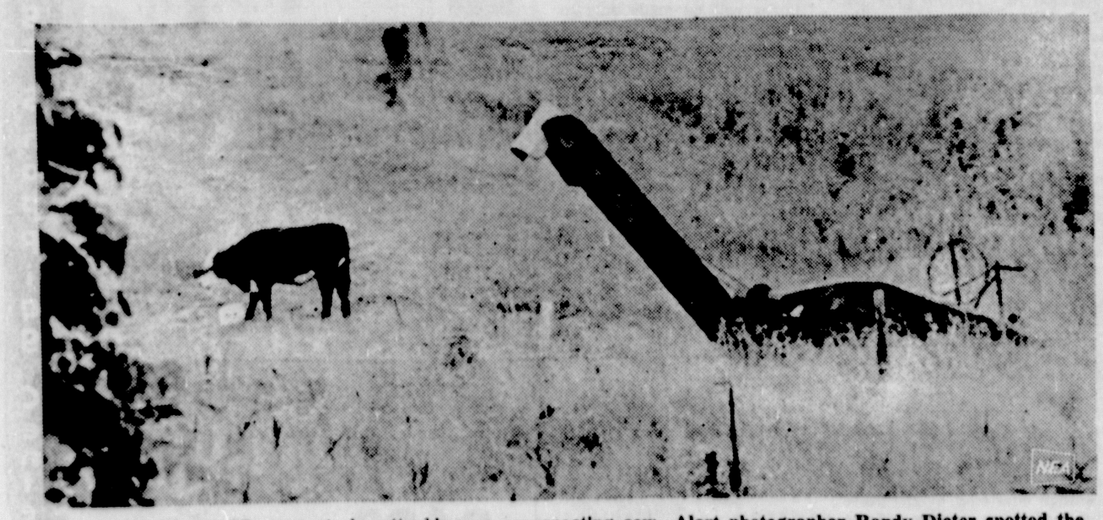

Zandra's and Sylvia's most original garment is something they call dungarees a sort of fancy dress version of workmen's overalls, made up in satin or crepe, with ruffles, yet. Their decollete see-through blouses are said to sell to male pop stars as well as dolly girls.

A friend of Adrian Hughes supplies Victorian and Edwardian buckles, buttons, belts and bags on a commission basis. "They go great with the clothes," Hughes comments.

Foreign tourists make up an important part of the Fulham Road Clothes Shop's clientele, according to Hughes. "Particularly Americans," he says. "They're much more ready to accept something new. They're really knocked out when they come in here."

Raise the Roof with Floral Stripes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

To create illusions of space take a tip from trend-setting artist-designer Jack Denst. Use large-scale wall decorations.

"The returning vacationist who has enjoyed spacious accommodations is conscious of the limits of his own home or apartment. It is especially true of travelers in Europe who become accustomed to 10 or 12-foot ceiling heights."

Denst suggests a single large scale floral or an important vertical stripe of florals to draw the eye to that single decoration and endow the rest of the room with an expansive air. A mural, tapestry or large painting, will also achieve this effect.

He advises travelers not to overload their home with foreign acquisitions, but to limit collections to three basic colors. Denst restricts his own collection of art pieces to subjects executed in black, white or actual wood, thus enabling him to vary use of objects from time to time while maintaining a decorative balance.

Store those "extra" vacation prizes in a "clutter closet", he suggests, until you can fit them into a room gracefully.

The use of area rugs will also permit a floor level change of scene with rugs alternating to freshen the appearance.

Furniture pieces of different scale, an occasional floor plant instead of a lamp to give an outdoor look to the area are other ideas suggested by Denst for gaining the illusion of more space.

Troops Can't Bear to Leave Mascot

FORT CARSON, Colo. (ANF) — Soldiers of the 1st Battalion, 11th Infantry, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized), were happy to know that their good friend Specialist Brutus would join them in Vietnam. Their concern was justifiable, for Specialist Brutus is a 200 pound female bear.

Born in September 1963 somewhere in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains of Colorado, Brutus developed a preference for human companionship and one day ambled into Canon City, Colo.

Lt. Col. James H. Sanders, then commander of the battalion, found Brutus in the Pueblo (Colo.) City Zoo and engineered her induction into the unit as a mascot in 1964.

Brutus will travel to San Francisco via commercial aircraft and complete the journey by ship. Members of the 5th Infantry will meet her in San Francisco and accompany her on the voyage.

The infantrymen have worked diligently to prepare Brutus for the long trip.

It was necessary to provide her with a personnel file, gear and update her shot record. Orders had to be cut which created a problem for no one could locate her service number. Undaunted, the infantrymen looked through back issues of the post newspaper, "The Mountaineer," and produced the required figures.

Brutus eats three or four cans of dog food each day, plus guzzling all the soda pop her friends provide. She prefers Coca-Cola, but will consume orange, grape, milk, fruit juice or coffee with relish.

At Fort Carson Brutus attained the rank of Specialist 4th class with an MOS (Military Occupational Specialty) of Terrain Analyst. The sight of Specialist Brutus, sitting on her haunches with a soda pop bottle between her front paws, will be missed at Fort Carson.

COMPACT HORSE reportedly is the first Falabella Miniature bred in the United States. The foal is the offspring of "Don Franco," a stallion that weighs 145 pounds and stands 30 inches tall, and "Robin's Girl," 120 pounds and 27 inches tall. "Timmy's Boy" poses in Monroe, Conn., with Windgap Farm owner Lawrence W. Baff; his two grandchildren Jeffrey and Lauren Charnow; and Timothy O'Shea (right).

Stamps In The News

ALTHOUGH located on the island of Formosa, the Republic of China postal authorities still carry on the traditions and heritage of their ancient civilization via its postage stamps.

This was noted on the latest set of four stamps issued by the Republic of China to honor four of China's most famous poets in commemoration of "Poets Day," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Poets Day is celebrated on the fifth day of the fifth moon (June 12 this year)—the anniversary of the death of poet Chu Yuan.

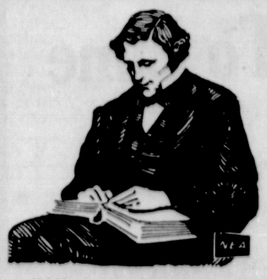

The set consists of a $1 (Taiwan currency) picturing Chu Yuan (332-295 BC), a $2 depicting Li Po (705-762 AD), a $2.50 showing Tu Fu (712-770 AD) and a $3 illustrating Po Chu-i (772-846).

A Bermuda stamp issued in 1861 was purchased in London recently for $5,500. The stamp is known as the "Perot Crowned Circle" and there are only five such stamps known to be in existence. The stamp is so rare that Queen Elizabeth's collection, considered to be one of the finest in the world, does not have one. Oddly enough, the stamp was said to have been discovered in a deed box within an envelope marked "1861 stamp."

"Alice in Wonderland" and "Curiosa Mathematica" were written by the same man, Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, The World Almanac notes. Although Dodgson was known as a mathematician and logician, he is remembered for his works of whimsy written under the pseudonym Lewis Carroll. "Alice" was inspired by and written for Alice Liddell, a child of a friend.

Canada will mark the 50th anniversary of the Canadian Press by issuing a new 5 cent stamp on Aug. 31. The new stamp will feature an oblate spheroid in which is contained a map centering the western hemisphere. Superimposed on this area is a strip, pointed at each end, on which appears "Anniversary 50 Anniversaire." The word "Canada" appears atop the stamp and the words "The Canadian Press" and La Presse Canadienne" can be seen at the bottom.

Pakistan has issued a new 15 paisa stamp to celebrate the awarding of the Hilal-i-Isteqlal citation to the city of Lahore by the President of Pakistan and to the cities of Sialkot and Sargodha by the governor of West Pakistan. The coveted Pakistani award was presented for valor by the cities mentioned during the Indo-Pakistan War in September 1965.

Ann Landers

Martyr Type Willing to Submit to Exploitation

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to N.Y. Dilemma, the woman whose husband suffered "a small stroke" and now demands all her time and attention? It happened to my father, or I should say to my mother. Although it was Father who had the "small stroke," it was Mother who died from it.

For 14 years Mother waited on him hand and foot -- "get me this . . . bring me that . . . I'm ready for my bath now . . . I'd like some hot tea." Mother pushed him around the house in a converted kitchen chair because he hated the idea of being in a wheel chair.

The first year Mother lost 15 pounds (which Father gained). She left the house only to bring in groceries or to do Father's errands. Her social life was zero. She dropped out of the bridge club, the church circle -- everything. She couldn't even have visitors to the house because Father was always needing something.

Mother died last year -- a blessed and welcome release from her slavery. Father is still alive -- in a convalescent home. If I knew 15 years ago what I know now, I would have insisted that Mother get a "sitter" for Father two afternoons a week and an evening or two as well. His stroke was slow death for her. -- BITTER.

Dear Bitter: The "slow death" you described was more than just exploitation by a sick and selfish person. It would not have occurred had your mother not been a martyr type who was willing to allow it.

Ann, Baby: Your column is a gas. Sometimes I cry my eyes out. Other times I bust up laughing. But those cutesy wootsy names like Bub, Buster, Buddy Boy, Cupcake and Lamb Chop detract from your otherwise sensible advice. So, knock it off, will you, Doll? Some of your correspondents are twice your age and you ought to be more respectful. -- ARCHIE

Dear Archie: Thanks. I'll watch it, Honeybun.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 35. My husband is 37. We are professional people and have a six- year-old daughter. We both feel that perhaps Ruth should have a little brother or sister. She is unusually precocious and somewhat spoiled. Frankly, I am less enthusiastic about a second child than my husband. While he has said he doesn't care one way or the other, I suspect he would be pleased if he had a son.

We agreed to leave it up to Ruth and yesterday we asked her how she would like to have a baby sister or brother. She made it clear that she doesn't want a new baby in the house and has threatened to run away if we "surprised" her with one.

What is your opinion, Ann? -- IN DOUBT

Dear In: A couple who would let a six-year-old decide whether or not to have another child is in a bad way. I'm afraid you may already have more than you can handle.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Navy Band Unit to Sikeston

50 years ago
September 23, 1918

Sikeston is again to be honored by having a visit from a musical organization which is being trained to enthuse and cheer the men of our navy. A detachment of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station Band of which Lt. John Phillip Sousa is director, will visit Sikeston on October 15th.

J. H. Tyer last week sold his farm of 80 acres at Tanner school house to Noah Randolph for $210 per acre. Mr. Randolph owns an adjoining farm. This is a fine piece of land and was worth the price paid. Mr. Tyer owns 240 acres near Canalou, most of which is improved. He has not as yet definitely decided where he and his family will locate.

F. S. Crowe, pastor of the Methodist Church at Oran, received appointment as chaplain in the army the latter part of last week, and will leave soon for a short course at the camp for chaplains at Frankfort, Ky.

James Angel, who had been making his home in Sikeston, but was teaching at Wardell, was found dead in his room at the Dillard Hotel in Wardell early Wednesday night with a bullet in his head.

Masonic Order Slates Special Music Concert

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Grand Lodge of Missouri Freemasons will present a concert, Monday evening, Sept. 30, featuring music composed especially for the fraternity by such artists as Mozart, Sibelius, Gilbert & Sullivan, and others.

The music will be performed by the Symphony Orchestra from the Conservatory of Music of the University of Missouri-Kansas City and the school's nationally known Heritage Singers.

The 147th annual communication of the Masonic fraternity in the state will open Monday. Grand Master William R. Denslow, chief officer for the 115,000 Masons in Missouri, said the concert at the Scottish Rite Temple will be open to members of the fraternity, their families and friends.

One composition will be presented in Missouri for the first time. It is the ritual music by the late Dutch composer, Willem Pijper, entitled "Six Adagios."

Other composers who will be represented in the concert include John Philip Sousa, George M. Cohan, Sigmund Romberg, and Irving Berlin.

MULTIPLICATIONS ARE CHEAPER

NEW YORK (AP) — In the late 1950s it cost $1.35 to perform 100,000 multiplications on the most efficient computer available, says Cybernetic Applications Inc., data processing consultants.

Today, the company says, the same function costs less than 3 cents.

The Prayer
from The Upper Room

"Now come along to some quiet place by yourselves, and rest for a little while," said Jesus. (Mark 6:31, Phillips).

PRAYER: Our Father, our lives are full of restlessness, of hustling and bustling. Teach us the value of rest for the refreshment of ourselves so that with more strength and gladness we may continue in our daily labors. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

If You Were the Judge

Golfer Must Pay For Guest's Injury

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Howard found himself in a golfer's dilemma. He shot a hole in one and there was no one around to see it. Consequently, he did the next best thing. He threw a party so that he could tell everyone about it. And, being rather eccentric, he insisted upon showing several of his golfing friends his "perfect swing" that enabled him to dunk the ace.

Unfortunately, as Howard "swished" around his club, he whacked poor defenseless Fred on the head. Not being a golfer himself, Fred took an even dimmer view of the incident and sued Howard for the birdie's he heard for weeks thereafter.

"I was off to the side minding my own business," Fred explained to the judge. "In fact, I was bored. I was invited to a party that turned out to be a golf ball."

"He can't sue me," was Howard's answer. "Under the law, the only duty a host has to a guest is not to wilfully injure him and, my hitting Fred was purely unintentional."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the eccentric Howard pay Fred for his injury?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held in effect that the host-guest relationship had no bearing on the case even though the accident happened on Howard's property. Simply, Howard was guilty of personal negligence in swinging his club.

Old Paper Tells Of Washington's Funeral Rites

Jack Hughes, 115 East St., has a copy of the Kingston, Ulster County, New York Gazette, dated Jan. 4, 1800, featuring the funeral procession of General George Washington.

The copy was given Hughes by a friend in Long Beach, Calif., and is either an original, or a reproduction made many years ago. The four-page issue is discolored from age and the edges frayed from handling.

The paper has four columns, each about two and one-half inches wide. The front page has announcements given by President John Adams, and the senate, expressing deep regret on the death of Washington.

The two inside pages have a one-fourth inch black border around each column, describing the funeral procession of Washington, including the entombment.

The funeral procession is outlined, describing the pallbearers on each side of the casket and included on left, colonels Sims, Ramsey, Payne, and on right, Colonels Gilpin, Marsteller and Little, followed by family mourners, Masonic brothers and citizens.

MISSOURI FINANCE CORPORATION FORMED TO AID INDUSTRIES

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. - The First Missouri Development Finance Corpoartion has as an immediate goal the creation or retention of 10,000 jobs for Missourians. This will not be achieved through government created work projects, but through a privately financed industrial loan organization.

In the past, if a firm wanted to expand or make capital improvements, it had to turn to a bank or other private loan institution. Many companies are considered "marginal risks" by banks, and therefore can not get a loan. Some small banks are also not equipped to make large capital improvement loans.

To fill this gap, the Missouri Bankers Association and the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce have been working the last five years to get the Missouri Development Corporation going. The corporation was formed by an act of The Legislature in 1961 and late amended in 1963.

The corporation is not then a part of the state government, although chartered by the State and under the supervision of the Commissioner of Finance. Thus, the creation of a possible 10,000 jobs a year and the expanding of industry in Missouri will coast the taxpayers nothing.

The basis of the Missouri Development Corporation is the pooling of the funds of the member banks. Any bank who joins agrees to lend the corporation two per cent of its capital and surplus.

The corporation pays the lending banks an interest rate of at least one-quarter of one percent over the existing prime rate. The firm borrowing the money then pays the corporation an additional two percent over the prize rate.

This does not make loans cheaper, but it does make it possible for even marginal riskfirms who have been turned down for conventional loans, add will be on either a five or ten year term.

Jack Pearson, of the State Chamber of Commerce, said that a similar program in Kansas resulted in 4,000 additional jobs the first year, but had started out with only half the capital of the Missouri Corporation.

Pearson described the program as "Private business's answer to providing long term capital and jobs. This is a sound business proposition at no cost to the taxpayer."

Loans will be made only to Missouri firms or to firms wishing to relocate in Missouri. A loan will not be granted to a firm desiring to move ints entire base of operations from on Missouri community to another.

A board of directors and executive committee have been selected and with the completion of stock sales next month, "Missouri's Newest Approach to Industrial Development," will be underway.

A HUSKY SPECIALIST

DENVER (AP) Ted Davis, 240-pound linebacker for the New Orleans Saints in the National Football League, has seen duty at Fitzsimons General Hospital near Denver this summer as a specialist fourth-class in the Army Reserves.

Ann Landers

Martyr Type Willing to Submit to Exploitation

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to N.Y. Dilemma, the woman whose husband suffered "a small stroke" and now demands all her time and attention? It happened to my father, or I should say to my mother. Although it was Father who had the "small stroke," it was Mother who died from it.

For 14 years Mother waited on him hand and foot -- "get me this . . . bring me that . . . I'm ready for my bath now . . . I'd like some hot tea." Mother pushed him around the house in a converted kitchen chair because he hated the idea of being in a wheel chair.

The first year Mother lost 15 pounds (which Father gained). She left the house only to bring in groceries or to do Father's errands. Her social life was zero. She dropped out of the bridge club, the church circle -- everything. She couldn't even have visitors to the house because Father was always needing something.

Mother died last year -- a blessed and welcome release from her slavery. Father is still alive -- in a convalescent home. If I knew 15 years ago what I know now, I would have insisted that Mother get a "sitter" for Father two afternoons a week and an evening or two as well. His stroke was slow death for her. -- BITTER.

Dear Bitter: The "slow death" you described was more than just exploitation by a sick and selfish person. It would not have occurred had your mother not been a martyr type who was willing to allow it.

Ann, Baby: Your column is a gas. Sometimes I cry my eyes out. Other times I bust up laughing. But those cutesy wootsy names like Bub, Buster, Buddy Boy, Cupcake and Lamb Chop detract from your otherwise sensible advice. So, knock it off, will you, Doll? Some of your correspondents are twice your age and you ought to be more respectful. -- ARCHIE

Dear Archie: Thanks. I'll watch it, Honeybun.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 35. My husband is 37. We are professional people and have a six-year-old daughter. We both feel that perhaps Ruth should have a little brother or sister. She is unusually precocious and somewhat spoiled. Frankly, I am less enthusiastic about a second child than my husband. While he has said he doesn't care one way or the other, I suspect he would be pleased if he had a son.

We agreed to leave it up to Ruth and yesterday we asked her how she would like to have a baby sister or brother. She made it clear that she doesn't want a new baby in the house and has threatened to run away if we "surprised" her with one.

What is your opinion, Ann? -- IN DOUBT

Dear In: A couple who would let a six-year-old decide whether or not to have another child is in a bad way. I'm afraid you may already have more than you can handle.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Masonic Order Slates Special Music Concert

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Grand Lodge of Missouri Freemasons will present a concert, Monday evening, Sept. 30, featuring music composed especially for the fraternity by such artists as Mozart, Sibelius, Gilbert & Sullivan, and others.

The music will be performed by the Symphony Orchestra from the Conservatory of Music of the University of Missouri-Kansas City and the school's nationally known Heritage Singers.

The 147th annual communication of the Masonic fraternity in the state will open Monday. Grand Master William R. Denslow, chief officer for the 115,000 Masons in Missouri, said the concert at the Scottish Rite Temple will be open to members of the fraternity, their families and friends.

One composition will be presented in Missouri for the first time. It is the ritual music by the late Dutch composer, Willem Pijper, entitled "Six Adagios."

Other composers who will be represented in the concert include John Philip Sousa, George M. Cohan, Sigmund Romberg, and Irving Berlin.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, Richard M. Nixon, campaigning for the vice presidency, went on nationwide radio and television to refute allegations of wrong-doing in accepting an $18,000 "expense fund."

On this date—

In 1789, the U.S. Supreme Court was established.

In 1845, the first baseball club in the United States, the Knickerbocker Club of New York, was organized.

In 1914, Dusseldorf was the target of the first British air raid on Germany in World War I.

In 1949, the Internal Security Act was adopted by Congress over President Harry S. Truman's veto. It provided for the registration of Communists and their internment in times of emergency.

Ten years ago - The United States announced that all new economic assistance to Indonesia would be withheld temporarily because of anti-British incidents and Indonesia's diplomatic break with Malaysia.

One year ago - The Soviet Union agreed to provide more weapons and aid to North Vietnam.

Ann Landers

Martyr Type Willing to Submit to Exploitation

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to N.Y. Dilemma, the woman whose husband suffered "a small stroke" and now demands all her time and attention? It happened to my father, or I should say to my mother. Although it was Father who had the "small stroke," it was Mother who died from it.

For 14 years Mother waited on him hand and foot -- "get me this . . . bring me that . . . I'm ready for my bath now . . . I'd like some hot tea." Mother pushed him around the house in a converted kitchen chair because he hated the idea of being in a wheel chair.

The first year Mother lost 15 pounds (which Father gained). She left the house only to bring in groceries or to do Father's errands. Her social life was zero. She dropped out of the bridge club, the church circle -- everything. She couldn't even have visitors to the house because Father was always needing something.

Mother died last year -- a blessed and welcome release from her slavery. Father is still alive -- in a convalescent home. If I knew 15 years ago what I know now, I would have insisted that Mother get a "sitter" for Father two afternoons a week and an evening or two as well. His stroke was slow death for her. -- BITTER.

Dear Bitter: The "slow death" you described was more than just exploitation by a sick and selfish person. It would not have occurred had your mother not been a martyr type who was willing to allow it.

Ann, Baby: Your column is a gas. Sometimes I cry my eyes out. Other times I bust up laughing. But those cutesy wootsy names like Bub, Buster, Buddy Boy, Cupcake and Lamb Chop detract from your otherwise sensible advice. So, knock it off, will you, Doll? Some of your correspondents are twice your age and you ought to be more respectful. -- ARCHIE

Dear Archie: Thanks. I'll watch it, Honeybun.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 35. My husband is 37. We are professional people and have a six- year-old daughter. We both feel that perhaps Ruth should have a little brother or sister. She is unusually precocious and somewhat spoiled. Frankly, I am less enthusiastic about a second child than my husband. While he has said he doesn't care one way or the other, I suspect he would be pleased if he had a son.

We agreed to leave it up to Ruth and yesterday we asked her how she would like to have a baby sister or brother. She made it clear that she doesn't want a new baby in the house and has threatened to run away if we "surprised" her with one.

What is your opinion, Ann? -- IN DOUBT

Dear In: A couple who would let a six-year-old decide whether or not to have another child is in a bad way. I'm afraid you may already have more than you can handle.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Looking Back

Navy Band Unit to Sikeston

50 years ago
September 23, 1918

Sikeston is again to be honored by having a visit from a musical organization which is being trained to enthuse and cheer the men of our navy. A detachment of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station Band of which Lt. John Phillip Sousa is director, will visit Sikeston on October 15th.

J. H. Tyer last week sold his farm of 80 acres at Tanner school house to Noah Randolph for $210 per acre. Mr. Randolph owns an adjoining farm. This is a fine piece of land and was worth the price paid. Mr. Tyer owns 240 acres near Canalou, most of which is improved. He has not as yet definitely decided where he and his family will locate.

F. S. Crowe, pastor of the Methodist Church at Oran, received appointment as chaplain in the army the latter part of last week, and will leave soon for a short course at the camp for chaplains at Frankfort, Ky.

James Angel, who had been making his home in Sikeston, but was teaching at Wardell, was found dead in his room at the Dillard Hotel in Wardell early Wednesday night with a bullet in his head.

Morehouse - Jack Edwards, who had been employed as night clerk in the Del Rey Hotel at Sikeston, has accepted a position with his uncle, W. B. Lacy, who is operating the Commercial Hotel in Kennett.

Sikeston's golfers defeated the team from Poplar Bluff Sunday afternoon at the Fairgrounds, 36 to 16. Clarence Scott of Sikeston turned in the low score -- 72. He was paired with Earl Arthur, one of Poplar Bluff's best shooters, who Sunday scored 80.

A practice tilt, to give experience to the Bulldog and Morehouse football squads, held Friday evening ended in a 7 to 6 victory for the Sikeston proteges of Coach Whitmer.

A son, Robert Williams, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Highland Schroff of New Madrid at the Emergency Hospital September 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Keller are parents of a son born at their home Tuesday night, whom they have named Don Frederick.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Methodist Church in Kennett for John Andrew Cowan, father of Mrs. H. A. Bach, who died at her home on North Ranney Tuesday of tuberculosis.

The Malone Insurance Agency, which has been operated for the past 28 years by the late colonel C. L. Malone, was sold today to Clay A. Mitchell and his sons, Robert and Charles, according to announcement made this morning by Mr. Mitchell.

Bertrand--Bennie Lee Mercer, 11 years old, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when he fell under a cotton truck and the rear wheels of the truck ran over him.

Robert Wayne Chappell, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Chappell of Smith Addition, suffered a fractured right leg last Wednesday morning when his mother unknowingly ran over him as she backed the car out of the driveway at home.

The Prayer
from The Upper Room

"Now come along to some quiet place by yourselves, and rest for a little while," said Jesus. (Mark 6:31, Phillips).

PRAYER: Our Father, our lives are full of restlessness, of hustling and bustling. Teach us the value of rest for the refreshment of ourselves so that with more strength and gladness we may continue in our daily labors. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Masonic Order Slates Special Music Concert

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Grand Lodge of Missouri Freemasons will present a concert, Monday evening, Sept. 30, featuring music composed especially for the fraternity by such artists as Mozart, Sibelius, Gilbert & Sullivan, and others.

The music will be performed by the Symphony Orchestra from the Conservatory of Music of the University of Missouri-Kansas City and the school's nationally known Heritage Singers.

The 147th annual communication of the Masonic fraternity in the state will open Monday. Grand Master William R. Denslow, chief officer for the 115,000 Masons in Missouri, said the concert at the Scottish Rite Temple will be open to members of the fraternity, their families and friends.

One composition will be presented in Missouri for the first time. It is the ritual music by the late Dutch composer, Willem Pijper, entitled "Six Adagios."

Other composers who will be represented in the concert include John Philip Sousa, George M. Cohan, Sigmund Romberg, and Irving Berlin.

MULTIPLICATIONS ARE CHEAPER

NEW YORK (AP) — In the late 1950s it cost $1.35 to perform 100,000 multiplications on the most efficient computer available, says Cybernetic Applications Inc., data processing consultants.

Today, the company says, the same function costs less than 3 cents.

Golfer Must Pay For Guest's Injury

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Howard found himself in a golfer's dilemma. He shot a hole in one and there was no one around to see it. Consequently, he did the next best thing. He threw a party so that he could tell everyone about it. And, being rather eccentric, he insisted upon showing several of his golfing friends his "perfect swing" that enabled him to dunk the ace.

Unfortunately, as Howard "swished" around his club, he whacked poor defenseless Fred on the head. Not being a golfer himself, Fred took an even dimmer view of the incident and sued Howard for the birdie's he heard for weeks thereafter.

"I was off to the side minding my own business," Fred explained to the judge. "In fact, I was bored. I was invited to a party that turned out to be a golf ball."

"He can't sue me," was Howard's answer. "Under the law, the only duty a host has to a guest is not to wilfully injure him and, my hitting Fred was purely unintentional."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the eccentric Howard pay Fred for his injury?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held in effect, that the host-guest relationship had no bearing on the case even though the accident happened on Howard's property. Simply, Howard was guilty of personal negligence in swinging his club.

MISSOURI FINANCE CORPORATION FORMED TO AID INDUSTRIES

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. - The First Missouri Development Finance Corpoartion has as an immediate goal the creation or retention of 10,000 jobs for Missourians. This will not be achieved through government created work projects, but through a privately financed industrial loan organization.

In the past, if a firm wanted to expand or make capital improvements, it had to turn to a bank or other private loan institution. Many companies are considered "marginal risks" by banks, and therefore can not get a loan. Some small banks are also not equipped to make large capital improvement loans.

To fill this gap, the Missouri Bankers Association and the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce have been working the last five years to get the Missouri Development Corporation going. The corporation was formed by an act of The Legislature in 1961 and late amended in 1963.

The corporation is not then a part of the state government, although chartered by the State and under the supervision of the Commissioner of Finance. Thus, the creation of a possible 10,000 jobs a year and the expanding of industry in Missouri will coast the taxpayers nothing.

The basis of the Missouri Development Corporation is the pooling of the funds of the member banks. Any bank who joins agrees to lend the corporation two per cent of its capital and surplus.

The corporation pays the lending banks an interest rate of at least one-quarter of one percent over the existing prime rate. The firm borrowing the money then pays the corporation an additional two percent over the prize rate.

This does not make loans cheaper, but it does make it possible for even marginal riskfirms who have been turned down for conventional loans, add will be on either a five or ten year term.

Jack Pearson, of the State Chamber of Commerce, said that a similar program in Kansas resulted in 4,000 additional jobs the first year, but had started out with only half the capital of the Missouri Corporation.

Pearson described the program as "Private business's answer to providing long term capital and jobs. This is a sound business proposition at no cost to the taxpayer."

Loans will be made only to Missouri firms or to firms wishing to relocate in Missouri. A loan will not be granted to a firm desiring to move ints entire base of operations from on Missouri community to another.

A board of directors and executive committee have been selected and with the completion of stock sales next month, "Missouri's Newest Approach to Industrial Development," will be underway.

Old Paper Tells Of Washington's Funeral Rites

Jack Hughes, 115 East St., has a copy of the Kingston, Ulster County, New York Gazette, dated Jan. 4, 1800, featuring the funeral procession of General George Washington.

The copy was given Hughes by a friend in Long Beach, Calif., and is either an original, or a reproduction made many years ago. The four-page issue is discolored from age and the edges frayed from handling.

The paper has four columns, each about two and one-half inches wide. The front page has announcements given by President John Adams, and the senate, expressing deep regret on the death of Washington.

The two inside pages have a one-fourth inch black border around each column, describing the funeral procession of Washington, including the entombment.

The funeral procession is outlined, describing the pallbearers on each side of the casket and included on left, colonels Sims, Ramsey, Payne, and on right, Colonels Gilpin, Marsteller and Little, followed by family mourners, Masonic brothers and citizens.

Ann Landers

Martyr Type Willing to Submit to Exploitation

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to N.Y. Dilemma, the woman whose husband suffered "a small stroke" and now demands all her time and attention? It happened to my father, or I should say to my mother. Although it was Father who had the "small stroke," it was Mother who died from it.

For 14 years Mother waited on him hand and foot -- "get me this . . . bring me that . . . I'm ready for my bath now . . . I'd like some hot tea." Mother pushed him around the house in a converted kitchen chair because he hated the idea of being in a wheel chair.

The first year Mother lost 15 pounds (which Father gained). She left the house only to bring in groceries or to do Father's errands. Her social life was zero. She dropped out of the bridge club, the church circle -- everything. She couldn't even have visitors to the house because Father was always needing something.

Mother died last year -- a blessed and welcome release from her slavery. Father is still alive -- in a convalescent home. If I knew 15 years ago what I know now, I would have insisted that Mother get a "sitter" for Father two afternoons a week and an evening or two as well. His stroke was slow death for her. -- BITTER.

Dear Bitter: The "slow death" you described was more than just exploitation by a sick and selfish person. It would not have occurred had your mother not been a martyr type who was willing to allow it.

Ann, Baby: Your column is a gas. Sometimes I cry my eyes out. Other times I bust up laughing. But those cutesy wootsy names like Bub, Buster, Buddy Boy, Cupcake and Lamb Chop detract from your otherwise sensible advice. So, knock it off, will you, Doll? Some of your correspondents are twice your age and you ought to be more respectful. -- ARCHIE

Dear Archie: Thanks. I'll watch it, Honeybun.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 35. My husband is 37. We are professional people and have a six- year-old daughter. We both feel that perhaps Ruth should have a little brother or sister. She is unusually precocious and somewhat spoiled. Frankly, I am less enthusiastic about a second child than my husband. While he has said he doesn't care one way or the other, I suspect he would be pleased if he had a son.

We agreed to leave it up to Ruth and yesterday we asked her how she would like to have a baby sister or brother. She made it clear that she doesn't want a new baby in the house and has threatened to run away if we "surprised" her with one.

What is your opinion, Ann? -- IN DOUBT

Dear In: A couple who would let a six-year-old decide whether or not to have another child is in a bad way. I'm afraid you may already have more than you can handle.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Navy Band Unit to Sikeston

50 years ago
September 23, 1918

Sikeston is again to be honored by having a visit from a musical organization which is being trained to enthuse and cheer the men of our navy. A detachment of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station Band of which Lt. John Phillip Sousa is director, will visit Sikeston on October 15th.

J. H. Tyer last week sold his farm of 80 acres at Tanner school house to Noah Randolph for $210 per acre. Mr. Randolph owns an adjoining farm. This is a fine piece of land and was worth the price paid. Mr. Tyer owns 240 acres near Canalou, most of which is improved. He has not as yet definitely decided where he and his family will locate.

F. S. Crowe, pastor of the Methodist Church at Oran, received appointment as chaplain in the army the latter part of last week, and will leave soon for a short course at the camp for chaplains at Frankfort, Ky.

James Angel, who had been making his home in Sikeston, but was teaching at Wardell, was found dead in his room at the Dillard Hotel in Wardell early Wednesday night with a bullet in his head.

Morehouse - Jack Edwards, who had been employed as night clerk in the Del Rey Hotel at Sikeston, has accepted a position with his uncle, W. B. Lacy, who is operating the Commercial Hotel in Kennett.

Sikeston's golfers defeated the team from Poplar Bluff Sunday afternoon at the Fairgrounds, 36 to 16. Clarence Scott of Sikeston turned in the low score -- 72. He was paired with Earl Arthur, one of Poplar Bluff's best shooters, who Sunday scored 80.

A practice tilt, to give experience to the Bulldog and Morehouse football squads, held Friday evening ended in a 7 to 6 victory for the Sikeston proteges of Coach Whitmer.

A son, Robert Williams, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Highland Schroff of New Madrid at the Emergency Hospital September 15.

The Malone Insurance Agency, which has been operated for the past 28 years by the late colonel C. L. Malone, was sold today to Clay A. Mitchell and his sons, Robert and Charles, according to announcement made this morning by Mr. Mitchell.

Bertrand--Bennie Lee Mercer, 11 years old, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when he fell under a cotton truck and the rear wheels of the truck ran over him.

Robert Wayne Chappell, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Chappell of Smith Addition, suffered a fractured right leg last Wednesday morning when his mother unknowingly ran over him as she backed the car out of the driveway at home.

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

"Now come along to some quiet place by yourselves, and rest for a little while," said Jesus. (Mark 6:31, Phillips).

PRAYER: Our Father, our lives are full of restlessness, of hustling and bustling. Teach us the value of rest for the refreshment of ourselves so that with more strength and gladness we may continue in our daily labors. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Masonic Order Slates Special Music Concert

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Grand Lodge of Missouri Freemasons will present a concert, Monday evening, Sept. 30, featuring music composed especially for the fraternity by such artists as Mozart, Sibelius, Gilbert & Sullivan, and others.

The music will be performed by the Symphony Orchestra from the Conservatory of Music of the University of Missouri-Kansas City and the school's nationally known Heritage Singers.

The 147th annual communication of the Masonic fraternity in the state will open Monday. Grand Master William R. Denslow, chief officer for the 115,000 Masons in Missouri, said the concert at the Scottish Rite Temple will be open to members of the fraternity, their families and friends.

One composition will be presented in Missouri for the first time. It is the ritual music by the late Dutch composer, Willem Pijper, entitled "Six Adagios."

Other composers who will be represented in the concert include John Philip Sousa, George M. Cohan, Sigmund Romberg, and Irving Berlin.

MULTIPLICATIONS ARE CHEAPER

NEW YORK (AP) — In the late 1950s it cost $1.35 to perform 100,000 multiplications on the most efficient computer available, says Cybernetic Applications Inc., data processing consultants.

Today, the company says, the same function costs less than 3 cents.

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, Richard M. Nixon, campaigning for the vice presidency, went on nationwide radio and television to refute allegations of wrong-doing in accepting an $18,000 "expense fund."

On this date—

In 1789, the U.S. Supreme Court was established.

In 1845, the first baseball club in the United States, the Knickerbocker Club of New York, was organized.

In 1914, Dusseldorf was the target of the first British air raid on Germany in World War I.

In 1949, the Internal Security Act was adopted by Congress over President Harry S. Truman's veto. It provided for the registration of Communists and their internment in times of emergency.

Ten years ago - The United States announced that all new economic assistance to Indonesia would be withheld temporarily because of anti-British incidents and Indonesia's diplomatic break with Malaysia.

One year ago - The Soviet Union agreed to provide more weapons and aid to North Vietnam.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, Richard M. Nixon, campaigning for the vice presidency, went on nationwide radio and television to refute allegations of wrong-doing in accepting an $18,000 "expense fund."

On this date—

In 1789, the U.S. Supreme Court was established.

In 1845, the first baseball club in the United States, the Knickerbocker Club of New York, was organized.

In 1914, Dusseldorf was the target of the first British air raid on Germany in World War I.

In 1949, the Internal Security Act was adopted by Congress over President Harry S. Truman's veto. It provided for the registration of Communists and their internment in times of emergency.

Ten years ago - The United States announced that all new economic assistance to Indonesia would be withheld temporarily because of anti-British incidents and Indonesia's diplomatic break with Malaysia.

One year ago - The Soviet Union agreed to provide more weapons and aid to North Vietnam.

Police Report Nine Arrests, Car Stolen

Richard Marshall, 18, 204 Bowman, was arrested by Sikeston police during the weekend and charged with burglary and stealing in connection with a breakin last week of the Riggs Wholesale Co., 800 West North St.

Sylvester Murphy, 214 Westgate, was arrested by police last week in connection with the same breakin. Investigation is continuing into the case, Police Chief Arthur Bruce said today. Some of the stolen items have been recovered, and one of the two suspects has admitted to taking part in breakins at the Texaco Bulk plant and the office of Beck and McCord Auction Co. Investigation is continuing in those cases also, Bruce said.

In other activity during the weekend, Clarence McCullough, route two, Sikeston, was charged Saturday with driving while intoxicated and careless and imprudent driving.

David O'Neal, 613 Carroll, was charged today with careless and imprudent driving. He was stopped at Murray Lane and South Kingshighway.

Boyd Sparks, Morehouse, reported to police at 2:23 p.m. Saturday that his black over gold 1968 Ford XL was stolen from the Missouri Delta Community Hospital between10 a.m. and 2:23 p.m. Saturday.

Author's Death Ruled Suicide

NEW YORK (AP) —The death of Charles Jackson, author of "The Lost Weekend," has been ruled suicide by assistant medical examiner Michael Baden.

Dr. Baden said Sunday that Jackson, 66, died in St. Vincent's Hospital Saturday of acute barbiturate poisoning.

A native of Summit, N.J., Jackson worked in Chicago and New York, then contracted tuberculosis and went to Daves, Switzerland, for his health. There, he began writing short stories and novels.

Monk With Stigmatic Stains Dies

SAN GIOVANNI ROTONDO, Italy (AP) - Padre Pio, the Roman Catholic monk who bore the stigmatic bloodstains recalling the wounds of the crucified Christ, died at his monastery here today. He was 81.

The Vatican never gave an official pronouncement itself on the case of Padre Pio, born Francesco Forgiene, son of a poor peasant in Southern Italy. He became a monk in 1903 and was ordained a priest in 1910.

He never left his monastery of St. Mary of Mercy after the stigma appeared on Sept. 20, 1918

As the story of Padre Pio spread, prosperity came to little San Giovanni Rotondo, in Italy's poor southland. Tourists, visitors and seekers of miracle cures came to his little town, at first by the thousands, finally at the rate of more than one million a year.

Monk With Stigmatic Stains Dies

SAN GIOVANNI ROTONDO, Italy (AP) - Padre Pio, the Roman Catholic monk who bore the stigmatic bloodstains recalling the wounds of the crucified Christ, died at his monastery here today. He was 81.

The Vatican never gave an official pronouncement itself on the case of Padre Pio, born Francesco Forgiene, son of a poor peasant in Southern Italy. He became a monk in 1903 and was ordained a priest in 1910.

He never left his monastery of St. Mary of Mercy after the stigma appeared on Sept. 20, 1918

As the story of Padre Pio spread, prosperity came to little San Giovanni Rotondo, in Italy's poor southland. Tourists, visitors and seekers of miracle cures came to his little town, at first by the thousands, finally at the rate of more than one million a year.
